Call for Exhibitors/Vendors and Volunteers

We are proud that we have such an illustrious group of internationally known researchers who will be speaking at the annual United States Psychotronics Association (USPA) conference, July 14th-16th, 2017, at the beautiful Hyatt Regency in Deerfield, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago. (pictured at left). Because of our speakers and the subjects they will be speaking on, we expect a large turnout of conference attendees. So exhibitors and vendors should register early, since space is limited.

Call for Exhibitors and Vendors

The USPA welcomes vendors and exhibitors representing groups, firms, and organizations with products and services related to psychotronics, energy healing, and related subjects. Fees are $30 per table, plus 10% of gross sales. For more information please contact Bob Peters, VP of Exhibitor Relations, at: cathyschleyer@msn.com.

Volunteers Needed

Because of a larger expected turnout this year, volunteers are needed to help with the 39th U.S. Psychotronics Conference July 14-16, 2017. Since 1975 the USPA has been operating 42 years, as a Non-Profit 501(c)(3) All Volunteer Educational organization. We are extremely fortunate to have Phyllis Weiland as the official USPA Conference Coordinator. Phyllis needs people with MS Word skills to prepare written material, help with advertising, as well as being volunteers at the conference. Most volunteers will get the conference fee waived. We know it will take multiple volunteers to do all that needs to be done, but there are only a limited number of volunteer positions available. To become a volunteer, please contact: Scott Beutlich, Co-Chairman of the Conference Committee at uspsychotronics@gmail.com or call / text at 815-355-8030 to offer your time and talents!

Newly Discovered Psychotronics Related Organizations and Periodicals: June, 2017

A number of newly discovered psychotronics related organizations and periodicals have been discovered since the last issue of the USPA Journal and Newsletter. These organizations and periodicals, some of which ceased operation many years ago, are listed below, with brief information. If you know anything about these organizations, please contact the editor. The periodicals have been added to the master list of psychotronics periodicals in the USPA Periodicals Library section of this journal. We are seeking copies of all issues of these periodicals, which we plan to digitize and make available to our members as a USPA membership benefit. So if you have any issues the periodicals listed below or any of the missing issues of the periodicals listed in the USPA Periodicals Library section of this Journal, please let the editor know by emailing him at: joreed43@gmail.com.

Organizations:

International Association of Psychotronic Research (IAPR): This organization was established in Innsbruck, Austria, in 1977. It published a periodical titled Psychotronik from its founding in 1977 until some time in 1979. The IAPR also sponsored several international conferences in the 1970's, 80's, and 90s. It is not known if the IAPR is still in existence or is still operating;

Radionics Institute: This was the original name of the Radionics and Dowsing Institute of Canada, which is currently located in Newfoundland, Canada with the address: Site 4 Box 10 , Port Rexton, NL A0C 2H0 Canada. The Radionics Institute was originally formed in the 1970's in Toronto, Ontario, Canada, and was located at 411 Eastdale St., #411, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. It is unknown if this organization ever published a periodical of any kind.

Soviet American Association for Psychotronic Research (SAAPR): This was an organization founded in the late 1960s or early 1970s, but its place of origin and operation are unknown. Dr. Stanley Krippner was the vice-president of the SAAPR in 1972. It is not known if this organization ever published a periodical of any kind.

Periodicals:

Journal of Bioenergetic Research (JBR): This periodical was being published by the Royal Rife Research Society (RRRS) in Carlsbad, California, in the early 1990's. It is not known for certain when the JBR began publishing, but is believed to be in 1992, since vol. 1, no. 3 was for November, 1992. By 1995, it was no longer being published, and in correspondence by John H. Reed with the RRRS in August, 1995, the RRRS stated that no back issues were available. The USPA Library needs all issues of this periodical.

JPI News: This periodical was being published by the Japan Psychotronics Institute in Tsukuba-shi Ibaraki, Japan, in the 1990's. It is known that there was a September, 1993, issue of this periodical, but it is not known when it was first published, or if it is still being published. The USPA Library needs all issues of this periodical.

Short News, Notes, and Queries

(If anyone would like to make a short news announcement, report something, has a question about anything related to psychotronics and related subjects, or has any information or comments about any of the following notes and queries, please write to the editor, John Reed at: joreed43@gmail.com)

1. Dr. Beverly Rubik has produced an excellent YouTube video with highlights of the upcoming US Psychotronics Conference July 14-16, 2017, in Chicago. Click on the link below to learn more about this exciting event, the speakers, and the subjects they will cover.

<https://youtu.be/57V7HYOgBeQ>

2. Don Paris and Lutie Larsen will offer a Free workshop on Monday, June 17 after the USPA Conference.

It will be a show and tell and allow participants to get their hands on all the latest developments in 21st Century Radionics and ask questions.

Lutie has been experimenting with digital reagents and will show her results in that area. She will also share her newest research in Agriculture using the SE-5 1000.

Don has been working on several new instruments including a new Precision Stick Detector which can graphically show the peak resonance of the stick response.

If you need more info or want to sign up, contact Don at: donparis@se-5.com

3. Art Tool and Die Company: Does anyone know anything about the Art Tool and Die Company that was located in Detroit, Michigan, in the 1930s and 1940s, and apparently manufactured radionics devices? It has been referred to in a number of publications on radionics, psychotronics, and related subjects, but it is not clear what devices they manufactured.
4. Mangrove College for Radionics: Does anyone know anything about the Mangrove College for Radionics, and if it ever published a periodical of any kind? Its address at one time was: 1313 N. Market St., Hercules Plaza Suite 3410, Wilmington, Delaware 19801, although this appears to be a mail box service location. It was once headed by a Dr. P. W. Meier.

5. Duncan Laurie, author of the excellent book, The Secret Art: A Brief History of Radionic Technology for the Creative Individual, recently sent USPA an online article titled "Sick Frequencies: Behind Radionics, the Wacky Sound Therapy That Turns Thoughts into Music." This article, written by Tom Howells in March, 2017, is all about Daniel Wilson and his "Radionics Radio Project" where he creates electronic music from human thoughts.
6. Were you ever a member of the Electronic Medicine Association (EMA) or know anyone who was? According to online sources, this organization was co-founded by Peter Moscow (US), former president of the USPA, and John Morley-Kirk (UK) and was incorporated in the United Kingdom in 2001. (UK Company number 04223137). From 2001 through 2010, the EMA held numerous seminars, workshops, and conferences, and may have published a newsletter or journal, although this is uncertain.

Unfortunately both Peter Moscow and John Morley-Kirk died in 2011, and records show that the organization was officially dissolved in the United Kingdom in October of 2011. A number of people have indicated that they would like to revive this organization, and we are attempting to locate all former members. So if you have any interest in this, or by chance have an old membership list, please write to the editor, John H. Reed, M.D. (joreed43@gmail.com), so that I can contact the former members to see if they would be interested in resurrecting this organization, or starting a new one with a similar mission.

7. Do any of you happen to know anything about the Paraphysical Laboratory that was founded in the UK by Benson Herbert in 1966, or have any issues of the Journal of Paraphysics that he published for more than 20 years? Mr. Herbert's laboratory was located at Privett Farm, Downton, Wiltshire, England, between Salisbury and Southampton. His mission included an attempt to provide a workable theory and physical explanation for paranormal phenomena, including telepathy, remote viewing, dowsing, and other extraordinary abilities and phenomena. Unfortunately, Benson Herbert died in 1991, and no one seems to know what became of the papers and records of the laboratory, or if he even had any family, who might be able to shed light on this. So if you know anything about Benson Herbert or have any issues of his periodical, please contact the editor at: joreed43@gmail.com.

8. Does anyone have video tapes of the presentations that Andrija Puharich made at the 1982 US Psychotronics Association Conference? The title of Dr. Puharich's first presentation was: "Chemical Compounds: Receptors of Artificial ELF", and was sold for a period of time on the USPA website with this title and catalog number F6.

The second presentation that Dr. Puharich made at the 1982 USPA Conference was the Keynote Address at the Awards banquet. The Title of this presentation was "Kindling + 1" and had catalog number F7. If anyone has either or both of these tapes, please contact the editor, John Reed at: joreed43@gmail.com.

Andrija Puharich, Chemical Compounds: Receptors of Artificial ELF (1982) F6

Andrija Puharich, Keynote Speaker:, Kindling +1; Awards Banquet (1982) F7

9. Does anyone have any personal copies of the excellent periodical called "DNA Decipher Journal" ? This journal focuses on subjects of great interest to the psychotronics community, including subtle energies emanating from DNA, wave genetics, quantum biology, quantum entanglement, phases and structure of water, and many other interesting subjects. In fact, the vol. 6, no2 (June, 2016) issue of this journal included an article titled, "On the Plausible Implications of Gariaev & Montagnier's Work". (Editor JHR: See the abstract of Montagnier's article in the Abstracts section below.)

Surprisingly, and strangely, not a single academic or public library in the world lists this periodical in their holdings, including the Library of Congress. This journal is published by Quantum Dream, Inc., In Stony Brook, NY , and has a website at: <http://dnadecipher.com/> , which shows all the issues published since its first issue in 2011. The price is $13.90 for the latest issue published in Dec., 2016, and back issues have higher prices running up to $19.90 for the first issue.

If any of you have personal copies of the DNA Decipher Journal, would you be willing to lend them temporarily to the USPA Library so that we can review them? If so, please write to the editor, John Reed, at: joreed43@gmail.com

Schedule

Day 1

October 26, 2017 - 8AM to 5PM

7:15AM - 8AM

Registration

8AM - 8:30AM - Dr. Ron Barone

Introduction

8:30AM - 9:30AM - Dr. Ron Barone

The story of miasms begins with Samuel Hahnemann himself. As his experience of homeopathy brought him to understand its usefulness not only in acute but also in chronic disease, Hahnemann found that chronic diseases arise from a deep inner susceptibility that he called miasm. External causes of disease, he observed, can bear fruit only in the fertile ground of a miasmatic foundation, which passes by various means from person to person and creates the predisposition to particular kinds of disease states. Hahnemann identified three miasms, each with its own characteristics and disease propensities. In recent developments, there are 4 primary miasms and 4 recessive. We will learn how to deal with these with radionics.

Dr Darius Dinshah developed a system of using light as a direct application to the body for many diseases. A Pdf of this book will be supplied on the notes disc. I will demonstrate how to apply light in radionics as an application to the input well as well as a basic rate sheet for broadcasting.

He is a skilled dowser in the natural and spiritual realm. A personal friend of Master Dowser and Shaman Raymon Grace. He is also skilled in helping the dying go through transition to the spirit world. He has considerable experience with discarnates and a wide realm of non-physical issues. Ron has worked on many issues in the natural and spiritual realm. Ron teaches people take control of their own well-being, physically and spiritually.

Day 3

October 28, 2017 - 8AM to 5PM

8AM - 9AM - Scott Ertl

Scott will be teaching about Magnetism and Polarity, which are the two most important things in life. Scott has spent the last 20 years researching and developing tried and true strategies that remedy many types of issues for people, animals and properties.

9:15AM - 10:15AM - Marty Lucas

The raw energy of life can be called Chi. When there is ample Chi, the body is healthy, but not all Chi is the same. Its structure mirrors that of bio-photons. So there is some that helps the body to repair itself, there is some that supports replication and some that moves the body towards recycling. By managing the mixture of Chi in a subject we can support the repair and replication functions. Balancing Chi works at a more fundamental level than even Somatids! This work peels another layer from the 'onion'!

Marty Lucas, Every Advantage Ag, Urbandale, IA - Marty Lucas is a full-time Radionic Practitioner and teacher out of central Iowa. He is known for in-depth and far-reaching research into the fringes of radionic practice. ### Day 3 Continued

10:30AM - 11:30AM - Robin Hermanson

A high-stress lifestyle coupled with improper eating habits can wreak havoc on delicate hormonal balance. Symptoms of hormonal imbalance may include PMS, osteoporosis, weight gain, altered sex drive, allergies, fibroids, urinary track infections, fatigue, anxiety, water retention, hair loss, even depression. Keeping hormones in balance results in healthy weight and optimal energy levels. How to measure your hormone levels, what hyper tonicity or hypo tonicity of what organs, what deficiencies of vitamins, what parasites and toxins contribute to imbalances and how to balance your hormones naturally will be discussed.

Robin Hermanson, Garretson, SD - Robin is a Professional Mechanical Engineer, Green Building Engineer and Certified Energy Manager. He is also a Certified Organic Farmer and has 360 acres. For 14 years, Robin has researched health and longevity through the Reams Biological Theory of Ionization. Robin is a veteran radionics operator helping people solve a wide range of health problems with alternative methods and detoxification.

1PM - 2:30PM - Dr. Linda Lancaster

Radiesthesia is the ability to detect vibrations of force fields emanating from minerals, plants, animals and humans. Every living cell is like an electric battery broadcasting a pulsing rhythm, creating a field. The ability to contact these fields is called Radiesthesia. Medical Radiesthesia is a method of discovering information from energy fields around the human being, animals and plants. The Parcels System utilizes a pendulum and a Determination Board to measure these frequencies. While the applications of Medical Radiesthesia are vast, Dr. Linda will teach an effective approach to taking care of yourself and your family through this system of Radionics.

Dr. Linda Lancaster - Dr. Linda is a Board Certified Naturopathic Physician and Homeopath. She has been in practice since 1981 and founded Light Harmonics Institute, an Energy Medicine Clinic and Educational Center based in Santa Fe, New Mexico and maintains clinics in Santa Fe and New York City. Her training includes Classical Homeopathy, Radionics, Medical Radiesthesia, Subtle Energy Healing, Nutrition, Herbal Medicine, Ayurveda and Detoxification Methods. Her health and cleansing programs have been offered to her patients for more than 30 years.

2:45PM - 3:45PM - Ed Kelly

Ed Kelly will share the work of KRT veteran Cathie Jordan and his step-mom Marianne Keeler-Kelly, who collaborated for years on advanced potentizing projects. Emphasis will be placed on delivering ideas, techniques, and lessons learned that can be applied directly to the projects of new and intermediate users. We will also discuss ways to utilize potentized materials for maximum impact and effectiveness.

Ed Kelly, Kelly Research Technologies - KRT (www.kellyresearchtech.com) has been delivering radionic instruments, equipment, and information to the world for 37 years. Sister company BETAR USA (www.betar.com) produces focused vibroacoustic sound therapy systems that allow riders to literally feel their favorite music - every note and drum beat - as a sonic energy massage that melts away physical pain, emotional stress, and/or mental anxiety. Ed Kelly took the leadership position in these firms following the untimely passage of his father, founder Peter J. Kelly, in 2004. Ed has been involved in radionics and the esoteric arts for his entire life, literally growing up around such giants as T. Galen Hieronymus, Thomas Bearden, Bob Beck, Bob Beutlich, and countless other inventors and researchers. Ed has a BS in Geology from the University of Georgia, an MBA from Kennesaw State University, and served the nation in the U.S. Marines.

Among the Missing, (and Updates): A Column about Missing People, Organizations, Periodicals, Books, Artifacts, and Collections in the Psychotronics Field

by John H. Reed, M.D

This is a new “column” or section of the USPA Newsletter, and will be an ongoing part of every issue, with the purpose of helping the USPA, as well as, our members and research associates locate people, organizations, periodicals, books, artifacts, devices, collections, and other items that have seemingly disappeared, or have been extremely difficult to find. Updates will be added, and each missing item will be retained in future issues until it is found or otherwise resolved, since some readers may not have seen prior issues of the USPA Newsletter or the original notice of the missing item.

In addition, this will also serve as a “People Locator Service” to help find authors and researchers on psychotronics, radionics, subtle energies, energy medicine, and related subjects, who have “disappeared” or have died long ago, and whose relatives you may be trying to find in order to preserve the research papers and collection of that person.

In our research and reading, we all have encountered people, organizations, periodicals, books, articles, or other things that we have tried to find, and some people have searched for years to find something, but have not yet found it, despite the vast resources of the Internet. However, with our large USPA membership, we can all help one another find what we have been searching for. Some of you may have experience in genealogical research, or private investigation, law enforcement, or even intelligence work which you could utilize to help each other, or perhaps just make suggestions on how or where to search for something.

So if there is anything you have been searching for and need help to find, please write to me, John H. Reed, M.D. at: joreed43@gmail.com, and I will include your search help request in the next and subsequent issues of the USPA Newsletter. And if you have any information about an item that is listed in “Among the Missing”, please write to the same email address and share what you know or your suggestions. If there is something that is confidential, your confidentiality request will be honored and protected.

Missing and Mysterious Stone: The “Swedish Stone” of T. Henry Moray’s “Free Energy” Device:

Has anyone done any research on what the substance called “Swedish Stone” is that T. Henry Moray used in the 1920s to extract energy from cosmic rays and produce electricity? According to Moray’s original diaries, he discovered the stone somewhere near the city of Abisko, Sweden, in 1913 when he was there doing his overseas Mormon missionary service. He brought the stone back to the US and subsequently created a device using the stone to produce electricity in much the same way that silicon is used to produce electricity when struck by light. However, the Swedish stone used in Moray's device apparently had the particular molecular and/or crystalline structure such that it would produce electricity when struck with cosmic rays, which constantly strike the earth. And since cosmic rays are an electromagnetic wave with much higher energy than light, which is also an electromagnetic wave, Moray's device produced a great deal more electricity than any current silicon based devices of similar size.

Since cosmic rays flood the universe, clearly such a device could provide essentially free electrical power anywhere on earth or anywhere else in the universe. Some have hypothesized that the Swedish stone was a radioactive substance, whose radioactivity was used to produce the electricity. However, others believe that the Swedish stone was not radioactive, but just happened to have the particular structure necessary to convert cosmic rays to electricity. Theoretically there are substances like silicon, only of a different structure, that will convert each of the electromagnetic wave frequencies to electricity, and perhaps Moray just accidentally discovered the substance that would do this with cosmic waves. Please contact the editor if you have any information about this "Swedish Stone" substance: joreed43@gmail.com

Missing Book: Dr. Stefan Manczarsk's book, The Problem of Thought Transference in the Light of Radio-Technical Investigations, 1945 English version

Has anyone ever seen the book, The Problem of Thought Transference in the Light of Radio-Technical Investigations, by Stefan Manczarsk, published in England in 1945, in which he discussed at length how telepathy, dowsing, and other phenomena might physically occur?

There are at least two references that state that this book was published in England in 1945, apparently in English:

- 1) A 1962 issue of International Journal of Parapsychology
- 2) In Daniel S. Halacy's 1966 book, Radiation, Magnetism and Living Things - page 103

The problem with the 1945 publication date is that this book was originally published in Polish in Warsaw, Poland, in 1946, and the only library in the world that has the Polish version is the National Library of Poland. It is not in any library in the US or UK, including the Library of Congress and the British National Library (formerly British Museum Library). Also, it is not recorded in the British copyright office. It is highly unlikely that Manczarsk would have had the manuscript translated into English, and published in England before he published it in his native language and country of Poland. So the two references above are probably in error, but stranger things in the publishing world have happened.

I have been able to determine that this book was serialized in 1946-47 in six issues of the Polish periodical, Przegląd Telekomunikacyjny : miesięcznik poświęcony sprawom telefonji, telegrafji, sygnalizacji, radja (Telecommunication Review:

monthly magazine devoted to matters of telephony, telegraphy, signaling, radio)
1946, No. 10, 11, 12 and 1947, No. 1, 2, and 3.

It would be very useful if this book were indeed published in English, because Mancsarsk was an important, but little known researcher on antennas and EM waves, and it would be extremely interesting to see his thoughts on the physical explanation of dowsing, thought transference, and other phenomena.

If you happen to know anything about this book, please contact the editor, John H. Reed, at: joreed43@gmail.com. ## Andrija Puharich's Lost Manuscript and other Puharich Mysteries by Greg Mallozzi

During the late 60s and into the 70s, Puharich owned and worked out of a large house in rural Ossining, New York. A home laboratory known as Lab 9. Lab 9 produced the most mysterious and far out work that Puharich was involved in when he began to delve deeper and deeper into parapsychological, experimental research: like alleged communication with extraterrestrial beings VIA trance mediumship and ELF (extremely low frequency) waves and their effect on the brain.

At Lab 9, Puharich worked with a faraday cage, a large cage that blocks electrostatic and electromagnetic influences. Puharich found that when a subject was placed inside the faraday cage and a certain level of specially controlled electromagnetic waves were sent through the cage, the subjects ESP abilities were heightened significantly. He conducted what some have called inhumane, psychological experiments on human subjects. Lab 9, like The Round Table Foundation, began to attract people from all walks of life.

Shrouded in controversy, the new film on the life of Dr. Andrija Puharich that we are producing will show what Lab 9 was really like, using never before seen photos, videos and transcripts. In 1978, a mysterious attempt to burn down Lab 9 was made. The town of Ossining ruled it arson. Puharich's publisher, Doubleday, was also broken into at this time and the manuscript he was working on was destroyed. Was someone out to get Puharich, to discredit and sabotage his work? If so, who? People who were present at Lab 9 at the time of the infamous fire will weigh in on what really happened, which to this day is unsolved.

If anyone has any knowledge about the missing manuscript or other mysteries surrounding the life of Dr. Andrija Puharich or has any video tapes, audio tapes, or correspondence of Puharich, please contact:

Combo Mystery: Missing Person, Organization, and Book, All Related

Person: Dr. Floyd S. Graham, Sr. Organizations: Radionic Laboratories and Radiant Associates, Inc. founded by Floyd S. Graham, Sr. Book: The Radiant Era, by Floyd S. Graham, Sr.

This is our first “Combo Mystery” of a missing person, the organization(s) he founded, and the book that he wrote. The organization “Radionic Laboratories” was referred to in the American Society of Dowsers Quarterly Digest, Vol. 4, No. 2 (May, 1964), page 22, in a letter to the editor, by Dr. Floyd S. Graham, Jr. It indicated that Dr. Graham was the president of the “International Headquarters Unit” of “Radionic Laboratories”, located in the small town of Tumtum, Washington, which is located northwest of Spokane, WA. The letter was signed “Radiant Associates, Inc.”.

These names suggest that there may have been two different organizations, or that the “Radionic Laboratories” was part of the corporation, “Radiant Associates, Inc. However, I checked my database of incorporated organizations, which covers both profit and non-profit corporations, operating or defunct, that have been formed in the United States and worldwide since the early 1900’s, and neither name was shown as ever having existed in the State of Washington. But since the letter was written and published in 1964, there is little doubt that Dr. Graham and the organization entities he mentioned did exist at that time in Tumtum, WA.

A further mystery related to Dr. Graham is the booklet he wrote titled, “The Radiant Era”, date and place of publication unknown. It is being offered for sale online, with a photo, as shown at left. It is said to be published by the Journal of Natural Living, and is 22 pages long, stapled, and sized 6.75 by 7.75 inches.

However, a check of the WorldCat database, which lists the holdings of every library in the United States, Canada, and the UK, including the Library of Congress and the famous British Library (AKA British Museum Library), shows that this booklet by Dr. Graham is not located in any known library.

So if you know anything about Dr. Floyd S. Graham, Sr., the Radionic Laboratories, or Radiant Associates, Inc., in Tumtum, Washington, or anything about his booklet, The Radiant Era, please contact the editor, John H. Reed, at: joreed43@gmail.com. If you happen to have a copy of the booklet in your personal collection, the USPA Library would greatly appreciate it if you would make a xerox copy of it for the library, which you can scan and email as a PDF, or send the physical copy to: USPA Library and Archives, 4401 Roland Avenue, Unit 405, Baltimore, MD 21210.

Missing Devices:

1. The AGRAD Machine: In the 1970's Mankind Research Unlimited, Inc.(MRU), headed by Dr. Carl Schleicher, was offering for sale a device called the AGRAD Machine. It was intended to be used in the electromagnetic treatment of crops and the control of insect populations, and sold for $390.00. MRU claimed that AGRAD machines had been used for several years by MRU researchers to conduct experimental applications of the type described in The Secret Life of Plants by Christopher Bird and Peter Tompkins, and Report on Radionics by Edward W. Russell. Theoretically, the AGRAD machine was intended to produce effects through electromagnetic wavefronts that would interact with and control insects by disturbing the insect sensor mechanisms. A photo of the device and additional information appeared in one of MRU's publications which you can access here.

Missing Organizations:

1. American Electronic Research Association (AERA): Albert Abrams established the American Electronic Research Association in the early 1920s and it continued to operate until at least 1935, when John F. Spaunhurst was the president of AERA, according to the 1935 Edition of Who's Who Among Association Executives. The AERA published the monthly Journal of the American Electronic Research Association from 1924 through some point in 1936, when it ceased publication, according to Harvard University records.. Only two libraries in the world are known to have issues of this periodical. There are only two issues in the Harvard University Medical School Library, and the Kirkwood School of Osteopathic Medicine has one issue. If you know anything about this organization, or happen to have any issues of its journal, please contact the USPA Journal and Newsletter editor, John Reed at: joreed43@gmail.com.
2. International Association for Psychotronic Research (IAPR): Does anyone know what became of the International Association for Psychotronic Research? And do any of you have copies of its meeting proceedings or newsletter, if such a newsletter were published? It was founded in 1973, even before the United States Psychotronic Association (USPA), which was founded in 1975. However, the current location or activities of the IAPR are unknown.

The IAPR held numerous international conferences around the world, beginning with its first in 1974 in Prague, then Czechoslovakia. At this conference, Dr. Zdenek Rejdak was elected president for the Eastern Division of the IAPR, and Dr. Stanley Krippner was elected president for the West. The 8th International Conference on Psychotronic Research was held in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, 1993, as a joint conference with the United States Psychotronics Association (USPA), but it is unknown if any subsequent conferences of the IAPR were held.

Proceedings of each of these conferences were published. If copies of these proceedings can be obtained, or any newsletters that it may have published, we will add them to the USPA Library and make them available to USPA members. If you have any knowledge about this organization, please write to the editor at: joreed43@gmail.com

3. International Radionics Association (IRA): Does anyone know anything about the International Radionics Association (IRA), which was located in Springfield, Missouri in the late 1940s. This is known, because a book called The Truth about Radionics was published in 1947 by this organization, and although the author's name is anonymous, it is highly probable that the author was T. Galen Hieronymus, who passed away many years ago.

I checked several newspaper databases, and references to this organization were found in the press as far back as the early 1930s, and as late as the early 1960s, but nothing more recent than that. If you have any knowledge about this organization, please write to the editor at: joreed43@gmail.com

Missing People, and Updates:

Missing USPA Related People:

We are trying to track down some of the original directors and officers of the United States Psychotronics Association (USPA), when it was organized in 1975, with the word "Radionics" in the organization title. Does anyone have any information on the current whereabouts of the following people, or family members, if the person is known to have passed away, or where they passed away?? Please check Ancestry.com, social media websites, newspaper archives, and any other databases you have to help find these people.

1. Paul Sauvin, USPA 2nd Vice Pres., 1976 and 1st Vice Pres., 1977. Paul Sauvin, whose full name is Pierre Paul Sauvin, is an electrical engineer and inventor who, according to one source, worked in the aerospace industry and later with the National Institute for Rehabilitation Engineering at St. Joseph's Hospital in Paterson, NJ. He also worked with Dr. Carl Schleicher, head of Mankind Research Unlimited, and helped develop a device called the "AGRAD Machine". This device was designed to control crop insects, and was introduced on an experimental basis, although it is not known if it ever reached commercial production. Paul Sauvin's mother was Edith Sauvin, who lived in White Plains, NY, and died August 25th, 1987. Edith's only child was Pierre Paul Sauvin, who himself had 2 sons, Alan Paul Sauvin and Steven Eric Sauvin. He also had one daughter, Jane Elizabeth Sauvin. Any help in locating the children of Paul Sauvin would be greatly appreciated, and please write to joreed43@gmail.com.

2. Dr. Marcel Vogel and his Research Papers: Does anyone know what became of the papers and files of Dr. Marcel Vogel, who died in 1991? Dr. Vogel did extensive research on crystals and crystal healing, pyramid power, the "Backster Effect" involving plants and their bioenergetic fields, and a number of other psychotronics related subjects. He also spoke numerous times at USPA conferences. Marcel Vogel worked at IBM for 27 years and had 32 patents. If you have any knowledge about Marcel Vogel and what became of his papers and files after he died, please write to your editor at: joreed43@gmail.com. The USPA would like to make sure that all of his papers are preserved.

3. Henry Nagorka, USPA 1st Vice Pres., 1975 and 1976, and then President, of the USPA in 1977.

Missing Pages of a Book

The book, Relationship Between Parapsychology and Gravity, Vol. 3 of Handbook of Unusual Energies, by J.G. Gallimore, was published by Borderland Sciences in the 1970's, although the date of publication and copyright date were not noted in this book. The USPA has this book in its library, and plans to republish it for the Gallimore family, but unfortunately, pages 208 and 209 are missing from the printed book. It appears that this is a publisher printing error, because page 210 is printed on the back side of page 207. However, it is possible that pages 208 and 209 were missing from the manuscript when it was sent to Borderlands for publication. Or these pages of the manuscript may have been inadvertently lost by the publisher, or possibly they were intentionally removed by someone from the manuscript prior to publication.

Do any of you have a copy of this book, and if so, would you please check to see if it has pages 208 and 209? I have searched the WorldCat, which shows the books and monograph holdings of virtually every public and university library in the United States and Canada, and many of the large libraries in the UK and elsewhere in the world. But not a single library has this book in its collection. If by chance you have a copy, please let me know what you find by emailing the editor at: joreed43@gmail.com

Missing Periodicals:

- 1. British Journal of Radiesthesia and Radionics: Does anyone have any issues of The British Journal of Radiesthesia and Radionics. It was published in London, England, by the British Radiesthesia Association, 1953-1963. The original title was British Journal of Radiesthesia, published from 1953-1957. No libraries in the United States, public or university, have this journal in their collection., and only five libraries elsewhere in the world are known to have any issues at all: The British Museum Library (AKA The British Library), Oxford, Cambridge, the National Library of Scotland, and Trinity College Library, in Dublin Ireland. If you have any issues of this periodical, will you please let me know? And for our members and associates in The UK and Ireland, if you can access these periodicals at any of the above libraries, you would do a huge service for all of us if you would Xerox what issues are available and send them to me. A generous donor has offered to pay whatever expenses are involved for doing this service. We will add them to the USPA Library and make them available to researchers. Please contact the editor at: joreed43@gmail.com

- 2. Journal of Scientific Controversy. This periodical was referred to on page 49 of the Vol. 1, No. 1 \(Spring, 1967\) issue of the INFO: The Journal of the International Fortean Organization. Someone was trying to find out about it even then, 49 years ago, and said that this journal was “formerly published in Boulder , Colorado” implying that it may have ceased publication prior to 1967, or that it moved somewhere else after being published for a period of time in Boulder. I have searched the WorldCat, which shows the periodical holdings of virtually every public and university library in the United States and Canada, and many of the large libraries in the UK and elsewhere overseas. But this title, or anything close to it does not exist in the WorldCat database, so that indicates that this periodical title is not held in any library, even special collections, which are also included in WorldCat. However, this does not mean that the periodical does not exist, since many periodicals in the psychotronics , scientific anomalies and similar fields are excluded from libraries. If any of you have ever heard of this periodical or know anything about it, such as its editor, publisher, or other information, please write to the editor at: joreed43@gmail.com

Missing Books:

Rhea White and Larissa Vilenskaya wrote a book titled Parapsychology in the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe, and China: A Compendium of Information. It was supposedly published by Scarecrow Press of Metuchen, NJ, a well know publisher of reference books. This book was listed as reference work #680 on page 213 of Rhea White's book, Parapsychology: New Sources of Information, 1973-1989 , also published by Scarecrow Press. I called the publisher, and they said they have never published this book, and know nothing about it. As you can see from entry #680, Rhea White noted that this book was "in press", so it may have been in a preparation stage, but the manuscript may never have been sent to Scarecrow Press.

Again, I have searched the WorldCat, which shows books and monograph holdings of virtually every public and university library in the United States and Canada, and many of the large libraries in the UK and elsewhere in the world. But this book title does not exist in the WorldCat database, which indicates that this book is not held in any library, even special collections, which are also included in WorldCat. Unfortunately, I was unable to ask either of the authors about this, since both have passed away.

Rhea White was a well known parapsychology researcher, so some of you may have known her or heard her speak of the missing book manuscript that she was working on. Larissa Vilenskaya was from Russia, but lived and worked in the San Francisco area, and she was a prolific researcher on Russian and Eastern European psychotronics research. Please write to your editor at: joreed43@gmail.com if you have any information about this at all.

COSMOLOGICAL DISSOCIATION: TOWARD AN UNDERSTANDING OF HOW WE CREATE OUR OWN REALITY

Jon Klimo, Ph.D.

Introduction

I wish to share with you some aspects of my current research, which is an in-depth interdisciplinary investigation into the nature of how, if at all, we may create our own reality. I have chosen to examine this topic because it appears to lie at the very heart of much of the “perennial philosophy” that has existed throughout the ages, and, especially, because it appears to be the chief, and relatively unexamined, slogan of the current “New Age” movement. Rare is the individual today who has not been told by someone, “Of course, you create your own reality,” or, “You know you chose to experience that.” Hearing such can exasperate those of us who, based on personal experience, do not think that we are creating or choosing our own reality. And even those of us who think that there may really be something to it are at a loss as to where or to whom to turn for real verification or understanding about what is really going on in the name of this creating of one’s own reality. Therefore, I felt it was time for someone to take a more serious look at the matter.

The ideas on the nature of reality creation that will be expressed in this presentation had their roots in my earlier research on the phenomenon of “channeling.” That research confirmed my own intuitive understandings of an extended view of the nature of consciousness, energy, dimensionality, and the psychological concept of dissociation in particular. I would, therefore, like to begin by briefly tracing for you the development of my thinking from the earlier channeling research to the present.

Ideas Derived from my Research on Channeling

Prior to my present preoccupation with how we create our own reality, I have spent the last few years researching the nature of what has come to be called “channeling.” This research culminated in the publication of my book Channeling: Investigations on Receiving Information from Paranormal Sources (Klimo, 1987). In it, I defined channeling as a kind of interdimensional communication wherein an individual—the channel—is said to receive information, guidance, or energy from some other level of reality than the physical as we currently understand it, and from some agent or agency other than the self of the physically embodied individual as we currently understand the nature of the self, person, or personal identity.

This concept of channeling, then, as defined, presupposes: 1.) A multidimensional universe, only one subset of which is the space/time matter/energy objective reality with which we are currently familiar; 2.) that other levels or dimensions of this universe are inhabited by beings with consciousness capable of communicating with us on our level of reality; or that there is information, energy, or consciousness on at least some of these other levels or dimensions that can be tapped by us from our level; and 3.) that the traditional insular concept of the self or person—the “skin-encapsulated ego,” as Aldous Huxley called it—is in actuality part of something more open and plastic than we are used to thinking about.

According to this third presupposition, the supposedly separate, individual self and consciousness of us human beings seems at times able to expand into other identity and consciousness, or to superimpose on, or become, other self-ness. Or it can be entered into by self, energy, or consciousness from beyond either itself or other physically embodied human systems. It would seem that in at least some cases of channeling, the impermeable or semi-permeable membrane that normally seems to separate off the individual human system can become more permeable, allowing non-ordinary ingress or egress of consciousness, information, or energy. Or, from a different perspective, we could replace the limited cell-wall-type notion of a demarcating, individual-being-containing membrane with something like a dimensionally constrained or circumscribed containment vehicle into which projections are made from a locus of other or higher dimensionality.

The Traditional Psychological Concept of Dissociation

The concept of dissociation plays a central part in the explanations of channeling that have been mounted to date by mainstream psychology, psychiatry, and neuroscience. Since my present understanding about how we create our own reality is based on this concept, it needs to be examined in more detail. According to this view of dissociation, people who are said to be channeling, rather than being in communication with something or someone which or whom exists outside of them, are really operating in a dissociated state. Within this state, part of their own psychic material or unconscious mental activity—alternately interpretable as only correlated neurophysiological bioelectromagnetical-chemical firing patterns—operates separately and autonomously with respect to their usual waking consciousness and control. What becomes dissociated from the parent psyche is variously termed sub-, alter-, or secondary-, personalities, or simply hallucinated, projected, delusional, or hysterical conversion, material.

The mainstream psychological explanation of channeling is built, then, upon a process of dissociated self-generation: a creative process that is unaware of its own products, or in ignorance that it has produced them in the first place. The process is something like that of an “amnesiac ventriloquist,” who, being out of touch with or having each instant forgotten that it is his own voice that he is throwing, experiences the voice as communicating back to him from some external source other than himself and with a mind of its own. The fact that the voice was formulated within, and then “thrown” from, a portion of himself that the listening part of him was unconscious of at the time, does not, according to this mainstream view, detract from the fact that—within the context of the overall person—it is still his own voice bespeaking his own self-generated material.

In the 1988 edition of the Review of General Psychiatry we are told that dissociation is “characterized by ...disruption of some aspect of consciousness, identity, or motor behavior” (Purcell, 1988, p.374). Among the various kinds of dissociation identified, those most relevant to channeling are the well-known “Multiple Personality Disorder,” and the most recent addition: “Possession/Trance Disorder.”

The former is characterized by the existence of 2 or more personalities within a single individual ... Each personality is well-integrated and is a complex aggregate of unique memories, behavior patterns, and social relationships ...The original personality usually has no knowledge of the other personality or personalities; but when there are 2 or more subpersonalities, they are usually aware of each other's existence to some degree ...Various subpersonalities may have measurably different physiologic and psychologic attributes. (Purcell, 1988, p. 376)

The latter dissociation, case, of the Possession/Trance Disorder form of dissociation, is characterized:

either by a trance (i.e., an altered state of consciousness with markedly diminished or selectively focused responsiveness to environmental stimuli) or by possession (i.e., the belief that one has been taken over by a spirit or another person). (Purcell, 1988, p. 379)

Dissociation Taken to Cosmological Proportions

My own research on channeling led me to believe that some people said to be channeling were indeed in contact with inhabited or consciousness-possessing otherworldly realms of a multidimensional cosmos, while still others were operating as creators made in the image of their Creator, generating offspring subpersonality creations out of themselves in something like the manner in which they as human beings may have been generated out of their Creator.

In order to fashion a multi-causal model for what was really going on with channeling that would include a number of kinds of actual processes at work, I needed to accommodate the prospect of endless individuated seats of consciousness spread across many levels of reality differently limited in how they could communicate with each other; and I also needed within such a model to be able to accommodate the concept of nesting systems of generative, or self-replicating, mind. As a result, I found myself drawn to the psychological model of how an individual's consciousness, cognition, or psychic material can become dissociated and compartmentalized into more than one local self-consistent seat of consciousness-possessing identity each with only limited contact with others like it or with the larger psychic material (person, being, or energy field) from which it was generated. My own explanatory model, which came at the end of Chapter 8 of my Channeling book, moved the concept of dissociation from a psychological to a cosmological scale. My conclusion was in the form of a simile, which speculated that The Universe, God, or All-That-Exists, is something like a dissociated, or multiple, personality as construed from our dissociated perspective as sub-personalities within It.

This simile has grown to lie at the heart of my current thinking about how we create our own reality as well; for each of us subpersonalities within the Universal "psychic material" or Mind experiences and creatively interacts with our own self, with each other as such selves, and with the larger surrounding existence as Universal Mind in different ways and with differing experiential results, depending on to what extent we realize our true place and nature in this overall scheme of things, and to what extent we can overcome the initial dissociated state.

Before continuing, however, I need to qualify this simile that God or the Universe is like a dissociated being, or multiple personality, from our human frame of reference. In cases of multiple personality involving a single human subject, the primary, or original, self usually experiences dissociation and amnesia with regard to the subpersonalities spawned as offspring from its own psychic material and consciousness. Depending on the individual case, the subpersonalities, in turn, may or may not experience amnesia and dissociation with regard to the underlying personality from which they took their being; and they, once “born,” may or may not experience the same amnesia and dissociation with regard to one another. In my simile however, the Universe, or God, never experiences complete dissociation and amnesia with regard to any of us, Its own offspring, for we are the contents of Its own mind, the cognitions constructed from and held within Its own omniscience. But we, Its subpersonalities, always experience degrees of dissociation and amnesia with regard to It, our source and sustainer, depending upon our own respective constitution and level of growth and learning. And the more we learn and grow, the less dissociated we become, as I will argue.

The Human Experience Within Such Cosmological Dissociation

Due to our condition of each being relatively dissociated from our parent, primary, ground—the Universal Being or God—we each experience this dissociation in a number of ways and on a number of levels. First, each of us, as a subpersonality within the one underlying common identity, is to varying degrees self-dissociated. Aspects of each of us is split off from, and operating disconnectedly with regard to, other aspects. Taken as the perspective at the time, local self-aware consciousness is dissociated from the unconscious as that which it is currently not able to be conscious of; and it can be dissociated from consciousness operating elsewhere within the system of which it is a part. The waking everyday ego-level mind is dissociated from what has been hypothesized as the same system’s own “higher self.” And the mind experiences itself as dissociated from the apparently non-mind-like body through which it functions. Second, we respective selves, as subpersonalities within the one Universal Being, experience dissociation from each other. And third, each of us experiences dissociation with respect to the one underlying Being the identity of which we nonetheless share due to our being Its own split-off offspring.

As part of this third kind of dissociation, each individual conscious self experiences dissociation, to varying degrees, from the physical-level universe as environment within which it is embedded and with which it is used to interacting. As a result, we human beings will generally agree that we experience ourselves and each other as separate minds within, or associated with, separate bodies. We further experience ourselves as existing within a Universe that is comprised of space and time, matter and energy, that usually take the form of separated-apart bodies or perceptual objects, some of which seem also to have, or have associated with them, separate minds. Everywhere we look, in both the realm of the mind and of the material, we find separation and differentiation—including the dissociation that we experience between the realms of mind and matter themselves—and we are confronted by endless individuation of form, function, and identity. And within all of this—that from our perspective we take to be the separated-apartness of Creation—we tend to experience lack, rather than presence, of common identity and connectedness. There is, for us, an apparent dissociated quality to our place within Creation as we experience it, and a dissociated quality to the Creation within which we are having our experiences. This is our current species-specific experience of dissociation within the seeming multidimensionality of the Universe, or God.

Due to these kinds of dissociation, we human beings experience a variety of kinds of isolation, powerlessness, and ignorance or unconsciousness. Put another way, we experience limits to the degree to which we can access and manipulate consciousness, information, and energy within ourselves, from each other, and from our common ground called the Universe or God. Cases of supposedly interdimensional communication, or channeling, and of the parapsychologically studied “psi- functions of extrasensory perception (ESP, including telepathy, clairvoyance, precognition, et al) and of “mind-over-matter” or psychokinesis (PK), levitation, and manifestation or materialization, are all examples of how some of us are apparently able to at least temporarily transcend the usual species-specific limitations to information processing, energy interaction, and intentional connectedness and causation that accompany the prevailing dissociated conditions of our own human being. Assorted psychedelic, altered-state, and peak experiences, as well as transpersonal, mystical, and miraculous episodes, are also cases of transcending, at least fleetingly, the dissociation we seem to have been given to work with.

All of what I have described is marked by the age-old paradox of the One-and-the-Many. There is an underlying identity and unity to all that exists, which is called the Universe or God, depending on one’s view; and yet all around us and within us is our experience of dissociation of that Oneness into Its endless Many. Each of us human beings is one-of-the-Many, uniquely differentiated and configured—and therein lies our usual experience of relative powerlessness and lack of control over our reality; and yet each of us is also a member of the many-out-of-the-One—and thus is of the One—and therein lie all the possibilities of “taking dominion” with awareness of one’s true identity and causal efficacy.

Why Does This Cosmological Dissociation Exist?

If this cosmological dissociation is actually what is the case—at least from our human perspective—then we need to ask: why? Why the dissociation? If, as I am supposing, we differentiated beings are essentially the same as, and therefore have the potential to access, or to even consciously operate as, the underlying Oneness from which we take our being, then why are we relegated to the degree of isolation, powerless, ignorance and unconsciousness that we continue to experience as human beings?

One answer for our experienced dissociation is that it is the purposeful design of this Universal Being—relatively unfathomable to us humans at present—that we and all other delimited beings are the endlessly various free-will-possessing individuated expressions of Its own infinite creative Being, and that we are the ways It explores Its own infinite potential forever. Therefore, it is not that we are faced with the picture of some kind of a negative, ages-past “fall” from the eternal and infinite grace of the “garden” of All-That-Exists being at one within Its own omniscience, omnipotence, omnipresence, and omnibenevolence. Rather, we are—closer than Its breath—Its own individual expressions always growing within the very heart of Itself as multidimensional garden. As it comes closer to reaching this evolutionary end-point, humankind can then ever-more-freely access the full unadulterated and undissociated flow of the One Being’s own omniscience, omnipotence, and omnibenevolence, experiencing it as its—humankind’s—own as well, yet at the same time still maintaining its (our) own differentiation out of the Universal as the way the Universal is expressing Itself through a human being, rather than through an oak, squirrel, galactic, or any other, being. Therefore, all kinds of beings appear to have their necessary place in the scheme of things. They are the One Being’s endless ways of exploring Itself, lovingly and incestuously birthing out of Itself and interacting with Itself.

But then we could ask why each of us individual expressions of the Universal Mind does not therefore automatically possess the infinite repertoire of possible cognitive, energy, and behavior capacities of our parent Mind. One response is that if we could overcome the separation that is our own being enough to draw too much on and become too interfused with the Universal, we would no longer be the individuals that we by Its own design are meant to be. That is, how could the Universal Mind experience Itself in all Its myriad constrained individuations and differentiations unless It dissociated them from Itself—and perhaps even Itself from them—enough that they could have the experience of being their own individual selves (subpersonalities), their own essential personhood, separated out from, and unflooded by, Itself as the Universal? If we are the way the Universe focuses Its attention in order to create intentional objects and behaviors out of and for Its own consciousness and experience, then it is important that Its attention remains paid in the ways that it is so Its own individuated experience-accruing expressions can play themselves out to fruition from their seeded starts. In this way, we subpersonalities and our worlds of experience are like Its own thought experiments. These thought experiments are left free to unfold uninterrupted and according to the constraints that the Universal Mind has placed upon what may occur within them, and according to the programs and constraints that operate as the creative and choiceful action of us as that Mind's own subpersonalities working within It.

A second speculation is that the current especially dissociated state that we as a species are experiencing on our planet is the result of dark forces that conspire to keep us from becoming awake and empowered so that we could act out of the realization that we share the identity and potential capacities of our Creator. According to this view, these dark, conspiratorial forces are also subpersonalities of the one Being, but they have as the goal of the free will exercise of their intention the control over subpersonalities less aware, and therefore more cosmologically dissociated, than themselves. These supposed darkly motivated beings need to try and keep us human beings unconscious of our true nature for their own selfish designs; and yet they are experience-accruing expressions of the same Creator as are we, and sooner or later they will learn from their experiences not to so stultify the growth and free expression of fellow beings less aware than themselves. Such speculated forces have gone by many names, including the power of evil, the demonic, Satan, Lucifer, the Dark Brotherhood, the evil demiurge, and totalitarian-oriented extraterrestrials from Orion and elsewhere.

The third and final speculation as to why cosmological dissociation may exist (from our human perspective) is that we have done it to ourselves. We should really be having our cake and eating it too, but we have strayed away from the Universally-intended design. According to this perspective, we possess and consciously experience our own unique free-will and individual nature, on one hand, and yet, on the other hand, we should simultaneously also be consciously experiencing ourselves as the direct-access, differentiated expressions of the Universal Being, and, as such, we should be living out our existences through all manner of experienceable realities joyfully, lovingly, harmoniously, and fulfillingly in light of this awareness. This scenario of subpersonalities consciously possessing and operating with a kind of dual citizenship and identity—both individual and Universal—may have at one time been the way it was for us human beings. It may well now be the way it is for our fellow subpersonalities in the form of more evolved extraterrestrials or higher-dimensional beings, or in the form of our own Nature spirits said to experience themselves as differentiated and yet much less dissociated than us. But, because of our free will, we have individually and as a species led ourselves through an evolutionary pattern of reality-creating experience-accruing adventures that have generally been distinguished by their tendency to render us even more dissociated than we were initially designed to be. Even though our self-chosen adventures are, according to the prior speculation, expressions of the Universe's Self-adventure and Self-exploration, and even though we may be designed to grow by way of our adventures to learn that we are, ever more consciously, expressions of this Universal Being, nonetheless, it would seem that, paradoxically, we have become more, not less, cognitively and energetically estranged from, and unconscious of, that true “dual citizenship” identity that we have actually possessed throughout.

According to this third view, then, we, as a species on this planet, have used the free will that we were given as cosmological subpersonalities to bring about our own kind of fall from what we now only dimly and metaphorically sense as some kind of garden of differentiated yet undissociated Oneness. We were created as creators capable of choosing our own realities. However, apparently because of what we could learn from it, we have chosen realities and behaved and construed in such ways as to render ourselves even more dissociated than we were initially created to be as individually differentiated expressions of the Universal which was choosing Its realities through, and as, us choosing ours. But why would some of us subpersonalities—the entire human species, for example—choose to exercise free will to turn away from the consciousness and causal efficacy of knowing and living our true identity as living aspects of the Mind of God? Perhaps because one cannot have heroic adventures of working through challenging circumstance to successful completion if one does not have such circumstances through which to work. One needs the adventure of being lost in order to experience what it is like to be found. One cannot have the experience of falling in love and becoming loving and loved with regard to others unless one allows oneself—or is allowed by one’s Creator—to experience the prerequisite state of not having them either to love or be loved by. One may also need the presence of the already-experienced lover and beloved aspects taken away from oneself in order to deepen one’s understanding and appreciation. It is even possible to comprehend that the ultimate lover and beloved for each of us is the Being Whose potentially loving and lovable subpersonalities we are; and all the dissociation that we have experienced thus far has been required as the path toward eventually knowing and valuing this.

How can one learn not to further dissociate oneself with self-chosen acts of estrangement, selfishness, anger, hate, fear, and so on, unless one is free to experience the repercussions of such acts? How can one know what it is like to learn something unless there was a time when the thing had not yet been learned? We are ignorant so that we might gain wisdom; unconscious that we might become conscious; unloving and unloved that we might learn love. We are, perhaps, God playing hide and seek with Itself, teaching and learning from Itself. This may be a more positive view of the estranging, and yet reality- and experience- generating, nature of our dissociation. All seems destined to be a process of learning and growing. The living through of any life requires the energetic, spatiotemporal, and cognitive, dimensional separation of its own seed from its own fruit. If the goal were already achieved then there would be no need for any goal-envisioning mindfulness And goal-directed behavior or for any of the endless mediating and dimensionally constrained spatiotemporal events and cognitive contemplations, construals, compilations, and integrations needed to be moved through in order to achieve anything and everything, or to grow anything that is able to be experienced, or to experience itself, throughout such growth. And still we may ask: How long must it be until we return ourselves through all this necessary dissociation to the wonders that we intuit, and dimly remember, await us once the exacerbated dissociated states we have created for ourselves can be overcome and we have learned to exist lovingly and knowingly within the realization that all is One Being?

I do not believe that we necessarily need to think that only one of the above three perspectives must be used to explain why we are experiencing the cosmological dissociation I have been positing. Indeed, I believe that the first and third points of view equally underlie our current experience as individuals and as a species. One can even see the tendency to superimpose the two at work in the previous paragraph. The second viewpoint, however, may be rather hard to take for many. Still, I think that it plays a certain, though more limited, role. After all, we can picture even many of our own fellow human beings motivated by their own selfish ends to maintain power and control over others by working to keep them dissociated enough with regard to their own possibilities of energetic and cognitive connection to our common Universal Being.

A Way of Looking at Reality Creation: The Kind of Dissociation Determines the Kind of Reality; Change the Dissociation and You Change the Reality

I have pictured us as subpersonalities that take our being from some kind of Universal personality-less ground for all personalities (and subpersonalities). We experience that ground as being as dissociated from us and across Its own aspects as we experience ourselves as dissociated from It. Each subpersonality is like a multidimensional inertial frame of reference and an experience-gathering containment vehicle of sorts that takes its being from the Universal and in turn serves as a perspective on the Universal and its contents (including on oneself). Each experience of what is real and true is observer-determined; it is a function of the subpersonality as frame of reference. The experienced nature of reality is always a function of the particularly differentiated identity of the one doing the experiencing. Various put, the identified is always a function of the identifier; images are a function of the imager; and personally experiencable energy and object fields are a function of the one correlating or tuning to them, or collapsing the quantum wave function representing them, or otherways being seen to objectify them for oneself by means of one's own particular energy and consciousness. In short, there are as many different kinds of reality as there are kinds of perspectives created and held by all possible reality-constitutors. Within the Universe, or God, there are innumerable such perspective-holding reality-constitutors, which/whom I have chosen to see as Its own subpersonalities.

It would seem that our normal day-to-day experience of consensus reality, with its apparent physically independent environment and events, would counter this view of personal reality creation. However, any consensus reality is produced by those contributing to it, resulting in what is commonly held to be objectively real, i.e., intersubjectively sensately validated and corroborated as apparently objectively real independent of those experiencing it. However, this experience of consensually construed objective reality occurs directly as a function of how sufficiently similar are the kinds and degrees of dissociation of the consciousnesses and vibratory energy systems of the subpersonalities involved as the conjoint constitutors of consensus reality.

In another way of putting this, all experience of which an individual, or group of individuals simultaneously, is capable is state-specific or state-dependent. That is, particular states of one's mind/consciousness and energy/body—which are always variably taking their being from the underlying Universal Being—have associated with them, available to them, discrete information and vibratory energy realms of experience with which they are coupled and co-extensive, or to which they are resonantly tuned. To the extent to which the particular configuration and constitution of any individual subpersonality as localized perspective-holding reality-constitutor is dissociated from its Source, it will to that extent render and construe for itself, in both its apparent “inner” and “outer” experiences, a resulting differentiatedness, dis-unity, and dissociation away from the united Identity of that which underlies and is responsible for all that exists. To the extent of its own dissociation, that subpersonality will experience and construe differentiation, separateness, dis-unity, and dissociation within itself (e.g., as conscious vis a vis unconscious aspects), and between itself and other localized, dissociated beings, as well as between itself and the one underlying identity and unity from which all such individuals derive their being.

It would appear that each species of which we are currently aware (at this stage of our own development as a species) shares across its members a similar-enough kind and degree of what I'm calling cosmological dissociation that a nesting and symbiotic ecological relationship of myriad species-specific consensus realities seems to be the case, including purported consensus realities shared by individual beings on other levels or dimensions of reality than our own current physically based one. To varying degrees, species are shut off from one another as a function of the state-dependent kind of dissociation and differentiation of energy and consciousness necessary to share their reality. In order to share what it would be like to be a member of a species other than our own, we would have to somehow take on its particular individuated energy/consciousness configuration, which is its kind and degree of dissociation, in order to then experience how it experiences the energy and consciousness of itself and that which appears to it to lie relatively outside of itself. To have ultimate compassion for another dissociated being—for his, her, or its, existence—one must don, or experience by means of, the other's dissociation as the mode of its kind of being.

Within this species-specific view, there is something especially interesting about our own human species and its kind of dissociation. In contradistinction to most or all other species of which we are aware within our current level of dissociation, we appear able to a certain extent to already be, or to at least potentially become, consciously aware that we are in the particular relationship we are: that of being subpersonalities in relative cosmological dissociation with respect to the underlying Universal Being from which we take, or are given, each moment our own dissociated and individuated beings capable of such an awareness. If one happens to attain this awareness, it may be then possible to consciously experiment with our situation—like the dreamer once he or she has become lucid within the dream. Part of this experimentation can involve a form of intentional change of state of one's own system (a change of energy, of brain waves, of mind; an effort of will, a desiring, et al). This change is made not only with regard to oneself but also with respect to the Universal System within which we and all other beings are birthed and embedded. And I am suggesting that with such a change in dissociation as self-configuration and relation to one's Source, a resulting change can take place in one's experience of what is real.

Some Metaphoric Variations on the Theme

Consider the following set of inter-related variations on our theme that combine physics, philosophy, and metaphor and operate under a kind of poetic license in order to bring to light more veins of precision from the ore of rough approximation we have been working with thus far.

Reality as Text; Creator as Author and Reader

Think of the texture of our ordinary waking lives: perceived sensate objects and tremendously complex, unfolding spatiotemporal real objective events comprised of matter and energy overlaid with a final veneer of our own meaning-making systems of construal. All this texture we experience seems to maintain its existence “out there” in the environment, well beyond what most of us would consider to be the sphere of our immediate creation or influence. Now consider that this texture of the ongoing real world we are experiencing is something like the moment-to-moment “text” of our experience: the surface-structure explicitness generated from whatever deep-structure that may be at work in the form of the as-yet-unknown cosmological “grammar” operating throughout Creation, that, in turn, may indeed be the operation of the Creator Itself.

To restate this perspective somewhat, the deepest repository and generation site of any and all meaning could be seen as an underlying unbounded semantical space—or omniscient Universal Mind—from which arise all individually bound up, syntactically arranged and spelled out, surface structure symbolic material that is lexically connected to, and lawfully deriving its truth conditions from, its own prerequisite semantical grounds. Ideally one reads a text by the light of the same meaning which had formed and informed that text into being in the first place.

Ancient sanskrit and more-recent magical notions describe how the source of the initial naming process, the name, and the named are all conjoined by, and held within, a common intentional, causal mind. Such a conjoining could also be understood in terms of a continuum of meaning and purpose that is mediated by a connecting, similarly configured vibratory consciousness/energy. It is as if the uttering of something into differentiated being generated an excitation pattern, much like a vibratory Chladni or Jenny pattern. Then any change in that something’s being, or any true knowing of it, or any so-called mental representation of it, would have to involve coded mathematical and energy relations of such patternings of the differentiating process, of the presence of the already- differentiated, and of the process of working to understand what is differentiated in an attempt to overcome dissociation within the cognition of the individual as cosmological subpersonality.

I have in the past used the term “Orphic Resonance” to refer to another aspect of this text-authoring creational process, naming it after the mythic Greek figure Orpheus who was reputed to be able to effect objects with his music, to essentially sing the world into the shape of his song. But, in order to try and explain this process more precisely, we would have to introduce something like harmonic resonant relations that would exist as a wave-mechanical-type coupling agency across the namer, the name, and the named, and between text-creating and text-construing authoring and reading processes. I have said that all that exists is interconnected operations within a single Universal Mind or Ground of Consciousness, whether one chooses to speak in terms of some kind of vibratory thought forms or patterns of differentiated, interacting energy. Many radionic, psychotronic, and other alternative psychophysical parapsysics technologies are said to operate at least somewhat in the manner I have been describing. They supposedly create, or at least somewhat effect, reality, and conjoin components of it, through interdimensional harmonic resonance and projection relations.

Faced with this endlessly detailed texture of reality seen as an incredibly dense and profound text, how on earth could we ever think ourselves to be either directly or indirectly, alone or conjointly, the author of this text, let alone an author who could “write” at will into the future a text different than that which has been written until now? Should we not in all humility, depending on our perspective, simply defer either to a dispassionate “Nature” beyond our understanding or control, or defer to our Creator as the one Author of all Creation, including being the Author of ourselves as Its deeply limited authors operating within It in turn? I think we can take the latter view without abdicating the promise of our own larger creative capacity; for we know from personal, “real” experience that we do in fact bittersweetly effect, to varying degrees, by our own authorship, the Creation we seem surrounded by, and it would appear that we take the creational capacity of this authorship from that which has authored us in the first place. And this is basically the relationship I have been attempting to present throughout: We are reality creators operating within the bosom of our Creator and Its Creation; and we can both add to and actually change the reality we experience as a function of the degree of our awareness of ourselves as subpersonalities possessing creatorship in relation to the Creator and sustainer of us all. Specifically, the more we can overcome our dissociation, the more we as authors can access our Author's subpersonality-transcending creational efficacy.

Symmetry Breaking, Creation Operators, and Related Concepts

The specific sum and configuration of each human being's kind and degree of consciousness/energy dissociation as subpersonality is derived from the explicit formula for how it is broken from, differentiated out of, or dissociated away from, the underlying unified field symmetry of the One. As tremendously difficult, multidimensional, and detailed as it might actually turn out to be, I believe that there exists a procedure for binding complex variables up out of an unbounded ground (or of uttering them into being, as earlier suggested); that there is something like a field-differentiating generation function or a quantization generator to establish an n-dimensional array of harmonic oscillators with an excitation procedure to differentially resonate them into the particular configuration that is their mode of being within the larger Being; that there is something like a complex creation operator for, or an algorithm for assembling, the particular symmetry-breaking superposition or local space-time deformation coefficients that would amount to and account for the properties, qualities, and potentialities of each dissociated subpersonality of the Universal. Combined with earlier ways of putting it, each such subpersonality is then something like a broken-from-symmetry (i.e., dissociated) energy/consciousness vibratory wave system as an inertial frame of reference in the form of an experience-gathering, reality-constructing-and-construing containment vehicle made up out of the Universal Being in the form of one particular self-interactive configuration out of Itself.

What is crucial to realize now, I think, is that, if we could only understand this hypothesized, potentially explicitly formulatable process for how each of us individuated beings takes, or receives, our being from the Universal, then we would know how to manifest what we wish within our reality; for I believe that the process by which we have been manifested is the same process by which we can manifest in turn, if, in truth, we are subpersonalities operating within and as individuations of our own Creator.

The Metaphor of a Cosmological Genetic Code

Perhaps the specific formula for reality creation might be spelled out in something like a genetic code that says: The way that the system is dissociated is the way that it is differentiated, and the way that it is differentiated gives rise to the lawful constraints within which that system is bound to draw to itself from the larger embedding system that which it requires to evolve and grow itself to the fruition and fulfillment of its own kind of differentiation. This genetic-code-like formula or algorithm also constrains the system's repertoire of possible interactive behaviors and construals with regard to other adjacent or experienceable subpersonality systems and with regard to the embedding System of all such systems. So the members of one species of what I am calling cosmological subpersonalities—be they sheep or flowers, planets or people—take their structure, as the morphological differentiation of themselves as experience-gathering behavioral vehicles, and take their function, as their capacity for utilizing the structure of their dissociation in order to respond and behave, to be however conscious, to make whatever meanings, and to operate in interaction with regard to other such structures and their functions.

In addition, more evolved species such as the human could be seen to have a kind of secondary genetic code in operation: cognitive structures as directions and valences for event generation or attraction, as programs for action and algorithms for assembly of the object-field contents of consciousness and for the construal of the assembled, and as the particularly dissociated and configured complex creation operators that contribute to the fine tuning of what is as yet only the partially focused realities that are drawn to the individual subpersonality as a function of the primary genetic code that is its species-specific kind of dissociation.

Yet another way of looking at this genetic code metaphor is to think that any dissociated system is forever in interaction with aspects of itself, with other such systems, and with the Universal. Since all differentiated beings are as subpersonalities of the One, then the resulting interactionism of each dissociated aspect with other such aspects and with the ground from which all such dissociations arise is comprised of the endless modes of a vast ‘cosmological incestuous intercourse’ of the One Being with Itself. Then, to continue the metaphor, the “offspring” that arise from this interactionism seen as intercourse will be, for each dissociated being, the objectified contents of that being’s experience: the objects as contents of its consciousness, the ongoing seemingly surrounding or incoming texture and text of its experienced reality. A cosmological subpersonality’s metaphoric genetic code—its particular program for structural assembly, for behavioral action of the structure vis a vis other such structures, and even for meaning construal with regard to all such structures and structured events it is capable of experiencing—is derived from the specific kind and degree of dissociation of that subpersonality. That is, the nature of the dissociation gives rise to the nature of the genetic code responsible, in turn, for then tuning to, attracting, resonantly entraining or being entrained by, assembling, structuring, manifesting, collapsing the quantum wave function probability field into, or in otherways essentially creating, its own ongoing reality for itself.

A Monist Ether Dynamism in Interaction with Itself, and We as Its Expressions

A theme recurring throughout this presentation is that the Universal Being within which all of us exist as Its subpersonalities, is a single monist Being, a multidimensional vibratory matrix—called by some an “ether.” The philosopher Spinoza used the term “substance,” and Hegel used “Absolute Spirit.” This cosmic plenum contains the potentiality for all that could be the case of what we, from our current level of dissociation, think of as energy and consciousness. It is the Universal Ground which contains the possibility for all that we currently deem time and space, events and meanings, that which/who can experience and that which/who can be experienced.

Given the hypothesized monist energy/consciousness wave nature of all that exists, there would then be some kind of Fourier transform mathematics and wave mechanics to account for how tremendously multiplexed superimpositions of this wave-based “grammar” could spell into local dissociated and differentiated being individuals which/whom are then capable of spelling into further being for themselves what is real as a function of the invariances, fluctuations, and transformations that take place within their own wave systems with regard to other wave systems and with regard to the ground for all such wave grammar. All that exists, then, would be a matter of the phase relations of different aspects of a monist Being comprised of vibratory energy/consciousness waves (or living self-waveable ether) that is incestuously in interaction with Itself. Sufficiently shifting the phase relations of the superimposed wave system within a relatively dissociated cosmological subpersonality would in turn effect its phase relations with those wave systems which lie apparently beyond itself, resulting in experiential content for the consciousness of that individual that would be different from what had been available prior to such a shift.

All experiencers and all experienced events and phenomenology would have their origin within the interference- patterning holographic self-interaction of the One. The all-coherent Light of the Universal Mind or Ground of Consciousness is seen as generating and sustaining all that exists as Its infinitude of differentiations and dissociations, Its multidimensionality, and Its subjective and objective aspects. We can understand and effect the contents of this Mind—such contents as we take to be objectively real and beyond ourselves as experienced in normal waking consciousness—only insofar as we can understand that the contents that are our own beings, and the contents of our own minds as what we experience to be real, are actually the contents of this all-containing Mind. If the content of this Mind is comprised of the countless changes of state and phase and resonance relations of Itself in Self-interaction, giving rise to all subpersonalities and their experiences, then we may be able to effect our own reality by wave-mechanically engineering those changes of state and shifts of interacting phase relations that are the raw material for all reality creation.

The possibility of wave-interactive engineering tactics brings us back to our earlier metaphor of primary and secondary kinds of genetic code: We take from our Creator an approximate domain of Its Creation to operate within as a function of our specific level of dissociation as the constraint on the possibility of what we can experience. As creators operating within our Creator, we take our being and creational processes from It. We, in turn, as unique individuals within our species, further fine tune and appear to draw our personal realities to us out of the probability field or frequency domain that is within the Universal infinitude available to us as a function of our species' dissociation. It is with respect to these personal reality structures that we then function, behave, and make our meanings in a further complexity of creative activity that, in turn, has repercussions that are the new local realities to experience. One either tunes to, or synthetically superimposes together, the complex wave systems of experientable reality, in both species-specific and individual ways.

Now, in the earlier metaphor of author and text, we are faced with being the case of such wave systems of the one Being—ourselves as author/readers—working with other wave systems with which we are out of phase—the text—giving rise to our experience of dissociation from them. The dissociated aspect that is not yet conscious of how or why it has creationally surrounded itself with text must then learn how to read what it has already authored for itself out of a part of itself from which it remains dissociated until it learns by interaction with its own creations that which can only truly be known in the less-dissociated state it is evolving toward as it comes into complete resonance with that with which it was earlier out of phase. This admittedly rather bewildering process underlies the earlier-mentioned case of the “amnesiac ventriloquist.” There is a dissociation, or perhaps an energy/consciousness lag of sorts, such that the generator part—the “voice throwing” in this case—is sufficiently separate from the listening part—the ventriloquist hearing the voice but not recognizing it as of his own creation. As a result, we have a case of a creator in touch with his creation, i.e., able to experience it, but being not in touch with the fact that he created that which he is experiencing. To the degree to which a subpersonality remains out of phase within its dissociation between its authoring and its reading and understanding functions with regard to its own experienceable reality as text, to that degree will there be spatial, temporal, and consciousness (or cognitional information processing) removes to have to experience oneself through over time in order to know what is really going on. The nature of dissociation, as a state of being out of phase, gives rise to the need for certain spatial and temporal Fourier transforms to generate the endlessly complex space, time, energy, and consciousness/cognitional wave events to be experienced in order to overcome that dissociation. Out-of-phase-ness is why the acorn is not already the oak; and why we, in our human lives as Its subpersonalities, are not yet (one with) God. Meanwhile, resonance is the guiding mechanism that returns us to the condition of being harmoniously in-phase.

Bohm: Reality Creation as Explicating from the Implicate Order

Another way to look at what has been speculated in the prior section is to adapt from physicist David Bohm's holographic implicate/explicate order model first popularly presented in his book Wholeness and the Implicate Order (Bohm, 1980). What Bohm calls the explicate order is all that we know, and can know, as objective, physical reality; while the implicate order is purely a non-temporal, non-spatial, non-objective frequency domain that serves as a kind of creational ground for all things explicate as well as for all consciousness and its contents. In my all-too-brief adaption here, my notion of each cosmological subpersonality would, in Bohm's terms, have gotten its reality by having been explicated from the underlying universal implicate order, giving rise to both its structure and its possibilities of function. This process would also have given rise to the constraint system that comprises the possibilities of what it can experience as locally and personally real through time, depending on the degree of invariance versus fluctuation and transformation of its explicate-order nature, and depending on its phase relations with other aspects of the frequency domain with which it is capable of interaction.

Wedding Bohm's terms to my own, then, personal reality creation is a kind of second-order explication: Explicated into being out of the implicate order, the now relatively dissociated subpersonality in turn explicates for itself the apparently explicate-order objects and events of its experience as a function of its own particular explicateness (or, in my terms, its genetically determined differentiatedness out of its dissociation). The cosmological subpersonality does this explication of its own experienced reality in the same manner that it was explicated into being; for all is operating within and as one Universal Being, one underlying process. And as we subpersonalities take our energy and our consciousness solely from that Being, so do we take our daily "bread" of reality, apparently objective to us, even as the bread of our bodies and energy configurations have been given to us. If the Universal Being, of which we are relatively dissociated and explicated offspring subpersonalities, is the one hyper-dimensional frequency domain implicate order responsible for all that is, then we explicate from our underlying common implicate order as Being that which we each experience as real for ourselves, and we do this in the same manner in which we have been explicated. All processes of explication—or the rendering as experientially real and objective—take their power and procedure from the prerequisite and constitutive implicate order from which, according to Bohm and me, all objective and subjective, experiencing and objectively experienced, being must arise.

It will have to suffice for now only to suggest the possibility of developing a potentially rigorous generative mathematical and wave mechanical system with which to understand and even engineer the composition of the explicate subpersonalities and how they may explicate in turn their locally experienced reality from the underlying implicate-order source of all explication. Then how one chooses to take one's being—to the degree to which one can exercise conscious choice in the matter; how one may constitute oneself out of and vis and vis the underlying ground; and how one chooses to be interacting with and drawing from the implicate order in a different way than before—would then give rise to a different experience of reality or an experience of a different reality.

Roughly speaking, and to continue to use Bohm's terms, change in self-explication out of the implicate order will predictably effect how one experiences, and therefore will effect what one may explicate as what one experiences as real for oneself from the same implicate order. Simply put, in order to change one's reality, one must change oneself. And finally, the degree to which any cosmological subpersonality has choice in the matter of changing itself so as to change its experienced reality will be the degree to which it realizes that it can differentially relate to and access the underlying universal, or implicate, order. The more awareness that one has of being a subpersonality within a Universal living Mind/Being, the more deeply and productively one can draw upon the implicate order of Its basic nature in order to explicate both self-change and change in what seems external reality as experienced and understood from that level of one's own cosmological dissociation.

How Do We Overcome Dissociation In Order to Access Differently from the Universal and Thus Change Our Own Reality?

Let me repeat my basic contention: We are each a sub-system, or subpersonality, that takes our uniquely configured being from, and maintains our being within, an all-inclusive System that is a self-interactive monist energy/consciousness. To the degree to which we can overcome our experienced dissociation from that underlying and all-maintaining Being, to that degree can we gain ever-more access to the information, consciousness, and energy of ourselves, each other, and of other sub-systems, and to that degree can we have available to us and make our own a greater degree of those traditionally pictured qualities and actualities of this underlying Being: Its omniscience, omnipotence, omnipresence, and omnibenevolence (or all-lovingness), as well as Its infinitude and eternalness. If we are truly subpersonalities within the larger Mind/Consciousness (Body, Heart, and Spirit) of God, then, given our own respective coming to terms with and slow overcoming of the dissociation, we face the potential of ever greater and more profound intercourse, integration, and cooperative and harmonious at-one-ment within our respective selves, among ourselves, and between ourselves and that from which we all take our being and from which we create our own respective experiences of what is real.

Still, the question remains: In what specific ways can we have informational and energetic access to more of that all-inclusive Being within which we have our own being, given the dissociation that we are used to experiencing with regard to It? I believe that in order to achieve such access we can utilize one or more of a number of specific inter-related concepts and processes that together comprise a set of procedures that are engineering tactics for working creationally with the material of the one monist unified field. Due to the length of this presentation, however, I will only be able to touch on them briefly here. A more detailed "How To Do It" treatment must await a separate presentation for which the current one would serve as the necessary conceptual framework.

Surrendering Vs. Exercising Personal Choice

I believe that all approaches to reality creation involve learning ways to open oneself to become less dissociated from and more connected to and able to access, the omniscience, omnipotence, omnipresence, and omnibenevolence of the Universal Being. But opening to the underlying Universal Itself without any qualification by oneself regarding what one is doing this for, what one wishes to experience as a result, may appear too unfocused for some. It is my view, however, that it is enough simply to open to the Universal with the inward intention and wish that “I Am that I Am (or I am Thy I Am);” or “Thy Will, not mine, be done;” or “Help me to be Your worthy vehicle (or channel);” or “I ask that Your love, wisdom, guidance, and healing energies flow through me both for my own evolverment (overcoming dissociation) and for that of my fellow human beings;” or “I now ask that You flow into me with what You deem best to aid me in dealing with what I am faced with.”

While this approach may be sufficient for me, and while it may even result in empirical proof of its efficacy in the form of perceived changes in one’s reality, changes that are deemed positive, useful, integrating, healing, and so on, it may not provide enough focus or sense of personal control or predictive power for other human beings. However, I think that to seek this personal control and choicefulness, given the problematic, counterproductive present stage of our evolution as a still-deeply-dissociated species is ill-advised even though we will always continue to learn what we need to from our personally and purposefully sought reality creation. And what is it that we are forever learning? To overcome our cosmological dissociation at the same time as we retain our individuality; and to openly channel the one Being through us as a differentiated expression of Itself in loving, interaction with Its other expressions.

Primary and Secondary Assenting

I believe that the key to overcoming dissociation in order to effect one’s reality lies in a process that I call assenting, which has both primary and secondary modes of operation. Such assenting, in its primary mode, is a method of simply surrendering oneself as subpersonality to the underlying Being. This involves the inter-related concepts and processes of self-modulation; of self-effacement or surrender; of opening to the possibilities of entrainment and superconductivity through making one’s own system quiescent and transparent, rather than opaque; of coherence, and of being able to be susceptible to and in resonance with higher-octave entraining organizational fields of energy and consciousness, or being able to receive higher-dimensional projections into one’s own lower-dimensional system. The secondary mode, which requires a degree of the primary mode as its necessary prerequisite, or self-transcending interdimensional carrier wave, involves ways of specifically setting one’s own reality-creating or reality-choosing intention, either mentally, visually, or verbally.

Because our relatively local dissociated consciousness fields reside as subpersonalities within the Universal Mind/Consciousness, our thoughts, images, and objectified realities experienced by us are essentially from and always within the Universal; and the thoughts, images and objectifications residing as potentialities for us within the infinitude of the Universal are available to us to varying degrees as a function of our degree of dissociation. What we hold in mind with conscious attention and intention is being chosen, resonantly tuned to, and brought to consciousness, within the Universal Mind. Therefore, for us to assent to—to say YES within, to completely open to and accept—a particular objectification from the infinitude of possibilities, is for us to choose which reality we want to have become objectified enough to experience.

Opening to the Universal is what I choose to call the primary form of assenting-to or setting intention (the intention that one open to one’s Source.). It is the approach that I limit myself to and the one that I recommend for our species at present, due to our rather-dangerous level of dissociation. Nonetheless, we have the possibility of assenting in a secondary way to all manner of objectifiable creations that might enter our experience. In order to focus what we wish more specifically to assent to, we must clearly hold it in mind. This is usually done by either visualizing it (i.e., mentally imaging it) or verbalizing it (whether sub-vocally or aloud), since bringing to mind a kind of pure telepathic idea or “thought form” devoid of visuo-spatial and language flesh or focus is not always possible at our stage of dissociation.

Virtually all of the perennial philosophy, magical, and current New Age, approaches to choicefully, consciously creating one’s own reality can be accounted for by one, or a combination of, these visualizing, verbalizing, and conceptualizing techniques that can only be generally alluded to here. All of the inter-related processes of secondary assenting serve to focus and objectify what it is one wishes to have as a result of the degree of primary assenting that one has necessarily had to do first in order to open to the Universal that lies beyond the possibilities that accompany one’s normal degree of dissociation. The degree of quality of such secondary-type conceptual, visual, or verbal setting of intention—of choosing and holding within oneself that which one is assenting to having be the case as experienceable—requires the best possible focus, coherence, and intensity or amplitude of the energy/consciousness wave systems involved. It also involves conviction, or the degree to which one truly believes that one’s initial apparent dissociation from the assented-to will be overcome, or—strangely—turn out to have never been the case. This is the ultimate version of what is called perceived self-efficacy. The quantity of secondary assenting simply involves the reiteration over time of the setting and focusing of one’s intention with as much quality as possible. The most efficacious results would involve a combination of quality and quantity.

Conclusion

It has not been the purpose of this presentation to focus on the range of techniques for possible reality creation, nor has there been space to do so. Such must await a companion presentation based on the present one. Rather, I have tried here to provide an overall conceptual framework for understanding the basic nature of what I have called cosmological dissociation and how it gives rise to subpersonalities who experience their reality as a function of their kind and degree of dissociation.

I believe that we human beings are capable of overcoming to an as yet unknown degree the present dissociation that we are experiencing both individually and as a species. We can do this by using the secondary and, preferably, the primary modes of reality creation earlier described as ways of differentially programming and accessing the Universal as we operate as aspects of It. I believe that in the coming years we will be helped both from beyond and from within our human species to learn to willfully accelerate the evolutionary process that is dissociation-transcending in its nature and design.

The Difference Between Passive and Active Scalar Fields

Dr. Don Paris

The word Scalar has finally made it from an obscure, fringe group of scientists and self acclaimed kooks (like me) into the marketing world. It has become a buzz word to sell everything from glass to jewellery. In this article I hope to clarify what is happening both in the field of marketing and the field of science. The two do not always agree.

Let's begin by defining Intrinsic Data Fields (IDFs). Informational Fields are pure information. They are a bit like the software in your computer for our Bio-System. You can also think of them like the information stored in the DNA. The DNA is not the information stored in them anymore than the radio is not the music that it plays. IDFs are not physical things. You would not take apart your radio and try to find out why it is not playing the music you like to hear.

Here is an analogy:

Consciousness is the director, the intelligence and creativity behind the play. Ideas. The director imagines a play from the depths of his or her consciousness. They then formulate it into form, in other words, they write the lines down for the actors.

The actors are delivering the lines to tell the story. (IDFs). The pure information can be delivered by anyone who can read the lines. So it needs to be a good story. But there is another component that makes the difference between the play being a success or a failure. That is the emotional quality of the actors. Good actors or bad actors can make all the difference. This has to do with available Chi.

The emotional quality of the play is created by the Chi of the actors (their life force energy). Without energy, the play will be boring at best but probably would never make it to the stage. The Chi energy is very important in the delivery of the information. There are several sources of this energy. It can come from each of the different Chakra levels, each on a different frequency band.

For example, some performers come from their first or second Chakra. They send out waves of energy that connect with our survival instinct or our sexual energy. Depending on the performance arena, if the performer has a lot of Chi coming from this area, they can fill a stadium with the energy.

The next level of Chi energy comes from the Solar Plexus and or Heart Chakra. These frequencies vibrate a bit faster than the Root and Sacral Chakra. Performers that generate Chi from these areas do better in smaller venues (like an opera house). They can bring the audience to tears by just walking on stage when their Chi flows.

The performers who come from the Throat, Brow or Crown Chakra have a much higher frequency. These performers are normally found in small groups, for example kirtan and mantra singing. Occasionally some performers like Deva Premal become very well known and can move a very large crowd of people, but it is not common.

If we want to see a different scene in a play, we first consult the director (it is his show) and discuss our idea. If we were to give new lines to the actors directly, they might read them but would not create the new scene for the audience until it was cleared with the director.

So when people claim there is scalar energy embedded in glass or beads or jewellery or blankets or holograms, crystals, or even perfume! etc. etc., they are usually talking about the IDFs being stored in some type of physical object. These are what I call "Passive Scalar Devices". The effectiveness of these types of "Scalar" devices then depends completely on the available Chi of the user. When the object is brought into the aura of the user, and the user's Chi energy is high enough, then the information will begin to resonate the new information into the energy field and aura of the user.

So this will work under certain conditions:

1. When there is enough Chi in the user.
2. When the proximity of the object is close enough to the person. That also depends on their current level of Chi. If they have a very strong aura and lots of energy, they may "feel" the vibrations of the object from a greater distance than a person with less Chi.

So in a real sense, this is not Scalar Energy embedded in these objects, but Informational Fields or IDFs. The "energy" is supplied from the end user, hence I call it a passive type scalar device.

But many products on the market are not even imprinted with IDF patterns. They are claiming scalar fields are created by the nature of the materials that they use in construction. While some substances and materials do have unique energy properties, calling them scalar fields is only for advertising.

For an active Scalar Field, you would need a scalar wave producer of some sort. This could be a scalar antenna that is driven by certain frequencies for example. It could also be your own brain if you learn how to turn on both sides of your brain equally to produce a collapsed electromagnetic field. That is how some people do "miracles" like being able to see things at a distance or bend spoons with their mind.

The best combination, of course, would be a source of IDFs (like IDFs stored in a passive medium like crystals or holograms) with an active Scalar Field. In this way you do not need to have a fully charged aura or Chi energy field to receive the benefits of the IDFs. With the proper circuits, you could even transmit the IDFs to a distant location.

By combining an object with embedded IDF patterns, with a scalar transmitter, the user can benefit from the Informational Fields (for example a hologram programmed to balance the Chakras) even if they are in a low energy state. For example, many EMF protection devices claim they are protecting you from harmful EMF radiation. But when it comes down to science, they leave that to belief in the product. This is from one website for a "Scalar Pendant"

Where is the proof of these benefits?

If you look for the proof of "chi" energy it's all around you. Looking for proof of quantum physics is in the results not the cause and effects. Rather like the great religions of the world one either believes or does not. Look at the tests and observe and taste the differences. If you are like most, you will feel more stamina, creativity and clarity wearing the pendant.

In my 1 Day extension workshop with Lutie Larsen of Little Farm Research, we will explore both Active and Passive Scalar devices and instruments and show the results that can be obtained by using these different technologies. ## PSYCHOTRONICS YESTERDAY, TODAY AND TOMORROW

Dr. Henry C. Monteith

Beginning at the very moment when a newborn baby takes its first breath, there appears to be an innate urge which propels it to reach out and learn. Accompanying this desire to learn is the need to love and be loved; therefore, from this observation one readily concludes that the purpose of man must be intimately related to learning and loving. Here, one is reminded of the immortal statement which was given by Orfeo Angelucci:

"In the final analysis, there is but one virtue, the love of pure learning; and all else is but procrastination and dissipation in the eyes of the Eternal One who patiently awaits our evolutionary awakenings."

Thus it appears that there can be no happiness in man unless his life is filled with learning and loving because only in this way can the purpose of his existence be fulfilled. The major purpose of psychotronics is to study the means by which man can be brought to a realization of his higher nature so that he might feel the impulses of the cosmic mind and sense that finer thread of consciousness which permeates all of space, time, and matter. In psychotronics, one studies not only the material universe — the vehicle through which consciousness expresses itself — but also seeks to discover the invisible cause from which the universe began.

A Brief History of Psychotronics

Where and when did psychotronic investigation begin? There is no concrete answer to this question because aspects of the psychotronic art and science have existed as long as man himself. At the dawn of such investigations psychotronics and natural science were mutually inclusive. The high priests, the philosophers, the astrologers, and the soothsayers were also the scientists. When the prophets of old worked their "miracles"; when Moses parted the Red Sea with a touch of his staff; when Christ walked upon the water, healed the sick, and raised the dead — all were practicing psychotronics.

Psychotronics was part of religion until religion became dogmatic. Where absolute truth was proclaimed and belief was considered knowledge, there was no place for those who sought for higher awareness. There was no alternative but to break off from established religion. Thereafter, psychotronics expressed itself very strongly within magic, witchcraft and alchemy. This trend of affairs continued, in the Western world, until the 16th Century when investigators such as Copernicus and Galileo began developing the scientific method, which ultimately led to the discipline of physical science as it is known today.

In the Eastern world, focusing primarily on China, the development of psychotronics followed quite a different path. Acupuncture has been practiced in China for more than five thousand years, long before Western civilization had its birth. Those who practiced this art believed that a subtle energy, intimately associated with the processes of life, flowed with great intensity along specific pathways in the human body and that this flow could be influenced by inserting needles into the various points of the body where this energy enters and exits. The Chinese believe that this living energy has two poles — the positive referred to as Yang, and the negative called Yin. Since the scientific method did not exist when acupuncture was developed, and since the Chinese firmly believe that this energy is influenced by mental processes, acupuncture fits firmly into the domain of psychotronics.

The actual origins of the concept of a subtle energy, more refined than electricity, is lost in history. However, certain documents which were found in India and Tibet indicate that this concept was passed down from a great civilization which existed on Earth previous to recorded history and which was destroyed around fifteen thousand B.C. Apparently, these ancient peoples referred to this living energy as vril.

Physical science relies entirely upon gathering facts through experiment, forming an hypothesis based on those facts, and then testing the hypothesis until it can be confirmed as a law of nature. Psychotronics, on the other hand, does not reject the technique of physical science, but considers it to be only one road to knowledge among many. There is no known scientific instrument which can directly detect the vril. Consequently, its secrets can only be unlocked through psychotronics.

Psychotronics began to become an organized discipline in the West when the Society for Psychical Research was established in London in 1882 (Jane Oppenheim, 1986). Many of the 19th Century's most famous scientists joined this Society. Among them were such noted scientific giants as Lord Rayleigh, J. J. Thomson, William Crookes, and Sir Oliver Lodge. In 1922, Sir Oliver Lodge wrote an article presenting his views on psychic science (J. Arthur Thomson, 1922), which were strongly influenced by his belief in the ether. The concept of an ether is experiencing a great revival at the present time, so it is of interest to consider the following quote from this 1922 article:

"Some of us are beginning to suspect that these psychical entities are able to utilize the properties of the ether, too — that intangible and elusive medium which fills all space — and if that turn out to be so, we know that this vehicle or medium is much more perfect, less obstructive, and more likely to be permanent, than any form of ordinary matter can be. For in such a medium as ether, there is no wearing out, no decay, no waste or dissipation of energy such as is inevitable when work is done by ponderable and molecularly constituted matter — that matter about which chemists and natural philosophers have ascertained so many and such fascinating qualities. Physicists, chemists, and biologists have arrived at a point in the analysis of matter which opens up a vista of apparently illimitable scope. Our existing scientific knowledge places no ban on supernatural phenomena; rather, it suggests the probability of discoveries in quite novel directions."

It appears that to Sir Oliver Lodge, psychotronics was merely an extension of physical science.

Even though the term psychotronics has been constantly used in this article, it was not coined until the 19th Century — when it appears to have originated with the Soviets, who began very active research in the late 1950's in an area they referred to as psychoenergetics (Krippner, Rubin, 1974). To the Soviets, however, psychotronics was merely a subset of psychoenergetics. In America today, the term psychotronics is being used to include all phenomena which the Soviets referred to as "psychoenergetics."

One might define the area of psychotronics as that domain of human inquiry which includes the study of all phenomena that are created by the direct interaction of the living force, vril, with the ether medium. Here, the term vril is far more inclusive than the term "bioplasma" which is only a certain expression of the vril. To the psychotronic investigator, thoughts are things, and they lie at the foundation of all phenomena, physical and non-physical.

The development of psychotronics in the United States is of recent origin. In December, 1969, the American Association for the Advancement of Science formally admitted the Parapsychological Association into its ranks. Thus the study of paranormal phenomena can henceforth be pursued with some official sanction, a blessing which has been hard to win.

Prior to 1972, if one was asked about the state of psychic research in the United States, about all that would come to mind would be the work of Dr. J. B. Rhine at Duke University which began in the 1935 time frame. Indeed, until the early 1970's, work in psychotronics was kept alive in the United States only by a very few devoted scientists and laymen receiving little or no support, official or otherwise. Even today, support for such work is difficult to obtain. However, there is now a much larger number of dedicated researchers painfully advancing the state of the art.

I believe that the initial impulse which started serious development of psychotronics in the United States was the publication of the book Psychic Discoveries Behind the Iron Curtain (Ostrander, Schroeder, 1970). This book stimulated private researchers in the United States to organize and attempt to reproduce Soviet work in psychotronics. Ken Johnson, Howard Burgess, and I nearly simultaneously reproduced the Kirlian camera in early 1971. Controversy still surrounds this device which is reported to be able to detect the living "bioplasma field" around the human body by causing a high voltage electrical corona to interact with it, an effect which reminds one of the interaction of iron filings with a magnetic field.

On November 15, 1971, the American Society for Psychical Research held a symposium on "Advances in Psychical Research" in the Soviet Union. At the invitation of Dr. J. G. Pratt, then a parapsychologist at the University of Virginia, I demonstrated my Kirlian device and showed photographs that had been taken with it. Dr. Pratt had just returned from a visit to the Soviet Union and gave a report on the many startling psychotronic experiments he had witnessed there. At the conclusion of the formal talks, a panel discussion was held with the panel consisting of the following members: Dr. J. G. Pratt, Parapsychologist, University of Virginia; Dr. Bernard Aaronson, Psychologist, Princeton University; Dr. Lyman Fretwell, Physicist, Bell Laboratories, Whippany, New Jersey; Dr. Gary Gruber, Physicist, Hofstra University, New York City; and myself, Engineering Physicist, Albuquerque, New Mexico. (The management of the laboratory for which I work strongly objected to its name being associated with psychotronic research.)

In the audience of this symposium was Max Toth, an American pioneer in psychotronics, and of Czechoslovakian heritage. He later met with Dr. Zdenek Rejdak, a Czechoslovakian researcher associated with the Department for Psychotronic Investigation, affiliated with the Czechoslovakian Society for Applied Cybernetics, not long after the New York symposium. It was the collaboration between these two men which laid the foundation for the historic Prague Conference — perhaps the most significant event to occur in the entire history of psychotronics.

The Prague Conference

This unique conference was held in Prague, Czechoslovakia, in June of 1973. The basis for all of the recent advances in psychotronics was laid at this event, and international cooperation in this field of research was at a level never obtained before or since. Nearly every country which was performing psychotronic research to a significant degree was represented. Approximately fifty-two of more than 250 total attendees were Americans. Only five Soviets took official part in the Conference, but more than two dozen submitted papers. The most important Soviet researchers, such as Vikton Adamenko, Viktor Inushin and Semyon Kirlian did not appear in person; however, some of the Americans who visited Moscow later were able to meet and talk with Viktor Adamenko and his wife. Czechoslovakia, of course, was heavily represented by the most noted researchers alive today such as Julius Krmessky, who has been investigating and demonstrating the radiation of bioplasmic energy from the human body; and Robert Pavlita, a very important Czech inventor who had developed material devices which are capable of concentrating and manipulating the bioplasmic or vril energy to a degree powerful enough to actually run small motors.

Pavlita demonstrated at the Conference — without any doubt — that bioplasmic energy was polarized. His daughter projected her bioplasmic energy into various devices which were designed to produce specific physical effects such as motor action, precipitation of solutes from solution, stimulating or destroying plant growth, and the killing of insects. Pavlita told of an accident which occurred during his experimentation when his daughter was partially paralyzed and her life placed in great danger by being exposed to a negative form of bioplasmic energy. He had to work feverishly without stopping for over two days in order to build a device which would reverse the negative effects produced by the one which did the damage. As a result of this experimentation, Pavlita found that he could build devices of sufficient scale that they could project enough negative energy to kill human beings.

[Ed. note: The Spring/Summer 1988 issue of Artifex published by Archeus Project (2402 University Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55114), carried an article titled "Experimental Investigation of Biologically Induced Magnetic Anomalies," by G. Egely and G. Vértessy. The authors worked with Robert Pavlita, who has apparently effected various magnetic anomalies by means of "concentration and a small metal device."]

Brazil was represented by Dr. Brenio Onetto-Bachler, a professor of parapsychology at the University of Chile; Canada was represented by Dr. and Mrs. Duncan Blewett, both psychologists at the University of Saskatchewan, where they developed a mathematical formula for "psychic energy" which explains its characteristics and dynamics. Also from Canada came Dr. Edward Mann, who lectured on experimentation with orgone blankets.

After the lecture of Dr. Alexander Grigorievich Bakirov, a professor of mineralogy at the Polytechnical Institute in the Siberian City of Tomsk, there was no doubt in anyone's mind that the Soviets had a deep interest in dowsing, one of the oldest psychotronic practices. He represented the Soviet Interdepartmental Commission for the Study of the Bio-Physical Effect, and stated that he and other Soviet dowsers have used various kinds of dowsing instruments to locate bodies of ore as deep as 3000 feet below the Earth's surface and to make geological maps. He said that they have worked both on foot and from helicopters traveling at 200 kilometers per hour at a height of more than 200 meters have ground. He believed that in the USSR the dowsing technique had been perfected to such an extent that it rivaled all existing scientific prospecting methods, and is certainly far less expensive than any other conceivable detector.

One surprise at the Conference was the presence of the noted Soviet psychic Tofik Dadashev, who — without question — exercised genuine psychic capability. Dadashev is a highly developed telepath. From a crowd of more than 300 persons he arbitrarily selected a woman to help him carry out his demonstration. She was asked to choose another person from the crowd but not to inform anyone present — especially Dadashev — whom she had chosen. Dadashev was then tightly blindfolded and hooded with a thick, dark material. He proceeded to walk through the crowd with the chosen woman following three to four meters behind him. He asked that she send him mental commands to aid in finding the person that she had mentally selected. After about five minutes of effort, Dadashev located the individual whom he believed had been chosen by the assistant and brought the individual on stage. He then asked if this was the person she had chosen and she answered that it was. Needless to say, the crowd was astonished at this feat of telepathy. Dadashev has been written up in the Soviet press and Soviet scientists have tested him repeatedly and verified his authenticity.

The Conference was divided into six working sections; however, the one devoted to psychotronics and physics was by far the most popular. In this section, my talk on "Consciousness and Theoretical Physics" followed that of Julius Krmessky. Dr. Yuriy Andreyevich Kholodov, a Soviet biophysicist, reported on the extensive work he was doing concerning the effects of electromagnetic fields on the central nervous system. Without a doubt, the Soviets are the world authorities in this field of research and they have learned to use some of the knowledge they have obtained to perform feats as yet unknown in the West. For example, a side effect of a device built to aid them in espionage was the increase in the white blood cell count of workers in the American embassy. It appears that the American Intelligence Community still has no real understanding of the nature of this device or its purpose, only that it somehow utilizes electromagnetic energy, in a special form, which adversely affects the human body.

Dr. Alexander Dubrov gave a stimulating talk on his new theory of "biogravity" which he believes can explain the mysterious solid and liquid phase changes that occur in living cells. He referred to startling experiments which have been performed at the institute of Clinical and Experimental Medicine in Novo-Sibirsk which indicate that cells themselves can converse by coding messages in the form of a special electromagnetic ray with frequencies in the ultraviolet. It was found that cell structures which were dying communicated the death signals to other cells of the same type which in turn began to die as they frantically attempted to re-adapt themselves in a manner that would make them more resistant to that which was killing them. Here also lies the essence of a very terrible weapon which the Russians may have already perfected and tested. It is possible that such a weapon was tested in Afghanistan in 1981 when, after an attack from Soviet helicopters, several resistance fighters died instantly and their bodies did not decay for more than 30 days. Apparently every cell, bacterium and virus in the body had been instantly killed. If such a weapon exists, it would not be continuously used in order to avoid compromising it to the West. However, it should be remembered that in January, 1960, Khrushchev announced to the Presidium that a new, fantastic weapon was in development — so powerful that if it was used without restraint it could wipe out all life on Earth. He was not talking about the nuclear bomb or conventional biological weapons.

At the Prague Conference, Dr. Zdenek Rejda was elected president for the Eastern Division of the newly established International Association of Psychotronics, and Dr. Stanley Krippner was elected president for the West.

The results of the Prague Conference and all of the reports being brought back from Russia by visitors which concerned psychotronic research in that country spurred the Defense Intelligence Agency to conduct an investigation into Soviet and Czechoslovakian parapsychological research. The results of their investigation were published openly in two documents (which are given in the references). Classified versions of these documents were also written. In spite of the alarming information set forth in these documents, there is little or no evidence that it significantly stimulated research in the United States. In addition, several Jewish scientists who were allowed to leave the Soviet Union openly warned the West about the tremendous advances being made in the Soviet Union in the field of psychotronic research.

One must wonder how Soviet leaders, all of whom are sworn materialists, got such a driving ambition to investigate psychotronic phenomena. I believe that it was due to the relentless efforts of Dr. Leonid L. Vasiliev. After the death of Stalin and the overthrow of Lysenko's biology, Vasiliev found that the time was ripe to make an attempt to reestablish psychotronic research in the USSR. A major impetus was given to this desire when he heard that the United States Navy was conducting telepathic experiments between a land installation and the submerged submarine Nautilus in 1959. (The story has long since been denied by the United States Government, and considering the sad state of psychotronic research at that time in the United States, the government denial was probably true. I was later told by my sources that the story was concocted by an overly zealous reporter and widely published in the United States.) However, the Soviets believed the story to be true. Vasiliev confronted the Soviet leadership with this story and suggested that the West was getting ahead of the Soviet Union in a new and potentially lethal area of research. Since the Soviets were taking no chances of having America come up with another "battlefield surprise" after the atomic bomb, they immediately provided Professor Vasiliev with all he needed to start a laboratory for psychotronic research which today has no real counterpart in the West.

While talking with Soviet researchers in Moscow after the Prague Conference, I was thoroughly convinced that Soviet scientists are certain of the existence of all forms of psychic phenomena and no longer find it necessary to try and "prove" its existence — as is still the case in the West. They are hard at work attempting to develop and apply the bioplasmic energy which they believe is the source of all such phenomena. To stress this fact, one of the members of our team, Marcel Vogel, who was at that time a senior research chemist working for IBM in San Jose, California, was invited to speak to a select group of Soviet scientists, including Nobel Prize winners — and perhaps the world's greatest expert on electromagnetism and its effects on life, Dr. A. S. Presman. Such an invitation is not arbitrarily extended by the Soviets.

Recently, Dr. Russell Targ, an expert in remote viewing, has been invited to the Soviet Union on several occasions to participate in their local psychotronic conferences. Also, his former colleague, Dr. Harold Puthoff, has been closely communicating with the Chinese in their psychotronic research. Needless to say, psychotronics is now a respectable field of research in all major Communist countries (and some Western countries.) However, in America, it still lags behind.

Physical Science and Psychotronics

Domains of gender exist in knowledge just as they do in material creation. Unfortunately, this concept is still alien to modern man — who continues to overemphasize the masculine while suppressing his female counterpart. Physical science is masculine in nature, while psychotronics and religion are feminine. Physical science depends heavily upon the conscious mind and uses hard data, experiment, and reproducibility of results as its criteria for determining truth. However, physical science often ignores the material evidence which exists openly around it. For example, the underwater man-made walls which have been discovered off the coast of North Bimini in the Bahamas; the high technology devices found fossilized in stone; the thirty foot iron pillar in New Delhi, India, which does not rust; the giant 70 ton stone blocks, cut and smoothed by some unknown process, that lie mysteriously in the desert of Baalbek, Lebanon; and many hundreds of other mysteries, have all failed to convince physical science that at least one great civilization existed here before.

While examining the magnificent crystal skull which was discovered intact and undamaged in South America, a physical scientist simply murmured to himself, "The damn thing should not even exist." Even with today's technology, the magnificent feat of producing such a skull from a single piece of quartz, with moving parts, cannot be reproduced. Such scientific anomalies are simply being ignored by physical scientists because they do not fit into their beliefs.

When the scientific technique cannot be utilized, it becomes necessary to rely upon intuition. Even from ancient times, men have always marveled at "feminine intuition." The wonder is not misplaced because "intuition" has always come more natural to the feminine aspect than to the masculine aspect. Therefore, it is absolutely necessary that the "intuitive" approach of psychotronics be combined with the masculine "conscious" approach of physical science for a full comprehension of nature to be obtained. In other words, it is time for a proper marriage to take place between the masculine and feminine approaches to the obtainment of universal knowledge.

Finally, I will list certain discoveries I believe have been obtained through psychotronic means but which are still far out of the reach of the physical scientific technique. Some of this knowledge will be learned through physical science only after it is too late to do anything about it. The price which must be paid for ignoring the feminine aspect of knowledge is already beyond measure. That which has been unbalanced must, of necessity, rebalance itself. In the process of this rebalancing, the forces of Mother Nature have always, unwittingly, wreaked great havoc and destruction upon the civilizations of man. The time of rebalance is again at hand.

1. Since 1900, the biosphere of planet Earth has been reduced in its life-giving functions by more than 60%. All life on Earth is under increasing threat because of its continuous weakening by man's pollution-forming activities.

2. All sources of energy which science has produced to date produce by-products which are destructive to life and are opposite to the energies of the positive ray, called vril. The most destructive of these energies, by far, is that energy derived from the fission of the atom. The continuous testing of nuclear weapons, and the so-called peaceful uses of nuclear energy, have already caused immense damage to the Earth and her biosphere. Nostradamus correctly called nuclear energy the "anti-thesis of the positive ray."

3. About 19% of the damage done to the biosphere has been caused by the launching of rockets. The massive amount of pollutants ejected by each rocket launch is far more harmful than physical science yet realizes. If a star wars-type race is continued, the huge number of rocket launches which will be necessary to implement it could possibly deal a death blow to the Earth's biosphere and ultimately to man himself.

4. AIDS is not a natural creation but is a direct result of tampering with the mechanisms developed by nature to create and sustain life. In addition, man's inability to control his population on the Earth has presented to this virus a vast field of propagation enabling it to recycle at an enormous rate and adjust to any condition man might create in an attempt to eliminate it. It can only be defeated through a psychotronic energy approach; chemical methods simply will not work because it is a greater chemist than man.

5. Another horrible threat is man's development of genetic engineering. Unfortunately, certain nations are already hard at work using this technology to create lethal agents for use in war. A high probability exists for both accidental and intentional release of extremely lethal agents into man's environment which could threaten life more seriously than a nuclear war.

6. Even the physical scientists realize that the West Coast is due for a devastating earthquake at any time; however, they are divided on how destructive it will be. Nostradamus stated "So great will be the deluge that there will be no spot of earth for a firm foothold." Edgar Cayce stated that the ocean front would approach the state of Nevada. If Nostradamus is correct, the great earthquake and tidal wave destruction will occur between 1988 and 2000.

Psychotronics of today must now take a place alongside the science of yesterday. If true knowledge is to be obtained, there is no room for dogma, nature sets the rules, and man can only follow if he has an open mind.

Christianto, Victor and Yunita Umniyati. On the Plausible Implications of Gariaev & Montagnier's Work: Omne Vivum ex Vivo via Crebritudo?. DNA Decipher Journal, vol. 6, no. 2 (2016)

Abstract:

Recently Luc Montagnier and his group reported that genetic information might be transmitted to water through applications of electromagnetic field. These experiments seem to confirm what have been done by Peter Gariaev and his group in the past three decades, i.e., that DNA has wave character.

However, non-particle view of DNA seems to challenge the standard paradigm of DNA and biology. In this paper, we briefly explore the non-particle view of DNA and consider an extension of the known adage "Omne vivum ex vivo" to "Omne Vivum ex Vivo via Crebritudo (frequency)".

(Editor's Note: The DNA Decipher Journal is an excellent journal edited by Huping Hu, Ph.D., J.D. and Maoxin Wu, M.D., Ph.D., of QuantumDream, Inc., New York, with many articles that are of great importance on the above and related subject matter. Bartholomew, Bradley Y. "A Review of Psi Activity in the DNA". Universal Journal of Psychology 5(1): 22-29, 2017

Abstract: This paper presents a general summary of psi experiments conducted with the DNA in the latter decades of the 20th Century particularly at the HeartMath Institute

(HMI) in Boulder Creek, CA, by Dr. Glen Rein, relating to the ability of “healers” to affect the conformation of the DNA molecule simply by concentrating their mental and emotional powers of the brain and heart.

In particular it was found that the intentional states of healers could change the molecular structure of water which in turn could alter the conformation of the DNA. Further to these findings about the relationship between water and DNA, this paper discusses a journal article by a team led by 2008 Nobel Prize for Medicine recipient Dr. Luc Montagnier, which describes an electromagnetic field in the DNA that is capable of being projected into water and which contains all the information of its sequence of bases in memory, and is capable of reconstructing itself into the identical chemical molecule; provided the ambient electromagnetic environment in the water is maintained at a frequency of not less than 7Hz which is in the same frequency window as Alpha rhythm brainwaves and the natural Schumann resonance of the Earth.

This paper goes on to discuss new research in optogenetics where human beings have been able to modify gene expression with their Alpha rhythm and Mu rhythm brainwaves in the same frequency window as the Schumann resonance, simply by adopting different mental states, and takes note of the fact that these same Alpha and mu rhythms are the main conduit frequency for Brain Computer Interfaces (BCIs). The paper presents a general summary of earlier research relating to psi phenomena resulting from interference of brainwaves with the Schumann resonance, and proposes a novel explanation for the recently discovered “mirror neurons” phenomena where the Mu rhythm brainwaves emanating from the motor cortex are able to interfere constructively or destructively with the Schumann resonance of same frequency and thus bring about mental telepathic as well as psychokinesis happenings.

Cell-based or magnetic field therapies as alternative approaches to pain management have been tested in several experimental pain models. The aim of this study therefore was to investigate the actions of the cell-based therapy (adipose tissue derived mesenchymal stem cells; ADMSC) or pulsed magnetic field (PMF) therapy and magneto-cell therapy (combination of ADMSC and PMF) in chronic constriction nerve injury model (CCI).

The actions of individual ADMSC (route dependent [systemic or local], time-dependent [a day or a week after surgery]), or PMF and their combination (magneto-cell) therapies on hyperalgesia and allodynia were investigated by using thermal plantar test and a dynamic plantar aesthesiometer, respectively. In addition, various cytokine levels (IL-1 $\beta$ , IL-6, and IL-10) of rat sciatic nerve after CCI were analyzed. Following the CCI, both latency and threshold significantly decreased. ADMSC or PMF significantly increased latencies and thresholds. The combination of ADMSC with PMF even more significantly increased latency and threshold when compared with ADMSC alone. However, ADMSC-induced decrease in pro-inflammatory or increase in anti-inflammatory cytokines levels were partially prevented by PMF treatments.

Present findings may suggest that both cell-based and magnetic therapies can effectively attenuate chronic neuropathic pain symptoms. Combined magneto-cell therapy may also efficiently reverse neuropathic signs. Bioelectromagnetics. 38:255–264, 2017. © 2017 Wiley Periodicals, Inc. © 2017 Wiley Periodicals, Inc.

If You had Access to the Future, What Would You Do? Regaining Wholeness Through the Subtle Dimensions will wind

you through the latest research and distant past of some of the most profound research on health and wellness. But it goes much deeper than that. The basic building blocks of physical reality have been understood and tapped to show you how to make shifts in reality that have been kept from the eyes of the public. With over 100 years since the beginning of this technology, it has been refined and perfected to allow the user of this technology to redesign the Informational Fields (IDFs or Intrinsic Data Fields) that hold the fabric of our universe together. You have in front of you, at this very moment, an opportunity to not only glimpse the future, but to begin bringing about your wildest dreams. Whether you want better health, satisfying work, spiritual enlightenment, or prosperity, this book is for you. You will discover how easy it is to: Access information from the Past, Present or Future. Use the principles of quantum physics for better health. Use equipment, now, from the distant future to bring about your wants, hopes, and desires. Increase your intuition and perform miracles. This moment the opportunity to change your world is here in front of you now... will you choose to open the door?

Don Paris, Ph.D. (h.c.) is a published author, speaker, video producer, and musician. His book, Regaining Wholeness Through the Subtle Dimensions has been published internationally in German, Spanish, Japanese, Portuguese, and English. He is known as the guru of the SE-5, the world's most respected subtle energy instrument. He is well loved for his style of bringing challenging concepts into an easy to understand language and has been a popular speaker at the Global Sciences Congress, Congress of Spiritual Scientists and the United States Psychotronics Association. He has created the most detailed explanation of the principles of Radionics and the most advanced training courses in the entire field. He began exploring the subtle dimensions in the early seventies, and has now trained people in over 30 countries around the world in the workings of Radionics and the subtle dimensional realities. Don was awarded an honorary doctorate degree in Human Sciences from the International University of Vitalogical Sciences in Stockholm Sweden in 2000 for his work with the SE-5 and subtle energies. He and his wife, Ilona Selke, who work as a team, have contributed to radio and TV shows, and have been quoted in numerous publications around the world. They teach seminars in Quantum Psychology in the US, Europe and Asia. When not traveling to teach, they divide their time between their homes in the Pacific Northwest and Bali. In his work he had dedicated himself to bridging the barrier of the physical boundaries to the subtle dimensional realities. Current projects are training courses for the SE-5 1000 and multiple music projects. Tibetana with Lodo Tsering from the soundtracks Himalaya and Seven years in Tibet was scheduled for release in the Fall of 2013.

USPA Periodicals Library Update

In order to do good psychotronics research of any kind, whether it involves radionics, radiesthesia, psionic medicine, dowsing, subtle energies, biophotons, or any other subject covered by psychotronics, one needs access to as much of the periodical literature as possible on these subjects.

To address this issue, the United States Psychotronics Association has resolved to identify and acquire every psychotronics related periodical that has ever been published anywhere in the world, and to retain copies in the USPA Library.

As a first step, we have developed the following list of periodicals that focused on or frequently had articles on psychotronics related subjects. But this is only a preliminary list, and we know that there are probably more psychotronics periodicals that have been published, but that we do not yet know about.

So please look over the following list and check your own personal physical libraries and your computers to see if you have any issues of the periodicals on this list. Even if you just have one issue, please let us know, because that may be the one we need to complete all the issues of a particular periodical. Please write to me (John) at: joreed43@gmail.com, since I am the USPA librarian and archivist coordinating this effort, and tell me what periodicals you have.

As a whole, the members of USPA have a huge “library” of periodicals, but it just happens to be “distributed” among its members at this point in time. However, we can work together, and if you would be willing to loan, donate, xerox, or as a last resort, sell copies of your periodicals for the USPA Library, then we will be able to build a large centralized library of all psychotronics periodicals. And all USPA members will then be able to use these periodicals in their research or for their reading enjoyment.

American Journal of Electromedicine: Daniel Kirsch Ph.D., developer of Alpha-Stim Craniotherapy Electrical Stimulation (CES) was the first editor; The USPA Library needs all issues.

American Radio Therapy Society Journal: This was a periodical published in Hollywood, California, by the American Radio Therapy Society, which had been founded by Dr. Ruth Drown in 1949. This periodical began with vol. 1, no. 1 in June, 1949, and continued to be published for a period of time. However, it is not known when it ceased publication or how many issues were published, but presumably it ceased sometime before Dr. Drown's death in 1963. This journal focused on radionics psychotronics subjects, and had no interest in ionizing radiation therapies, such as x-ray therapy, which were also known as "radio therapy" at that time. The only library in the world that has copies of this periodical is the National Library of Medicine in Bethesda, Maryland. The USPA Library needs all issues of this periodical.

BEMI Currents: BEMI Currents was a quarterly journal published by the Bio-Electro-Magnetics Institute in Reno, Nevada, from 1989-1993. The editor was Dr. John Zimmerman. This journal began with vol. 1, no. 1 (Spring, 1989) and continued through Vol. 3, no. 4 (March, 1993), after which it ceased publication. A total of 12 issues were published, and the USPA Library has all 12 issues in its collection.

Bioeffects Newsletter: This was a periodical that was published by the "Physiology Program", Office of Naval Research, in Arlington, Virginia, and focused on the biological effects of electromagnetic fields. It probably began sometime in the 1977, because it is known that Issue #5 was dated April, 1978. The Bioeffects Newsletter is believed to have ceased publication when the Bioelectromagnetics Society (BEMS) was formed in 1978, because it was edited by Thomas Rozzell, who served as the editor of the BEMS Newsletter for the Bioelectromagnetics Society. This periodical is not found in any library of the world, but is undoubtedly in a number of private collections. The USPA Library needs all issues of this periodical.

Bioelectric Medicine: Journal founded in 2014, Kevin Tracey, M.D., President of the Feinstein Institute for Medical Research, which has established a Center for Bioelectronic Medicine; The USPA Library needs all issues.

BioElectroMagnetics: Published by John Wiley and Sons from Vol. 1, No. 1 ( 1980) to present. We need all issues. All articles are freely available online at Johns Hopkins, back to 1980; The USPA Library needs all issues.

Electronic Medical Digest: published 1946 to about 1955, also by Fred J. Hart and the College of Electronic Medicine. The USPA Library needs all issues.

Extension Bulletin, Electronic Medical Foundation: This was a series of bulletins published by the Electronic Medical Foundation of San Francisco, beginning in 1950. Thomas Colson was the editor, and at least three issues were published. It is not known if additional issues were published. The USPA Library needs all issues.

Herbert published the Journal from 1967 until around 1989, with the last volume being vol. 23 in that year. Since the Journal and Lab were mostly the project of Herbert, they fell apart as his health failed and have become defunct. The USPA Library needs all issues of this periodical.

The title of the periodical is really a misnomer, as is the name of his research organization, because the periodical deals almost exclusively with Vogel's and other's research on crystals and their use in healing, and very little with psychic matters. The USPA Library has all known issues.

Quantum Medicine: This periodical was published by the Association of Eclectic Physicians in Savannah, Georgia, and focused on quantum related treatments of medical disorders. It was still being published in 2014, with issue No. 291 being published during that year. The USPA Library needs all issues of this periodical.

USPA Local Groups and Affiliates Update

As mentioned in the May, 2016, USPA Newsletter, one of our goals is to reactivate all of the former 24 USPA Chapters that once existed across the US and Mexico. In addition, we plan to establish new local groups of people interested in psychotronics and related subjects in other major cities in the US and other countries as well. All such local groups and affiliates will be independent, but will work together with the USPA in a mutually beneficial relationship to achieve our goals of advancing research and applications in psychotronics, radionics, subtle energy, and related fields.

So I would like to invite all of former USPA Chapters leaders and members to contact me (John Reed) at: joreed43@gmail.com and let me know if you would like to help reactivate your local chapter. In addition, if you are a leader or member of a psychotronics or related organization which was never a chapter of USPA, and we would welcome you as a USPA affiliated organization as well.

We will be establishing a USPA affiliated groups as traditional organizations and also via the Meetup.com online group platform. This will enable current and former members to more easily have local get-togethers, meetings, and other activities, and those activities, times, and other details can be posted online. So please let me know if you would like to be the leader of a group in your area.

If you do decide to use Meetup.com to establish your local group, you could do it quickly and easily by going to www.meetup.com , and clicking on the big red word “Start” in the upper left, and then just following the step-by-step procedures.

You can give your local group any name you want, but it should probably have a name that relates to psychotronics in some way. And if you need any help, please let me know, and I will help you in any way I can. Perhaps the most important thing is enthusiasm and determination, so write to me, even if you don’t know any other USPA members in your area, and I will help you set up a local group: joreed43@gmail.com

Kelly Personal Analyzer for Sale

Mariette Picket has a friend that has a brand new unused Kelly Personal Analyzer that she paid $2100 for, and is offering it for sale at only $1600.00 Anyone interested call Mariette at: 317-773-0061

Bruce Copen MARS III for Sale

I am a current USPA member and have a Bruce Copen MARS III for sale. The system is about 7 or 8 years old and in original, excellent condition. Sale includes original SCOPE analysis, database and broadcast software, HP laptop, comprehensive training manual and program disc, interconnects and boxes. I have always run it on XP with no issues; everything original as supplied by Copen.

All operations can be automated and multiple broadcasts can be run simultaneously, although Copen saw to develop this device so it could be used in many radionic styles and without computer control. The price is $8500 USD roughly half the original cost. I prefer to not ship to a destination outside the USA. A limited amount of training by me, as I understand it, is available to a confirmed purchaser, as time and distance reasonably permit. Please contact: Dr Robert Dixon, robertdixondc@gmail.com or call \(304\) 259-9439259-9439) Berkeley Springs, WV.

WHAT IS PSYCHOTRONICS?

The United States Psychotronics Association defines psychotronics as the science of mind-body-environment relationships, an interdisciplinary science concerned with the interactions of matter, energy, and consciousness. Psychotronics involves the study, research, and applications of the physics and technology of the mind, brain, spirit, consciousness, and the underlying forces of life and nature – hence the term “psychotronics”.

We believe that a true understanding of the universe must include the spiritual, as well as, the technical, and provide an opportunity for amateur researchers to present their findings along with the professionals. We stress research, with documentation of results, and practical applications, rather than personal experience and unsupported hypotheses.

Some Prominent People in the history of psychotronics research and application: Albert Abrams, Thomas Bearden, Robert C. Beck, Robert O. Becker, Jacques Benveniste, David Bohm, Harold Saxon Burr, George W. Crile, Ruth Drown, T. Galen Hieronymus, Vlail P. Kaznacheyev, Georges Lakhovsky, Wilhelm Reich, Royal R. Rife, Rupert Sheldrake, Nikola Tesla, Marcel Vogel, and others.

Some of the forces, fields, waves, and energies studied and researched in psychotronics include: bioelectromagnetism, biophotons, biopotentials, electromagnetic wave pollution and harmful effects; coherent emanations of DNA, emanations of matter, “free energy”, morphogenetic fields, non-hertzian waves, orgone energy, pyramid energy and power, qi (chi), quantum fields, scalar waves, subtle energies, ultra-weak radiation of living matter, zero-point energy, and others.

Some of the phenomena believed to be produced or involved with the above fields and energies: action-at-a-distance, the aura of the body and other living things, bioinformation, bioluminescence, chakras, consciousness, distant intercellular interactions, meridians of the body, mind-body interactions, non-locality, the placebo effect, quantum consciousness, spontaneous remission of cancer and other diseases, water memory, water structure, and others.

Related fields of study and research covering the above forces, energies, and phenomena of psychotronics: bioelectromagnetics, bioenergetics, biophotonics, biophysics, psionics, psychoenergetics, psychoneuroimmunology, quantum biology, radionics, scalar electromagnetics, and others.

Some practices, techniques, and applications related to psychotronics include: acupuncture, biogeometry, brain entrainment, clairvoyance, dowsing, energy healing and medicine, extrasensory perception, feng shui, homeopathy, kirlian photography, magnetic therapy, pendulum use and methods, prayer effects, psionic medicine, psychic healing, psychometry, qigong, radiesthesia, radionics, remote viewing, shamanism, sound and sonic healing, telekinesis, telepathy, and others.

There are talks by some of the most well known scientists of our age, including Andrija Puharich, Thomas Bearden, Marcel Vogel, Lynn Surgalla, Robert Beck, T. Galen Hieronymus, J.G. Gallimore, Elizabeth Rauscher, Christopher Bird, and many, many more.

There are also lectures specifically about radionics from some of the top practitioners: Robert Beutlich, Lutie Larsen, Jerry Fridenstine, Frances Farrelly, and others.

If you have an interest in the paranormal, the life of plants or zero-point energy, there are speakers here who are experts in the fields. How about dark-field microscopy, scalars, magnetic fields, or the Philadelphia Experiment? Yes, they are in here in this catalog too. Homeopathy, color-healing, use of crystals, structuring water, water memory, and Tesla's work are some of the other topics covered in this catalog.

As of this date, (April 15, 2017) they are available only by direct contact with USPA, but soon, they will be available online. The USPA home page is at <http://www.psychotronics.org> and we will have a linked site where purchase will lead to immediate download of the MP3, and payment can be made through Pay Pal.

Please note that in the Catalog \(click here\), most of the lectures are standard MP3s, are 30-45 minutes long, and priced at a very reasonable $5.00 each. These have no marking in the right-hand column of the catalog listing. Other MP3s are one hour or slightly longer, and are marked "Prime" in the right-hand column, with a price of $8.00 each. And a few of the MP3s are 90 minutes or longer, and are marked "Double", with a price of $10.00 each. USPA members get 40% off.

J.G. Gallimore's Five Rare Books Now Available for Sale

All five of J.G. Gallimore's rare books on psychotronics subjects and unusual energies have been reprinted by the United States Psychotronics Association (USPA) and are being made available at a fraction of the cost that used copies were being sold at online. So rare have these books been, that only a few libraries in the entire world had them in their collections, and some of Gallimore's books were being sold for several hundred dollars each online. However, with these newly reprinted volumes, each will be available for less than $30.00. Each of Gallimore's books is described below with links to Amazon.com.

Jerry G. Gallimore was one of the founders of the USPA in 1975, and was a leading researcher in psychotronics and unusual energies until his untimely death in 1989.

This is J.G. Gallimore's first book of three volumes on unusual energies, and at 468 pages, it is a magnificent work. In this book, Gallimore discusses in depth the research, discoveries, and inventions of all the major researchers in subtle energies, the aether, biological fields, pyramid energy, radiesthesia, radionics, crystal transduction, and related subjects. These include the works of Baron Von Reichenbach's and his odic energy, Dr. Wilhelm Reich's orgone energy, Dr. Harold Burr's biological life fields, Kozyrev's time mirror, Edgar Cayce's transmission of energy, and related research done by many others. Of particular importance is Gallimore's 127 page chapter on radionics. In this chapter he discusses in depth the research and devices of Ruth Drown, T. Galen Hieronymus, Rho Sigma, Dr. L. P. Corte and other prominent people in the radionics field. But in addition, Gallimore provided diagrams showing how such devices are made and how they actually work.

Collected Properties & Writings of J. G. Gallimore: Volume 2 of Handbook of Unusual Energies

Gallimore is provided, as well as a discussion of Walter Russell and his research.

Relationship Between Parapsychology and Gravity: Volume 3 of Handbook of Unusual Energies

by J. G. Gallimore

Paperback: 228 pages

Publisher: CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform (March 22, 2017)

The Relationship Between Parapsychology and Gravity is Volume 3 of J.G. Gallimore's series of three handbooks of unusual energies. This book describes in depth the research and theories of J.G. Gallimore into the question of "parapsychology transmission" --the question of how such things as telepathy, remote viewing, ESP, and similar phenomena can physically occur. Gallimore discusses various explanation on how they occur, including the possibility that gravity waves may play a role. He also discusses the various emanations, radiations, and energy fields of all matter and life. This includes the ancient Chinese energy called "chi" (qi), the ancient Indian's prana energy, Reichenback's "odhic force", Gurwitsch's "mitogenic radiation", Wilhelm Reich's orgone energy, and other subtle energies of life and matter. Gallimore shows how all of these energies are the same or similar, how they interact, and how they are related to gravity. He also discusses crystals as transducers of these energies, and provides diagrams of devices that could potentially be used to harness or control these energies.

Transverse Paraphysics: The New Science of Space, Time, and Gravity Control

by J.G. Gallimore

Paperback: 374 pages

Publisher: CreateSpace Independent
Publishing Platform (March 21, 2017)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 1543024920

Product Dimensions: 8.5 x 0.8 x 11
inches

Available at Amazon.com

This book covers the visionary research and theories developed by J.G. Gallimore about anti-gravity, space, time, and biophysics. He discusses in depth the dimensions of space, time, and gravity, and new discoveries in each of these areas. In addition, he covers research being done on anti-gravity and then discusses anti-gravity patents that have been obtained. He also discusses the intriguing concept of aura energy fields surrounding humans and other living things, and how extra-sensory perception (ESP) might be explained through biophysical principles.

Unified Field Theory Research Book: Using Subjective Response to Psi-Plasma for Analysis of Properties Neutral Charge Plasma Fields

by J.G. Gallimore

Paperback: 134 pages

Publisher: CreateSpace Independent
Publishing Platform (March 21, 2017)

ISBN-10: 1543024831

ISBN-13: 978-1543024838

Product Dimensions: 8.5 x 0.3 x 11
inches

Available from Amazon.com

This book is about psychotronics, radionics, electromagnetic fields and waves, psi-plasma, plasma fields, subtle energies, bioelectromagnetic energy, and other unusual energies emitted by living and non-living things. It also is about how living things interact with and are affected by these energies, which may enhance health or harm health. The book covers the research of Wilhem Reich on orgone energy, of Baron Reichenback on the odic forces, as well as research done by Cazzamalli on brain radiations and Lakhovsky on using high frequency radiations to successfully treat cancer in humans. In addition, Lakhovsky used similar methods to enhance the growth of plants. Gallimore shows how these energies, forces, and fields are all inter-related and provides hypotheses and ideas on their possible unification.
