SECTION IV CURRENT EVENTS

1-18-2025 1:00 p.m. c.t.: Free USPA Masterclass #60 Beverly Coleman presents: "Revisiting the Butterfly Buddha."

About this presentation:

This is a new twist of a very special Opening Ceremony to the 1995 USPA Conference. As USPA Celebrates its 50th year, we are honored to have Beverly Coleman generate another special event!

Beverly says, "Symbols are everywhere in our history. We communicate ideas, thoughts, and concepts through symbols. In Christianity, the cross represents a personality called Jesus and a specific event in his life. It is meant to be a reminder of spiritual philosophy. This talk is about symbols and signs all around us – signs meant to alert or awaken us, signs appearing in the most unexpected places like butterfly wings."

"Enlightenment" is a goal for a growing number of people today making the 'inner' world more popular than the 'outer' world. Our 'natural' i.e. 'Nature' world speaks to us with gentle, harmonious, artistic and musical messages.

We are fortunate to have many spiritual teachers – past and present – who have given us the tools, lessons, insights, and possible pathways to the inner world that is calling to us with an ever-increasing loud voice.

In this talk we will:

- Update the previous talk by reviewing the contributions of past master teachers with a look at their special message
- Discuss the newer group of teachers who are ready to teach us the "how" that allows us to achieve the enlightenment we seek
- Take a look at some of the new technology that advances vibrational medicine
- Connect some dots that give us hope and awareness we may be headed for multidimensional lives

Section VI In Case You Missed the Last Masterclass

12-14-2024 Toby Grotz and Dan Rodgers presented Masterclass #59 "Aether Theory and Srinivasan's Secret of Sankhya."

Toby Grotz Explored the Aether Theory and Its Applications! Srinivasan's Eclipse Experiment and its Implications for Aether Theory. Gopalakrishnan Srinivasan performed an experiment during a total solar eclipse in India on the 15th of January, 2010. The purpose of the experiment was to verify the principles derived in an alternate theory on the structure of the Universe, whereby space is identified as a medium with defined properties, whereas in Physics, scientists hold the opposite view that it is vacuous and empty.

Dan Rodgers presented "An American Engineer's Investigation into G. Srinivasan's 'Secret of Sankhya: Acme of Scientific Unification'" Abstract: Gopalakrishnan Srinivasan deciphered the Sankhya Karika over the past four decades to rediscover Natural Philosophy insights dating back over 32,000 years. He transliterated the 68 Sanskrit axiomatic Sutras in a two-volume treatise entitled "Secret of Sankhya: Acme of Scientific Unification."

Daniel Taylor Shared this article: “Effects of Intentionally-Treated Water on Cell Migration of Human Glioblastoma Cells”

The highlights:

- Glioblastoma is an aggressive brain cancer that is extremely difficult to treat, justifying exploration of alternative approaches
- One reason glioblastoma is so dangerous is that it migrates rapidly throughout the brain
- Under double-blind conditions, glioblastoma cells grown in a medium with water intentionally treated by Buddhist monks significantly reduced migration activity as compared to cells grown in control water.

The abstract:

Objective

This study investigated if human glioblastoma cancer cells (U87MG cell line) cultured in intentionally treated water could reduce cell migration, a prerequisite for metastasis, as compared to the same cells cultured in untreated (control) water.

Design

Three Buddhist monks entered a meditative state and directed their awareness to bottles of ultrapure water while holding the intention that the water would cause beneficial changes in U87MG. The study was conducted double-blind whereby all aspects of the study involving cell growth and migration measures, as well as all subsequent statistical evaluations, were performed without knowledge of the type of water being used. Cell cultures were incubated in growth mediums prepared with treated and untreated water, and a wound healing assay was employed to measure cell migration.

Results

U87MG cells incubated with treated water migrated less efficiently than the same cells in untreated water. A repeated measures ANOVA, spanning four time periods (0, 3, 6, and 9 h), determined that the time × water condition interaction was associated with  $p < 0.005$ .

Conclusion

Intentioned awareness appeared to change as-yet unknown properties of ultrapure water, resulting in a reduction of U87MG cells migration activity. Further research is warranted to replicate these results and to investigate the underlying protein expression mechanisms in influencing cell migration.

Introduction

Glioblastoma, a deadly form of brain cancer, is marked by its rapid growth and resistance to standard treatments, often leading to limited survival rates. Moreover, glioblastoma cells reportedly undergo extracranial metastasis, leading to poor prognosis.<sup>1,2</sup> The effectiveness of therapy is significantly affected by various patient-specific genetic factors, highlighting the complexity of the disease. Despite the use of a range of treatments, including surgery, radiation, and chemotherapy, many patients suffer from local recurrence, highlighting the urgent need for better therapeutic strategies to combat these challenging tumors.<sup>3</sup> This justifies exploration of unconventional approaches.

The approach we took was based on evidence suggesting that the human mind may interact directly with properties of the quantum world,<sup>4,5</sup> as suggested by the quantum observer effect.<sup>6</sup> Such mind-matter interactions (MMI) have been proposed to play a role in the quantum measurement process,<sup>7</sup> which has been supported by a series of experiments published by Radin et. al,<sup>8, 9, 10, 11, 12</sup> then successfully replicated by Vujanac et al<sup>13</sup> and Guerrer,<sup>14</sup> and independently reviewed by Milojević and Elliott.<sup>15</sup>

Those studies suggest that it may be possible to intentionally augment substances with new properties. For example, two previous double-blind placebo-controlled experiments found that intentionally treated chocolate in one case,<sup>16</sup> and oolong tea in a second case,<sup>17</sup> enhanced participants' mood as compared to mood in control groups. Other double-blind experiments indicated that intentionally treated water improved both plant growth<sup>18,19</sup> and proliferation and gene expression of human mesenchymal stem cells (MSCs).<sup>20</sup>

Given those studies and the lack of effective treatments for glioblastoma, we tested if mental intention could be used to limit glioblastoma cell migration. To do this, we incubated the U87MG cell line, derived from human glioblastoma cancer cells<sup>21</sup> and the commonest cell model for glioblastoma study,<sup>22</sup> with culture media prepared by intentionally treated water or untreated control water, and we measured cell migration by performing a wound healing assay. We hypothesized that intentionally treated water would result in less migration.

Intentional treatment

Water used to culture the glioblastoma cancer cells (U87MG) was produced by an ultrapure water system (Millipore, Billerica, MA, USA). Using this water, 20 glass bottles (1000 ml/bottle) were filled and randomly assigned by a research assistant (not otherwise involved in this study) into two groups, labeled A and B, using a truly random number generator (www.random.org, Randomness and Integrity Services Ltd., Dublin, Ireland).

The two groups of bottles were brought to the Bliss Wisdom Buddhist

Results

Cells cultured in media prepared by untreated water migrated more than cells grown in treated water (Table 1, Fig. 1). Table 2 shows the results of a repeated measures ANOVA (JASP, version 0.18.3, jasp-stats.org), where the result of interest was the interaction between the time of the migration measurement and the type of water, i.e., treated vs. control ( $p < 0.005$ ). A Levene's test for equality of variances indicated that the parametric assumptions of the data were satisfied, and application

Conclusion

Our results show that intentionally treated water reduced the migration activity of glioblastoma, an aggressive cancer that is extremely difficult to treat. Clinical trials would be required, and are possibly justified, to test if such water can provide an unorthodox therapeutic approach to treating glioblastoma.

Duncan Laurie Sent this Amazing and Historical Story in an Email to Scott:

Scott,

I'm not sure how much I can contribute to your efforts, but my best point of departure is the late R.J. Reynolds III. Josh Reynolds provided me with access to the Bearden's and then to Puharich, who was then living at Devotion, the Reynold's estate which I frequently visited. From there I got to know Elizabeth Rauscher a bit, who also wound up living at Devotion. Beyond them, I don't know many of the original radionics presenters beyond Peter Kelly, Eldon Byrd and Paul Lafolley.

Josh and I first met at my opening art exhibit at Visionary Gallery in NYC. We had friends in common and I eventually wound up helping Josh distribute small grants to people he considered worthwhile. I owed this opportunity to my friendship with a fellow artist Aymon de Roussy de Sales, an old friend of Josh's and direct descendent of Saint Francis de Sales. In that capacity I got to know Preston Nichols, Duncan Cameron and Terrence McKenna, among others. I introduced Josh and Aymon to Peter Kelly and inventor Jim Murray. Aymon and I took Josh to meet Kelly in Lakemont, Ga. Kelly had a sound machine there in his Lab, which he termed the Betar. Kelly had bought the Betar from its inventor, Michael Bradford, originally termed the Genesis or Cotyledon. Peter had hacked it to suit his own purposes and design. Josh proceeded to have a profoundly moving psychic experience during his Betar session with Kelly. This incident led Josh to purchase the device from Kelly and install it in New York at my residence in Long Island City.

The arrival of the Betar led to a whole new chapter; introducing artists to psychotronics. What a blast! The Music Machine (MM) as we now called it, proved to be the perfect means to make this connection tangible. As a listening device, it had an extraordinary psychic component which allowed the subject to explore their own consciousness, in a non-invasive manner. This discovery wasn't lost on others, mainly the Kelly's, Preston, and several other radionics friends of yours that built their own versions. I gradually became friends with some of my own generation of psychotronic writers and inventors, notably Tom Brown, Eric Dollard, Mike Theroux, Gerry Vassilatos, Eldon Byrd, and others. Notable in this group was the original inventor of this art medium, Michael Bradford, his family and associates. We all carried on a long and fruitful collaboration, during which the MM continued to be hacked and re-hacked by many subsequent contributors.

Michael Bradford was as much of an artist as an inventor. This fact was supremely important to the overall direction our work took with radionics. Let me try to explain. The radionics people are centered around treatment-based modalities. They are the doctors and you are the patients. It's a process that is ultimately invasive in nature. You have a condition to be treated; they have the device, skill and know-how to respond. As an artist, or someone looking for an artistic way to explain radionics, I found this approach didactic and authoritarian, thus unattractive artistically. It is effective, but not as good as saying to someone: have at it; we will provide an environment for a short while in which you can be anything, go anywhere, do anything your consciousness can imagine. If you don't like it, you can get off the device any time; there is no residual treatment or carry-over beyond what you wish to take with you. The MM approach is experiential and largely self-directed. Whatever the operator brings to the experience is more that of a DJ or an intuitive healer. Ego has no place in this modality. By that I mean a process void of dominant/submissive vibes, anything controlling or directed by an individual with their own agenda. In the modality we prefer, the source component is universal consciousness, not human, and the technology enables that priority. I might add my interest in Quantec today very much reflects this approach. I believe it is responsible for Quantec's worldwide success, with all due credit to the founder and his associates.

Returning to NYC for a moment, the MM enjoyed an underground artistic success. A series of video artworks were produced by theater writer/director Daffi Nathanson and people began to trickled over to the unknown environs of Long Island City. On the artistic end, Aymon was already well known in NY and was showing at Visionary Gallery on W. 86th St. Aymon had lived at Millbrook with Tim Leary and another Millbrook denizen and Visionary Gallery artist, Bjorn von Schlebrugge, (often credited as the inventor of psychedelic lighting) were a frequent visitor with their friends. Bjorn's sister Nena had married Leary at Millbrook. Later Bjorn became uncle to actress Uma Thurman by Nena's second marriage to Tibetan scholar, Bob Thurman. Both artists were instrumental in introducing the MM to a wider audience (see: <https://artnetweb.com/moobird/bio.html>). Other MM visitors your readership may know are UFO writer John Keel, poet Ira Cohen, and the inventor of remote viewing, Ingo Swann.

In the early 1990's I moved back to Rhode Island from New York. I married Kim Butler and we began a family. I also initiated construction of the Studio building you see on our website. When the top floor was finished, we moved the MM in and created a lab and began the experiments with plants and rocks you are familiar with. We had the expert assistance of Gordon Salisbury, an instrument designer and electronics technician. We became fascinated with the spontaneous expressions of plant and mineral consciousness and sought the means to sonify them. When these sounds were married to the MM, the sonic experience carried over into an eidetic experience in the mind's eye. This feature of the MM gave the listener not only sounds, but internal visuals generated from a source outside human consciousness, i.e. plants & rocks. It sounds implausible but we considered it a legitimate contribution to the development of art. When it came to writing The Secret Art, I am deeply indebted to Todd Thille, the books graphic designer and our webmaster and website developer. Todd provides a stylistic excellence to everything we did and continue to do now. Without these two individuals and the enthusiasm of Steve Nalepa, author, DJ and electronic music composer, we would not have enjoyed this extraordinary period of research and sharing it all with others.

The lab on the top floor of the Studio ended about 10 years ago when the building was refurbished and became a summer wedding venue. The MM, now known as the Purr Generator after Gordon's design modifications, went on tour to the Visionary Art Museum in Baltimore and then to the Gregg Museum at North Carolina State, through the generosity of the Gregg's director, Roger Manley. After a year or so in the public sphere, The MM was returned to RI and mothballed. Two summers ago, I resuscitated it here in DownEast Maine, where it remains functional but out of the public view.

I hope this summary is of some use when it comes to your proposed Zoom. As you must sense, while the importance of the founders of the USPA are of great historical interest and value, what remains (to me at least) of more significance is how all this knowledge gets conveyed into greater public awareness. Many of the founders sought the approval of science and medicine, with disastrous results to their persons and careers. Perhaps it is time to focus more upon the creative curiosity of the world's art community for future inspiration and direction?

Sincerely,
DUNCAN LAURIE

What is USPA?

The United States Psychotronics Association (USPA) is a federally recognized, nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization founded in 1975 to serve as a focal point for scientific and technical exploration of the universe of esoteric, spiritual, and psychic arts in the United States of America.

The USPA has been hosting annual conferences for its membership since its formation and has featured countless individuals with cutting-edge viewpoints, research, or theories to share, allowing any interested persons to openly discuss their work.

What is Psychotronics?

USPA defines psychotronics as the science of mind-body-environment relationships, an interdisciplinary science concerned with the interactions of matter, energy, and consciousness.

Psychotronics involves the study, research, and applications of the physics and technology of the mind, brain, spirit, consciousness, and the underlying forces of life and nature – hence the term “psychotronics.” A true understanding of the universe must include the spiritual as well as the technical. USPA provides an opportunity for amateur researchers to present their findings along with the professionals. USPA stresses research, with documentation of results, and practical applications, rather than personal experience and unsupported hypotheses.

With assistance from USPA, J.G. Gallimore's Books are Still Available on Amazon

Jerry G. Gallimore was one of the founders of the USPA in 1975, and was a leading researcher in psychotronics and unusual energies until his untimely death in 1989.

All five of J.G. Gallimore's rare books on psychotronics subjects and unusual energies have been reprinted by the United States Psychotronics Association (USPA) and are being made available at a fraction of the cost that used copies were being sold at online. Available at Amazon.com USPA Shares in the income from these sales.

So rare have these books been, that only a few libraries in the entire world had them in their collections, and some original Gallimore's books were being sold for several hundred dollars each online. However, with these newly reprinted volumes, each will be available for less than $30.00.

It covers Gallimore's research on Albert Abrams, the founder of modern radionics, psychological physics, psychic energy, thought resonance, subtle energies, crystals, and related subjects. In addition, a number of radionics devices are discussed, such as the De La Warr Diagnostic Instrument. And very helpfully, the rates are provided for substances, body organs, and medical diseases and disorders. I very interesting interview of Christopher Bird, conducted by J.G. Gallimore is provided, as well as a discussion of Walter Russell and his research                                                                                                            |                            |                                          |           |

This book describes in depth the research and theories of J.G. Gallimore into the question of "parapsychology transmission" -the question of how such things as telepathy, remote viewing, ESP, and similar phenomena can physically occur. He discusses the various emanations, radiations, and energy fields of all matter and life including the ancient Chinese energy called "chi" (qi), the ancient Indian's prana energy, Reichenbach's "odinic force," Gurwitsch's "mitogenic radiation," Wilhelm Reich's orgone energy, and other subtle energies. He shows how all of these energies are similar, how they interact, and how they are related to gravity. He also discusses crystals as transducers of these energies, and provides diagrams of devices that could potentially be used to harness or control these energies.

This book covers the visionary research and theories developed by J.G. Gallimore about anti-gravity, space, time, and biophysics. He discusses in depth the dimensions of space, time, and gravity, and new discoveries in each of these areas. In addition, he covers research being done on anti-gravity and then discusses anti-gravity patents that have been obtained.

He also discusses the intriguing concept of aura energy fields surrounding humans and other living things, and how extra-sensory perception (ESP) might be explained through biophysical principles.

This book is about psychotronics, radionics, electromagnetic fields and waves, psi-plasma, plasma fields, subtle energies, bio-electromagnetic energy, and other unusual energies emitted by living and non-living things. It also is about how living things interact with and are affected by these energies, which may enhance health or harm health.
