Section I – Masterclass #66 – Alex Suprun October 11, 2025- 1:00 pm Central Time

Masterclass #66 is “on the docket.” – marking five and a half years of these amazing free classes sponsored by USPA. All Free for re-viewing by any member of the Association.

This month’s masterclass will feature Alexander Suprun, presenting “Psychotronics: From Old Masters to New Technologies.”

The Class: Radionics represents one of the earliest attempts to create instrumentation for mind-matter interaction. The key principle of any old and modern psychotronic device is its ability to create a connection between human consciousness and subtle energies. What's fascinating is how this aligns with scientific quantum mechanical principles of observer effects and non-local interactions.

Alexander Suprun is an engineer by education, digital specialist by trade and a devoted psy & esoteric researcher by heart. Born under the Soviet “Iron Curtain” and briefly exposed to its psychotronic technology phenomena there, he dedicated the last 6 years of his life trying to merge ancient wisdom, unclassified research and modern technologies into compact and most powerful systems which can be used to defer Evil and help people restore and protect their health.

Section II – Sponsoring a Masterclass Would you sponsor Alexander’s Class??

Sponsorship is a two-way street.

Sponsors get recognition in our Saturday emails, in our monthly newsletters and a live ‘commercial,’ right before the Masterclass begins. How cool is that?

USPA gets a bit of a financial boost to help pay for all the bits and pieces that go into presenting these amazing classes.

Currently, our Saturday morning blasts go out to over 3,600 people! Yes, nearly four-thousand people across the globe are invited to join together for an hour or more – totally free, to listen to a scientist who gives his or her time – freely, that one of our main objectives: “To promote the free exchange, discussion and dissemination of information, theories, ideas and practices related to psychotronics” can be fulfilled on a continuous basis.

You might think – how expensive can it be – just Zoom, right? Well, that is the tip of our iceberg. We have several computer systems to be maintained and updated (at least every 7-10 years! 😊). We do pay for Zoom, for the ftp system that maintains our recordings, for MailChimp to keep you all informed and for a website to stuff full of all this information! Oh, and we also have a physical storage unit for all the cool stuff we need to put on a conference like the one in July in Crystal Lake.

So, if you are interested, the nuts and bolts of sponsorship are right behind this door.

Click on it and then, email Scott Beutlich to set it up at uspsychotronics@yahoo.com You’ll be in great company. See section XIV.

Psychotronics: From Old Masters to New Technologies- with Alexander Suprun

About the Class: Radionics represents one of the earliest attempts to create instrumentation for mind-matter interaction. While initially developed by Dr. Albert Abrams in the early 20th century, modern understanding of quantum mechanics and brainwaves coherence has shed new light on how these systems might actually function – thanks to the Old Masters, the Founding Fathers of USPA (Bob Beck, J.G. Gallimore, Tom Bearden, Bob Beutlich, Andrea Puharich, Marcel Vogel, Al Bielek, and many more!)

The key principle of any old and modern psychotronic device is its ability to create a connection between human consciousness and subtle energies. What's fascinating is how this aligns with scientific quantum mechanical principles of observer effects and non-local interactions.

Our research takes this foundation into the quantum mathematics realm, using modern technology and the latest mathematical theories (TeichMuller, Kletichka, Kalouza-Klen, Feynman) to measure and validate these interactions. A psychotronic computerized interface enhanced by portable Neurofeedback Headsets, serves as a structured way to focus consciousness and intent, while our quantum and brainwave measurements provide objective data about the resulting interactions.

Think of it as creating a technological bridge between mind and matter - where consciousness meets quantum reality in a measurable, reproducible way. This forms the basis for our recent hybrid computer software / electronics hardware developments, some of them “spiced” with Artificial Intelligence interpretation, which I will demonstrate.

I will also introduce our radionic balancing clothes and the most compact LIFE RING device recently developed - a one-of-a-kind wearable psychotronic device that combines the most advanced quantum and scalar energy treatment technologies into a single, elegant jewelry piece and does not require any electrical battery.

What sets our approach apart is the integration of modern science theoretical frameworks with practical psychotronic implementation, allowing researchers to explore consciousness-reality interactions using reliable, reproducible methods.

About Alex Suprun: Alex is an engineer by education, digital specialist by trade and a devoted psy & esoteric researcher by heart. Born under the Soviet “Iron Curtain” and briefly exposed to its psychotronic technology phenomena there, he dedicated the last 6 years of his life trying to merge ancient wisdom, unclassified research and modern technologies into compact and most powerful systems which can be used to defer Evil and help people restore and protect their health.

Alex teams up with anyone seriously interested in exploring the next generation of psychotronic and radionic technologies and groundbreaking ideas. Currently he works with a few dedicated people around the world to advance the existing platforms to a completely new level and explore practical ways to integrate the latest AI models with advanced psychotronic systems.

His group website is: <https://alsuprun.com/> Alex lives in a rural area near Montreal, Canada.

Section IV More Masterclasses Planned for this Fall

November 22nd 67th Masterclass - Alanna Moore - A Geomantic Life

Alanna was born in Sydney Australia. She was introduced to dowsing when living in London and joined the British Society of Dowsters in 1980. Returning to Sydney and befriending a well-known dowser Isobel Bellamy, she helped to found the New South Wales Dowsters Society in 1984. The only founder remaining, she helped the society celebrate its 40th anniversary in Sydney in November 2024. She now lives in Ireland.

December 6th - 68th Masterclass -Justine Bartleywood -Facebook’s “Radionics Woman”

Justine integrates Chinese Astrology, Radionics, and a lifetime of secret knowledge to identify and optimize the pathways between today and your perfect vision of tomorrow. More on Justine's presentation in emails to come.

Section V – A Bit of Recap

In case you missed September’s Masterclass – Dan Mangum presented “Using Radionics with Natural Energies”

The USPA Newsletter for July / August came out before plans were set for the September Masterclass. We want to give proper thanks to Dan Mangum for being our 65th Masterclass Presenter. Dan also presented our Masterclasses #36 and #54!

His talk this September was “Using Radionics With Natural Energies For Problem Solving: Agnihotra, Orgone Energy, and More.”

As Dan explained, “The world today presents us with a myriad of problems. Most of them are results one way or another of modern technology. However, using old “technologies” and enlisting the power of nature to be great ways of mitigating the effects, and restoring balance. One of the advantages of radionics is that it can easily work with so many other modalities and energies, including Agnihotra, Orgone energy, and other things.”

Dan Mangum is a radionic researcher who uses radionics to maintain a garden, greenhouse, fruit and nut trees, honeybees, a handful of horses and Shetland sheep, and his dogs. He also makes and sells radionic reagents and programs as well as an external antenna/rub plate of his own design and has authored 2 books on radionics.

His background includes studying mysticism, magic and world religions for 30 years. He utilizes rife machines, orgone accumulators, homeopathy, and biodynamics. Dan is a licensed electrician who occasionally installs off grid solar power and lives off grid himself. His video is recorded and available in our shop and Members only.

August 25, 2025 – Dr. Michelle Peal – “The Gathering”

USPA hosted a very special evening August 25th, 2025, in cooperation with Roxanne Matica and Dan Mangum, who monthly present a special phone group called “Roxanne’s Quantum Empowerment Call.”

Dr. Peal had stirred some excitement at our 42nd USPA Conference in Crystal Lake with her afternoon lecture “Quantum Energy, Radionics & You.” With only a week’s notice, nearly 200 people signed into Zoom to be part of her presentation! This recorded video can be found in our “Members” tab on our website, under “Special Event Videos.” It is also in our Shop.

Section VI - John Reed Shared An Announcement: A Company is Formed to Fund Breakthrough Technologies and Benefit USPA

A new company called Breakthrough Technologies Investment Fund (BTIF) has recently been established for the development and production of highly innovative devices in the psychotronics, healing, and new energy fields.

BTIF was founded by John H. Reed and Nick Begich, Sr. who together are providing $100,000.00 as initial investment funds for inventors and developers of such devices. They have generously offered that any net income or other benefits from investments of their initial $100,000 will go to USPA. It is hoped that others with a strong interest in the development of breakthrough technologies in the psychotronics, healing, and new energy fields will join with BTIF, so that the investment fund can grow and be able to fund even more inventors and startup companies.

Proposals and applications for funding are being accepted, but with the clear understanding that any funding is contingent upon thorough due diligence. BTIF will consider proposals for the following types of devices:

1. Psychotronic and other technologies affecting the brain and mind. These would include devices whose use will enhance memory, intelligence, learning, or knowledge acquisition; enhance psychic abilities of any kind, such as remote viewing, telepathy, psychometry, or spiritual healing; enhance the placebo and other mind-body effects to treat one’s own diseases and disorders;
2. Health, wellness, and healing devices: Devices using micro-currents, electromagnetic waves, magnetic fields, sound waves, subtle energies, scalar, or torsion field technologies: to diagnose or treat diseases and disorders of any kind, but especially microbial diseases, cancer, Alzheimer’s, and drug addiction; to counteract the negative health effects of 5-G and other negative waves and fields in the environment; to enhance the immune system; and devices that have anti-aging and rejuvenation effects, such as the Dotto Ring, the Priore machine, and Lakhovsky technology.
3. New Energy and Propulsion Devices: This would include any device that generates usable electricity or propulsion operating on new principles of energy production, such as zero-point energy, vacuum energy, magnetic fields, anti-gravity, water as fuel, nitrogen as fuel, or any other “free energy” method.

The development and production of any of these devices could potentially have a dramatic effect on the betterment and advancement of humanity. So if you have developed or are developing any such device, or know someone else who has done so, please send us information or a proposal, and we will follow up with you. Please send all communications by email, with attachments, if necessary, to John H. Reed, M.D. at joreed43@gmail.com. You can also phone 443-858-0757. Our mailing address is: Breakthrough Technologies Investment Fund, 6800 Roosevelt Ave., #701, Allen Park, MI 48101.

Section VII – Ongoing work and Calls for Help

“We need to form a team to build this machine.” Wrote Toby Grotz

Toby Grotz has been busy. He sent this email in August:

“Gail and F/E [Free Energy] Panel,

Here are rescans of the Srinivasan Material provided by Jeane at higher resolution and in color. We got these just before the master class. [USPA Masterclass #59 Aether Theory and Srinivasan's' Secret of Sankhya with Toby Grotz and Dan Rodgers]

This should go in the Library somewhere. In the description of Masterclass #59 Aether Theory and Srinivasan's' Secret of Sankhya with Toby Grotz and Dan Rodgers 1:54:51 it should be noted that wiring diagrams are located in the Library. ... Provide a link? During the Master Class video at about 30 minutes in, I mention that the files would be up on the USPA website.

Please mention in the next newsletter that these wiring diagrams are available and that the video explaining Srinivasan is available. We need to form a team to build this machine.

Best wishes

Toby”

Help Needed to Track Down Former USPA Speakers – Another John Reed Project

Do any of you have skills in family tree research, genealogy, or finding people with online people finders? If so, we need your help to find former USPA conference speakers, or their families, as far back as 1975, when the first conference was held. We want to reach out to them to make sure that their research papers and collections are preserved by the USPA, or at some other appropriate organization or institution.

If you can help, or know someone else who can, please contact the USPA Librarian and archivist, John Reed, at: Joreed43@gmail.com, or you can call or text him at 443-858-0757. Thanks for supporting USPA and the quest for preserving the research, and papers of these great scientists.

A Query From A Reader re Hulda Clark's Zapper

A reader named Charles has asked: “I would like to ask if anyone is familiar with Dr. Hulda Clark's Zapper? I know of people who use it that were cured when the medical community couldn't help a young child with dozens of seizures a day to none and thriving at the age of 27. If you know of anyone that has had success with device, could you point me in the right direction?”

If you would like to connect to Charles, please send an email to me (Gail the editor) and I will share it with Charles. Please email me (Gail Wind) with your name and email and a brief comment about his inquiry. Thanks!

RADIONICS: Dan Taylor offered a link to an article by Mitch Horowitz, "The difficulty of determining what is true."

There exists one direct exchange between parapsychology pioneer J.B. Rhine and pseudo-skeptic James Randi. It says it all.

“A thousand skeptic hands won't keep us from the things we plan / Unless we're clinging to the things we prize.”—Howard Jones, Things Can Only Get Better

This is a parable of authentic versus pretended query in matters of parapsychology, or scientific study of ESP and related anomalies. It requires background. Because background, and the facts that compose it, are exactly what pseudo-skepticism has obfuscated.

In the late 1920s, parapsychologist J.B. Rhine (1895-1980) and his wife and intellectual partner Louisa Rhine (1890-1983) began work at what became the Parapsychology Laboratory at Duke University. The Rhines' efforts to test for ESP and other psi phenomena inaugurated parapsychology as an academic field.

Criticism was swift and, at times, withering. First, critics attacked the math. It stood up. Sir Ronald Aylmer Fisher (1890-1962), then one of the worldwide authorities on statistics and probability, wrote J.B. on August 20, 1934: “I should judge that your method somewhat exaggerated the significance of the combined result”—he was no sympathizer—“but not to a sufficient amount to affect your conclusions.”

[Ed note: I am including the bulk of this article at the end of this newsletter, as I found it rather fascinating. If you wish to see it with all the movie trailers and comments, here's the link:

<https://mitchhorowitz.substack.com/p/the-difficulty-of-determining-what>

James Randi convinced many in his large audience that water dowsing is ineffective. Dan Taylor shared a link to dispute this. “The Scientific Testing of Dowsing.” September 4, 2025 , 2:55 pm , Paranormal News, Parapsychology Articles & Paranormal Books & Podcasts 2025

James Randi was a magician and pseudoscience investigator who conducted numerous water dowsing tests in a range of countries to determine dowser efficacy. The tests mostly required test participants to find buried pipes containing running water and were all similar in design and execution. Substantial cash prizes were on offer to any dowser who could demonstrate accurate dowsing skill, but the money was never claimed as the dowsers failed to find hidden water samples at a rate better than chance.

This led James Randi to conclude that water dowsing does not work and that the dowsers are deluded. James Randi convinced many in his large audience that water dowsing is ineffective. But, have people been deceived by his test results and tricked into believing something that is not supported with valid scientific evidence?

Over time, James Randi gained an enormous following, particularly people who were skeptics. He was seen as someone able to expose frauds who claimed to possess paranormal abilities. The consistently negative results of his water dowsing tests appeared to be reliable, convincing, and compelling evidence that water dowsing does not work. Many trusted the validity of his test results and blindly adopted his conclusions. However, none of the water dowsing tests that James Randi designed and conducted were valid scientific experiments, which left him with no reliable data on which to base appropriate conclusions about water dowsing. I drew this conclusion after completing in-depth analyses of all the tests he conducted where adequate information about them was available for scrutiny. Many of my findings are discussed below.

A Question of Names, by Gail Wind

There has been a ripple of conversation about our name. One of our email readers said, “A name change, even a small tweak, and reboot can sometimes work wonders.” As a nearly 40-year volunteer / member of USPA, I was personally perplexed by the thought.

We're 50 years old! We have held 42 in-person Conferences, including co-sponsoring an international conference. We have upgraded as the world upgrades. We have gone from cassettes, to DVDs to mp4s. we have upgraded, overhauled, and redesigned our website. We've gone from 7 videos for sale to 700. We have a member's only space that offers over 150 free videos for members. Our library has 10+ years of digital newsletters. Our Masterclass presenters have generously offered papers, charts, PowerPoints, photos, and notes to supplement their talks – also in our library. We not only survived a word-wide Pandemic, we thrived! Our membership increased. Our online email audience rose to 3,700 people!! Our Masterclasses have been amazingly well received. You know, several years ago, we changed our logo. We went from

To:

But we kept our name. Our unique, stand proud name. I did a bit of research on the topic of name change. This is what I found:

Changing the name of an organization can either help or hurt business, depending on the reasons for the change and how effectively it is managed.

Potential benefits of changing a name

- Pivoting the business: A new name can be beneficial if the organization is significantly changing its focus, target market, or mission, for example, shifting from wedding planning to general event planning.
- Rebuilding a damaged reputation: If a company faces a scandal or significant negative press, a new name can help distance it from those associations, according to Pariveda Solutions.
- Mergers and acquisitions: When two companies merge, or one acquires another, a new name may be essential to unify the brand and reflect the combined entity's capabilities.
- Overcoming an outdated or limiting name: As a business evolves, its original name might no longer be relevant or might hinder expansion into new areas.
- Addressing market confusion or legal issues: If the existing name is too similar to competitors or faces trademark conflicts, a change may be necessary.
- Attracting a new target audience: A new name can help reposition the company and appeal to a different demographic or expand the reach of the brand.

Potential risks and disadvantages

- Loss of Brand Recognition & Equity: If the company has built significant brand recognition and trust under the old name, changing it can lead to confusion and a loss of goodwill.
- Confusion and Inconsistency: Customers and employees might be confused by a new name, and if the transition is poorly managed, it can lead to inconsistency in branding and messaging.
- Financial Costs: Rebranding can be an expensive endeavor, involving updating marketing materials, signage, legal documents, and website, as well as potential costs for market research and advertising.
- Resistance to Change: Employees, stakeholders, and even customers might be resistant to a name change, leading to pushback and lack of enthusiasm for the new identity.

Section XII “Members Only” Presentations for Free Online Viewing

One big advantage to being a member of USPA is the Members Only page of our website.

We have over 225 presentations FREE for viewing by USPA members. If you are not a member yet, you can ‘fix’ that in just a few minutes at <https://www.psychotronics.org/join/>

The full list of Masterclasses in the Members Tab on the Website was getting unwieldy. Suffice it to say that ALL MASTERCLASS videos are in the Members Only tab of our website, along with 140 other videos, audios and publications! We will present only the 10 most recent in this list. For the titles of the rest, you can check our Shop – they are all for sale too! Master Class Videos for Sale.

What is USPA?

The United States Psychotronics Association (USPA) is a federally recognized, nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization founded in 1975 to serve as a focal point for scientific and technical exploration of the universe of esoteric, spiritual, and psychic arts in the United States of America.

The USPA has been hosting annual conferences for its membership since its formation and has featured countless individuals with cutting-edge viewpoints, research, or theories to share, allowing any interested persons to openly discuss their work.

Let Them Debate

What is Psychotronics?

USPA defines psychotronics as the science of mind-body-environment relationships, an interdisciplinary science concerned with the interactions of matter, energy, and consciousness.

Psychotronics involves the study, research, and applications of the physics and technology of the mind, brain, spirit, consciousness, and the underlying forces of life and nature – hence the term “psychotronics.” A true understanding of the universe must include the spiritual as well as the technical. USPA provides an opportunity for amateur researchers to present their findings along with the professionals.

USPA stresses research, with documentation of results, and practical applications, rather than personal experience and unsupported hypotheses.

J.G. Gallimore’s Books are Still Available on Amazon - through assistance from USPA

Jerry G. Gallimore was one of the founders of the USPA in 1975, and was a leading researcher in psychotronics and unusual energies until his untimely death in 1989.

All five of J.G. Gallimore’s rare books on psychotronics subjects and unusual energies have been reprinted by the United States Psychotronics Association (USPA) and are being made available at a fraction of the cost that used copies were being sold at online. Available at Amazon.com USPA Shares in the income from these sales.

So rare have these books been, that only a few libraries in the entire world had them in their collections, and some original Gallimore’s books were being sold for several hundred dollars each online. However, with these newly reprinted volumes, each will be available for less than $30.00.

The Handbook of Unusual Energies: Volume	ISBN-13: 978-1543024999	The 1st book of 3 on unusual energies	468 Pages
Gallimore discusses in depth the research, discoveries, and inventions of all the major researchers in subtle energies, the aether, biological 62 fields, pyramid energy, radiesthesia, radionics, crystal transduction, and related subjects. These include the works of Baron von Reichenbach's and his odic energy, Dr. Wilhelm Reich's orgone energy, Dr. Harold Burr's biological life fields, Kozyrev's time mirror, Edgar Cayce's transmission of energy, and related research done by many others.

Of particular importance is Gallimore's 127-page chapter on radionics. In this chapter he discusses in depth the research and devices of Ruth Drown, T. Galen Hieronymus, Rho Sigma, Dr. L. P. Corte, and other prominent people in the radionics field.

Collected Properties & Writings of J. G. Gallimore: Volume 2	ISBN-13: 978-1543025040	The 2nd book of 3 on unusual energies	258 Pages

This is the second book in the "Unusual Energies" series that J.G. Gallimore published. It covers Gallimore's research on Albert Abrams, the founder of modern radionics, psychological physics, psychic energy, thought resonance, subtle energies, crystals, and related subjects.

In addition, a number of radionics devices are discussed, such as the De La Warr Diagnostic Instrument. And very helpfully, the rates are provided for substances, body organs, and medical diseases and disorders. I very interesting interview of Christopher Bird, conducted by J.G. Gallimore is provided, as well as a discussion of Walter Russell and his research

Relationship Between Parapsychology and Gravity: Vol. 3	ISBN-13: 978-1543024944	The 3rd book of 3 on unusual energies	228 Pages

This book describes in depth the research and theories of J.G. Gallimore into the question of "parapsychology transmission" -the question of how such things as telepathy, remote viewing, ESP, and similar phenomena can physically occur. He discusses the various emanations, radiations, and energy fields of all matter and life including the ancient Chinese energy called "chi" (qi), the ancient Indian's prana energy, Reichenbach's "odinic force," Gurwitsch's "mitogenic radiation,"

Wilhelm Reich's orgone energy, and other subtle energies. He shows how these energies are similar, how they interact, and how they are related to gravity. He also discusses crystals as transducers of these energies, and provides diagrams of devices that could potentially be used to harness or control these energies.

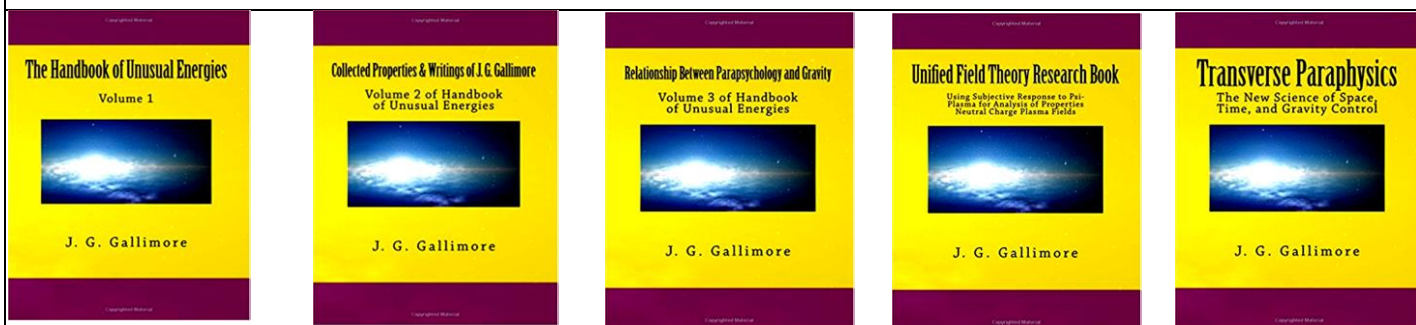

Transverse Paraphysics: The New Science of Space, Time, and Gravity Control	ISBN-13: 978-1543024920	Gallimore's fourth book	374 Pages

This book covers the visionary research and theories developed by J.G. Gallimore about anti-gravity, space, time, and biophysics. He discusses in depth the dimensions of space, time, and gravity, and new discoveries in each of these areas. In addition, he covers research being done on anti-gravity and then discusses anti-gravity patents that have been obtained.

He also discusses the intriguing concept of aura energy fields surrounding humans and other living things, and how extra-sensory perception (ESP) might be explained through biophysical principles.

Unified Field Theory Research Book: Using Subjective Response to Psi-Plasma	ISBN-13: 978-1543024838	Gallimore's Fifth book	134 Pages
--	----------------------------	------------------------	-----------

This book is about psychotronics, radionics, electromagnetic fields and waves, psi-plasma, plasma fields, subtle energies, bio-electromagnetic energy, and other unusual energies emitted by living and non-living things. It also is about how living things interact with and are affected by these energies, which may enhance or harm health.

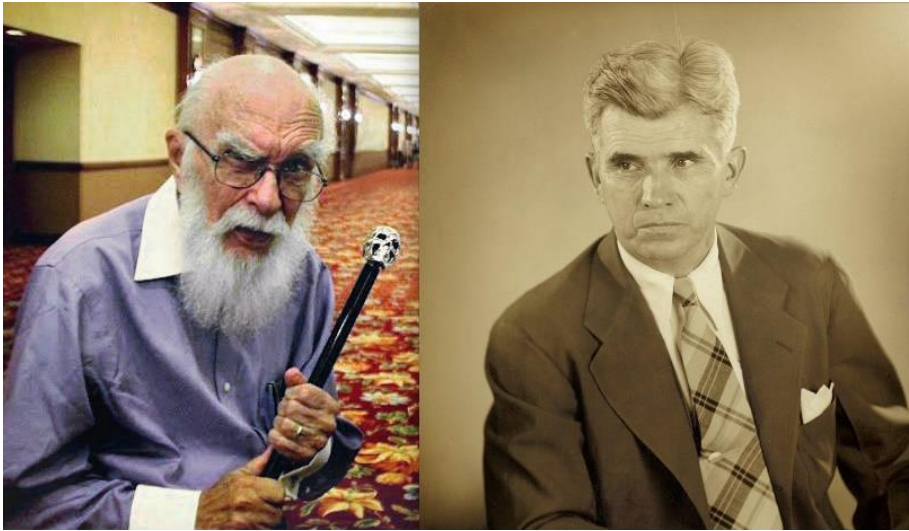

MYSTERY ACHIEVEMENT

"The difficulty of determining what is true"

There exists one direct exchange between parapsychology pioneer J.B. Rhine and pseudo-skeptic James Randi. It says it all.

background, and the facts that compose it, are exactly what pseudo-skepticism has obfuscated.

In the late 1920s, parapsychologist J.B. Rhine (1895-1980) and his wife and intellectual partner Louisa Rhine (1890-1983) began work at what became the Parapsychology Laboratory at Duke University. The Rhines' efforts to test for ESP and other psi phenomena inaugurated parapsychology as an academic field.

Criticism was swift and, at times, withering. First, critics attacked the math. It stood up. Sir Ronald Aylmer Fisher (1890-1962), then one of the worldwide authorities on statistics and probability, wrote J.B. on August 20, 1934: "I should judge that your method somewhat exaggerated the significance of the combined result"—he was no sympathizer—"but not to a sufficient amount to affect your conclusions."

Validation continued. Parapsychologist Dean Radin noted in the 2010 edition of his book, The Conscious Universe:

The early statistical criticisms were finally settled by statistician Burton Camp of Wesleyan University. Camp was the president of the Institute of Mathematical Statistics in 1937. In December of that year, he released a statement to the press that read: "Dr. Rhine's investigations have two aspects: experimental and statistical. On the experimental side mathematicians, of course, have nothing to say. On the statistical side, however, recent mathematical work has established the fact that, assuming that the experiments have been properly performed, the statistical analysis is essentially valid. If the Rhine investigation is to be fairly attacked, it must be on other than mathematical grounds.

Undaunted, psi skeptics assailed the Rhines' experiments on grounds of replicability. One recently wrote my colleague Stacy Horn, author of the impeccable Unbelievable, this slightly clunky statement on Facebook: "First of all, as I know you know,"—this is stock skeptic phraseology—"Duke's Parapsychology Lab because their methods didn't hold up to basic scientific standards. The Rhines ran studies with poor controls, shaky statistics, and no ability to replicate results."

That is wrong. In 2020, parapsychologist Rick Berger, Ph.D., broke down the numbers for the Parapsychological Association: "In the five years following Rhine's first publication of his results, 33 independent replication experiments were conducted at different laboratories. Twenty (20) of these (or 61%) were statistically significant (where 5% would be expected by chance alone)."

In his 1975 presidential address to the Parapsychological Association, a professional society for parapsychologists, Charles Honorton (1946-1992) said:

30 August 1934.

Dear Professor Rhine,

Thanks for your letter of August 8th.

(*) I have read through the appendix to Chapter II and cannot see what ground there is for objection against the general use of the ratio $\frac{D}{p.e.}$ as you have done. With respect to obtaining a combined probability, from the probabilities obtained in a number of separate tests of significance, you might find it worthwhile to compare what you have done with the method I suggest in Section 21.4, page 97 of the fourth edition of my "Statistical Methods". I forget which edition it first appeared in. I should judge that your method somewhat exaggerated the significance of the combined result, but not to a sufficient amount to effect your conclusions.

Yours sincerely,

[* J.B. Rhine Extra-Sensory Perception]

parapsychologists there is a rather widespread belief that most of the independent replication of the early Duke work were non-confirmatory and I suspect this may be especially true among those of us who were not around in the 1930's (which, incidentally, accounts for about three-fourths of the participants at this convention). In fact, I was surprised myself to find that this wasn't so when I undertook a review of all the English-language ESP experiments reported during the period between 1934 and 1939.

Honorton's effort involved a database of about 3.3 million individual trials. He described further:

During the five-year period following publication of J.B. Rhine's Extra-Sensory Perception in 1934, the scientific community responded as it should to any claim of new discovery, by disseminating both positive and negative research findings, by careful scrutiny of the experimental and evaluative techniques, and by encouraging fresh replication efforts. During this period there were approximately 60 critical articles by 40 authors, published primarily in the American psychological literature. Fifty experimental studies were reported during this period, two-thirds of which represented independent replication efforts by other laboratories of the Duke University work.

Honorton found that “61 percent of the independent replications of the Duke work were statistically significant. This is 60 times the proportion of significant studies we would expect if the significant results were due to chance or error.”

What about those “poor controls”? Even close to fifty years later, the Rhines’ most implacable critics were still attempting to wish away their results by fantastical (and often feckless) fraud theories, including prominent English skeptic C.E.M. Hansel’s nearly vaudevillian supposition in his 1980 study ESP and Parapsychology that one of the test subjects, Hubert Pearce, repeatedly crawled through a ceiling space to peek at cards through a (nonexistent) trapdoor over the lab.

At such excesses, rationalists (or, as the record suggests, pseudo-rationalists) fail the test that Enlightenment philosopher David Hume (1711–1776) set for validation of miracles: counterclaims must be less likely than reported phenomena. For all that, belief, sentiment, and emotion die hard—if ever.

“The Amazing Randi”

Enter soi-disant skeptic, stage magician, and MacArthur Fellow James Randi (1928–2020), founder and reigning eminence of professional skepticism, eulogized by The Guardian as the “prince of reason.”

In a core sample of the prince of reason’s use of fraud—in defense of self-conceptualized rationalism—the psi-buster lied. Not “honestly,” as in a 2014 hagiographic documentary, but the regular kind.

As previously reported, Randi maintained an educational foundation whose activities were not always clear, though redounded him a $195,000 annual salary. The James Randi Educational Foundation issued a short guidebook for schoolteachers to teach students in grades 9 through 12 about ESP research and parapsychology. As of this writing, it remains available. Do You Have ESP?: Teacher Edition (copyrighted 2010 and 2012) states without sourcing: “It is now well established that Rhine and his colleagues had been allowing themselves to ignore much of the data they had collected and reported only those with positive results. Negative data were set aside.”

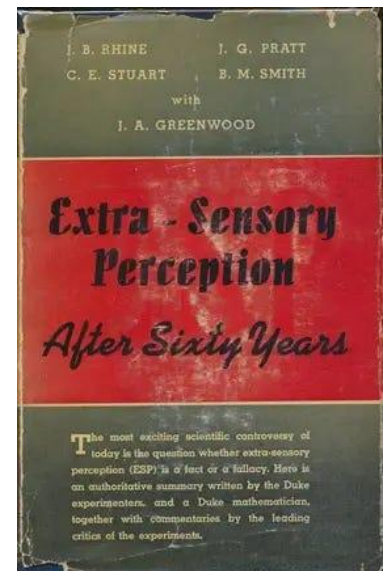

Rhine not only reported all results but, at a time when it was common practice among social scientists to report selectively, he took the lead in reversing that convention and elevating the general standards of the field.

In the 1940 book Extra-Sensory Perception After Sixty Years, Rhine and his collaborators assembled all data, including that which remained unpublished. They meta-analyzed everything before that practice was common or the term coined.

In a nearly remarkable exception, even Wikipedia, as of this writing, states in its article on “Meta-analysis:” “The first meta-analysis of all conceptually identical experiments concerning a particular research issue, and conducted by independent researchers, has been identified as the 1940 book--length publication Extrasensory Perception After Sixty Years.” (Watch for this to change. The James Randi Educational Foundation granted its 2017 award to the self-described “Guerilla Skeptics” who continually spike and rewrite Wiki pages on parapsychology to satisfy materialist politics.)

In his free teachers’ guide, Randi overtly misled grade-school educators into telling students that the problem with Rhine’s research is he hid bad results. After decades in the media, the leading skeptic knew the facts. This record—this record—is what moves a skeptic in 2025 to write, “as I know you know.”

Tension between query and sentiment is a flipped narrative compared to conventional perceptions. If what I describe can be historically embodied, the side of query appears in the persona J.B. Rhine—whose work is linked at the end of this article—with his lago as The Amazing Randi, whose career I likewise document below. The media skeptic Randi, in his greatest performance, brutalized truth—including in his checkered Million Dollar Challenge—while heralding its virtue. Mark Twain could not have better satirized the matter.

The Challenge

Thanks to journalist Horn, I recently came into possession of a 1964 exchange of letters between the two men—the only such correspondence I personally know. It is housed in the Archives and Manuscripts Collection at Duke University.

Randi wrote to Rhine on occasion of the magician taking over the long-running late-night radio show hosted by Long John Nebel (1911-1978), the Art Bell of his era who popularized discussion of UFOs and the paranormal—topics Randi compactly defined in his 1982 study: Flim-Flam! Psychics, ESP, Unicorns, and Other Delusions

I found J.B.'s response to Randi's invitation—which he politely refused—a fitting statement of ethics for virtually all media queries from low-rent hosts, producers, podcasters, and partisans.

Lest anyone think I avoid skeptics—I chase them. Two of the most credentialed—the estimable Michael Shermer, publisher of Skeptic magazine, and University of Kansas anthropology professor John Hoopes (who since proffering himself as a media skeptic has locked his “tweets”) have dodged my debate invitations. I have known Professor Hoopes, at times collegially, more than fifteen years.

Dear Dr. Rhine:

Please excuse the rather sketchy address, and the RCA stationery, but I am not in my office at the moment, being involved in a project at the New York World's Fair.

I have taken over the WOR-Radio late night show from Long John Nebel. I believe that you were a guest on his program at one time, during one of my trips abroad, and in making up my tentative schedule of shows, I immediately thought of you as a guest.

We plan to do a show on Parapsychology in the very near future, and we would like very much to have you as a guest, should you happen to be in the area at that time. However, perhaps you would like to suggest some person in the NY area who you feel would be competent to discuss the subject on a panel? It will be done on a week-end, when the listeners are most numerous, and we feel it will be a program of great interest to the listeners.

May we hear from you at your earliest convenience? Time is short right now, since our schedules are open in several key spots. Thank you for your help.

Sincerely,

A certain amount of clash of egos and contention between partisans is tolerable if there is in the background an evident interest in finding a solution that is right. Dear Mr. Randi:

Thank you for inviting me to be a guest on your radio program. I do not have plans for being in the New York area during the summer, and I would not know just whom to suggest to you who might be willing to take part on your program.

I have taken an interest at times in Mr. Nebel's program because of my feeling of the importance of having forums for the discussion of interesting and challenging questions and claims for which the more conventional and orthodox channels are not available.

One of the requirements for such a program is a certain quality of sincerity, or perhaps it might better be called a respect for the truth, or an attitude of fairness to the facts. I have added these remarks because I have been interested in Long John's program over the years. Best wishes for the success of your turn at it.

Thoughtography

As I was completing this article, I discovered one last letter in this mini-saga between scientist and media skeptic. It sits in the Duke archives.

On September 29, 1967, Randi again wrote Rhine. His letter—oddly solicitous if subtly baiting—involved one of the strangest figures in parapsychology, Chicago hotel worker (and alcoholic) Ted Serios (1918-2006). Serios displayed apparent ability to “project” thought images onto film.

In 2004, philosopher and parapsychologist Stephen E. Braude wrote in the catalogue of the Metropolitan Museum of Art’s exhibition The Perfect Medium: Photography and the Occult: “The thoughtography of Ted Serios is undoubtedly the best documented, and arguably most impressive, case of all.”

Serios was the sole figure that MET curators treated—rightly—without conclusion of fraud. Not because curators “believed” in his thoughtography. But rather because they abided historical record, a practice that would not occur to Randi and partisans.

The magician routinely claimed, sans evidence, to have debunked Serios by replicating his alleged tricks. Critics said that Serios used a “gismo,” in Serios’s term—a small cylindrical device intended for focus, which was widely examined—to fake his thought images. Again Braude:

The primary source of this skeptical allegation was the article “An Amazing Weekend with the Amazing Ted Serios,” in the October 1967 issue of Popular Photography . . . the criticism then morphed into an unverified claim that Serios’s feats had been duplicated easily by the Amazing Randi.

Braude notes these claims twice repeated by professional skeptic Martin Gardner (1914-2010), whose career record of falsehood I document in my 2023 article, "The Crisis of Professional Skepticism."

"It should be noted," Braude continued, that Gardner's claim is unsubstantiated. Randi has never even attempted to duplicate the Series phenomena under conditions resembling those that prevailed during Series's tests. He did, however, fail to duplicate the phenomena under the looser conditions prevailing on the television show Today on 4 October 1967.

Randi, like a slightly wounded paramour with sharpened teeth, sought Rhine's attention for the television appearance. His entreaty is below.

There is no record of J.B. responding.

Truth Telling

Do sincere psi skeptics exist? Of course—they are rare. Perhaps the finest among them, sociologist Marcello Truzzi (1935-2003), called himself a "constructive skeptic." Truzzi originated a principle later attributed to astronomer Carl Sagan (1934-1996): "Extraordinary claims require extraordinary evidence."

A critic contemporaneous to J.B., psychologist Donald K. Adams (1902-1960), stands out as a sincere skeptic. In 1934, Adams and two colleagues wrote to William McDougall, head of Duke's psychology department, complaining that Rhine's work was sully the department.

As Stacy Horn has recorded, Adams, in an act of extraordinary scrupulousness—who among us ever changes his mind?—recanted two years later after studying Rhine's methods. With startling self-honesty, Adams concluded in his essay "The Natural History of a Prejudice":

I wanted not the truth, but to prove his positive conclusions wrong . . . I would have been disappointed instead of delighted at discovering a new phenomenon . . . Science, with a capital S, has no prejudice, but individual scientists have . . . Have you ever had the experience of seeing a belief, that you have considered fundamental to everything you value, gradually but inexorably undermined? . . . I have never had much sympathy for the embattled Fundamentalists, but since facing a situation comparable in many ways to theirs and finding that I behaved just as badly, their conduct no longer seems so strange.

Recent to this writing, I gave an hour-long interview to a television producer who is writing a popular book on anomalous phenomena. "I don't know if you're gonna like the book," he later told me. "Because I debunk certain things around ESP." He had not taken in the substance of what I said.

In matters of ESP, certainly I want to be right. J.B. Rhine wanted to be right. But I would rather the facts go against me a hundred times than falsify or cheapen any of them. To the seeker and intellect, flipping over the chessboard is never an option. Beyond any attachment to parapsychology—Howard Jones calls it "the things we prize" in the epigraph—integrity of search is what matters. In J.B.'s response to Randi, he calls it "the difficulty of determining what is true."

This is the authentic legacy of Rhine and his immediate circle. May we honor it—wherever it leads.

Below are links to referenced articles and select resources. I realize that my criticisms of James Randi evoke pushback. Any reader who sends me links, either in comments or privately (mitch.horowitz.nyc@gmail.com), demonstrating sound work done by Randi as a skeptic will have my reading attention and, if requested, response.

For millennia, humanity has pursued higher knowing. In antiquity, soldiers and statesmen turned to oracles such as the prophetess at Delphi and pictogrammatic language of the I Ching.
