Section II – Master Class #15 Tom Valone presents “The Tom Bearden Phenomenon

Tom Valone was a former board member and President of USPA and shares first hand experiences with Tom Bearden.

In this video presentation, Tom Valone highlights some of the interesting details of the life and work of the Legendary Tom Bearden – Energy, Electricity, Jellyfish and Tickling the Vacuum.

After what Valone calls a “four hour marathon” visit with Tom Bearden, during which Bearden did most of the talking, Valone got the idea to try to summarize the works of Bearden, a daunting task to say the least.

Tom Bearden spoke at twenty USPA Conferences from 1978 thru 2000! His talks covered topics of Soviet Psychotronic weapons, Weather Engineering, Scalar Electrodynamics, Over Unity devices, Energy from the Vacuum, Tesla Technologies, Renaissance Healing and the Physics behind Radionics.

Valone's presentation touches on the highlights of that meeting and subsequent research he did about Bearden and his work.

Tom Valone is a physicist and licensed professional engineer with 30 years’ experience. He is a patent examiner, research engineer, instrumentation designer, author, lecturer, and consultant on future energy developments.

He is President and founder of Integrity Research Institute and formerly a community college teacher and a Research Director for Scott Aviation-ATO, Inc. He helped design the HullCom® for naval intraship communication, a 60 Hz gauss meter, four bioelectric therapy devices, and an ionizer-precipitator.

Valone is editor of Future Energy, Energetic Processes Vol. I & II, Turning the Corner: Energy Solutions for the 21st Century, The Future of Energy: An Emerging Science, Zero Point Energy: The Fuel of the Future, Harnessing the Wheelwork of Nature, Practical Conversion of Zero-Point Energy, Bio-electro-magnetic Healing, and much more.

He has been a keynote speaker for both the Earth Transformation and the Whole Person Healing Conferences and has been a speaker at USPA conferences over many years.

Currently, Dr. Valone is a member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, the Bioelectromagnetics Society, the National Space Society and the Union of Concerned Scientists. He is also a Fellow of the World Innovation Foundation. His works have been published in German, French, Russian, Romanian, Korean and English.

Section III – If you missed the Bearden Interactive Q &A in March ☺

March’s presentation, Q & A on Tom Bearden’s lecture "Action at a Distance: The Fundamental Mechanism of Radionics" is available in our Member’s only section on the website.

Ph.D., nuclear engineer, retired Lieutenant Colonel (U.S. Army), CEO of CTEC, Inc., Director of the Association of Distinguished American Scientists, and Fellow Emeritus of the Alpha Foundation's Institute for Advanced Study.

Tom is a theoretical conceptualist active in the study of scalar electromagnetics, advanced electrodynamics, unified field theory, KGB energetics weapons and phenomena, free energy systems, electromagnetic healing via the unified field action of extended Sachs-Evans electrodynamics, and human development.

He is particularly known for his work establishing a theory of overunity electrical power systems, scalar electromagnetic weapons, energetics weapons, and the use of time-as-energy in both power systems and the mind-body interaction.

May22, 2021 Shannon Harris Webinar: Spiraling Serpent Medical Qi Gong

Having a multifaceted career as an international DJ, musician, composer, label owner, videographer, Qi Gong instructor, speaker, humanitarian, pro-activist, healer, and Audio Pharmacologist, Shannon Harris explores obscure territories, regions, genres, sciences, styles, and traditions through his work in the healing arts.

His journey within the fields of art, science, therapies, and music span over three decades, six continents, and numerous cultural and spiritual traditions. Since 2003 Shannon has been initiated into many traditional indigenous healing art modalities. Shannon’s website is here: Click Shannon

In 2012 he developed a unique vibrational massage technique using photonic light, heat, custom brain entrainment, physical body & energy resonance along with Qi Gong healing.

Since 2016, his primary focus has been on developing/instructing his unique style of Audio Pharmacology™ Spiraling Serpent Medical Qi Gong to present at festivals, conferences, centers, schools, and health & wellness fairs both locally and internationally.

June 26th, 2021 Dr. Darren Starwynn will present “Healing at a Distance: A Multi-Dimensional Treatment System Using Vibrational Therapies”

In this talk you will learn new ways to create highly effective clinical results by combining vibrational therapies such as micro-current, light and sound healing with working through the Quantum Field of inter-connected consciousness.

The methods you will learn can be offered in person in clinical settings or remotely via phone calls or Zoom. Darren Starwynn will share the fruits of his 35+ years of clinical research and experience in caring for clients who have not responded adequately to allopathic or holistic healing systems. This is based on the insight that emotional shock and trauma is at the root of over 75% of cases of chronic pain, anxiety, depression, fibromyalgia, low immune function and lowered quality of life.

Darren will outline a way to address the physical, emotional and "informational" or spiritual levels of care at the same time. This approach uses combinations of vibrational therapies such as micro-current, light and sound therapies combined with what he calls Quantum Healing. This multi-dimensional system is well suited for people at our time of rapid change and spiritual evolution.

Darren’s greatest passion is empowering healthcare professionals and healers to awaken their consciousness, empower their skills and fulfill their highest potential for success. He has been working on the leading edge of consciousness since his teenage years when he traveled to India to study with a spiritual master.

Since then Darren has had a long career as acupuncturist, inventor, writer, healer and teacher, integrating therapeutic systems from around the world. He has written four groundbreaking books, led hundreds of workshops and seminars, invented several vibrational devices used worldwide and helped develop advanced mind-body healing systems. His newest invention is coming out this year.

His healing work integrates vibrational technologies with multi-dimensional quantum healing to help people rapidly release old trauma, pain and limitations to their full, joyful self-expression. His workshops and retreats weave laughter and playfulness into deep transformational whole brain learning.

[Editor's note: As there was so much commentary during and after the Bearden Q & A in March, and as we are continuing the Bearden theme this month with Tom Valone's presentation, I thought I'd do a whole "pull out" section in our next newsletter with all of that commentary. So, this is a no-holds-barred invitation to send your comments to Scott and/or me at uspsychotronics@yahoo.com. Scott understands it better than I do! But we'll sort out all the commentary and give everyone a chance to see what everyone else is thinking. Perhaps, if there is enough interest, we'll do another Q&A on Zoom this fall. Meantime, Toby Grotz had some comments I thought would wet your whistle for more.]

From Toby Grotz:

I believe that my comment on the issue of if the everything in the Universe can be described by math was not understood by the panel of guests. The statement starts with an if which leaves the question open to a yes or no answer. It leads to an assumption by the panel that the statement was true. I suggest never assume anything. Who says everything in the universe can be described by math and what is his/her authority on the subject? If GOD says everything in the universe can be described by math I'll go with it. If the statement that everything in the universe can be described by math comes from a human/man/woman, I'll pass on judgement.

Also, you have to define Universe. What does man/woman really know about the nature of reality and the totality of the universe which may contain non physical domains and dimensions while we live in the material world in an unenlightened and devolved mental state?

I suggest reading the Tibetan Book of the Dead, The Bagavad Gita, Autobiography of a Yogi, the works of Rudolf Steiner for a brief introduction to the subject of the composition of the Universe and the Nature of Reality.

Never assume anything.

Toby added this a bit later:

Concerning my comment to the panel about math, please see attached from the book which draws heavily on the philosophy of Rudolf Steiner. I believe it is important to understand that math does not describe everything in the universe.

There was a time when people believed that mathematics had an objective, outer existence: that it was the very foundation of the universe, transcending the existence of human beings and all other beings except God. That belief began to be eroded in the 19th century when Carl Friedrich Gauss and other leading mathematicians started to doubt that the traditional geometry of Euclid – which since Greek times had been regarded as the true geometric description of space – was anything more than a construct of the human mind. Some of those mathematicians devised new and equally valid systems of geometry. Later, in the 20th century, the Austrian mathematician, Kurt Gödel, showed that within any logical mathematical system there are propositions that it can neither prove nor disprove.³ Even in arithmetic, we cannot be certain that the basic principles will not give rise to contradictions. Finally, at the turn of the millennium, the cognitive scientists George Lakoff and Rafael Núñez demonstrated that all theorems proved by human mathematicians are part of a human mathematical conceptual system, and there is no way of knowing whether they have any objective truth.⁴ This applies not only to mathematics, of course, but to logic generally.

I suggest that you watch this newly released talk on Bruce DePalma by Toby Grotz at the Breakthrough Energy Movement Conference.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=uQnLp86E_hE

Toby Grotz is an electrical engineer and has been in to free energy longer than me. He has a unique perspective on the subject having met most of the inventors personally. He gives real hope to the young inventor who is looking for projects that actually work on the bench. He gives valuable advice about necessary equipment needed. He talks about Tesla and Tewari. It is a must watch video.

ABOUT THIS PRESENTATION

Breakthrough Energy Generators, How Bruce dePalma's Discovery led to the Design and Implementation of Over Unity Systems. A short history of BEG's will be given. Terms and definitions used in the movement towards Breakthrough Energy will be explained. Tesla's Prophecy will be explained as it pertains to a built, tested and proven breakthrough energy device.

ABOUT THIS PRESENTER

Toby Grotz is an electrical engineer with a background in power systems design. He has designed electrical systems for coal, natural gas and nuclear power plants.

Mr. Grotz has been effectively managing projects in the energy and utility industry and researching alternative energy systems for 40 years. Work experience includes design and support for capital improvements for power plants rated up to 1800 MW. His understanding of resource depletion and its relation to worldwide energy usage and electrical generation comes from his work at the beginning of his career exploring for fossil fuels in coastal waters on the East Coast of the USA and in the deserts and jungles of Mexico.

While working in industry, Mr. Grotz also traveled worldwide interviewing new energy researchers and inventors and conducted tests of new energy systems at the request of inventors or investors.

Mr. Grotz has organized and chaired conferences examining new thoughts in physics. He organized and with Dr. Elizabeth Rauscher chaired the 1984 Tesla Centennial Symposium and was the first president of the International Tesla Society and chaired the 1986 International Tesla Symposium.

He also served on the steering committee organized to host the first International Symposium on New Energy held in Denver in April of 1993 and was chairman of the 1994 International Symposium on New Energy and President of the institute for New Energy.

From Dan Taylor: Found: Page 25 of the CIA's Gateway Report on Astral Projection

Dan says, "And wow does it really tie the universe together."

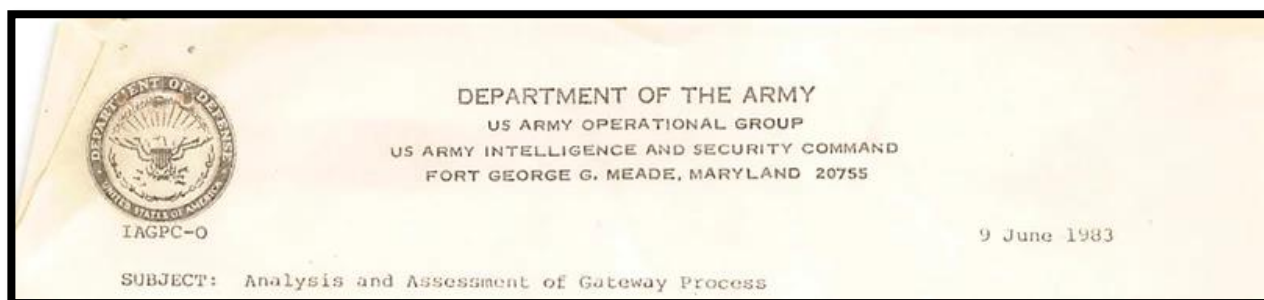

From this website:

<https://www.vice.com/en/article/v7e4g3/found-page-25-of-the-cias-gateway-report-on-astral-projection>

By Thobey Campion April 8, 2021, 10:45am

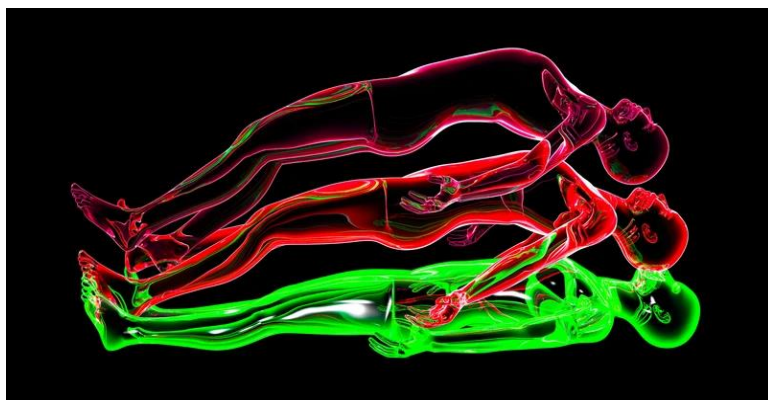

Page 25 of the CIA's "Analysis and Assessment of The Gateway Process" hitched a ride with an email one evening and landed in my inbox. A digital attachment felt like an unceremonious entrance for a document that was produced 38 years ago and has been missing and highly sought after since it was declassified in 2003. For years, people had been filing FOIA requests and speculating about what was on this missing page in the middle of a mind-bending report about military research into astral projection and other dimensions. And then, there it was, just downloaded on to my desktop quietly looking back at me. My immediate reaction was frenetic; I couldn't chill out long enough to properly read the rogue text. I called a few friends to ensure my reality was synched properly—a telephonic pinch to verify I was awake. All signs pointed to mostly. I double clicked the file.

Let's get into it.

A Whirlwind Backstory

I published a breakdown of the CIA's Gateway Report in February. The classified 1983 document was produced by US Army Lieutenant Colonel Wayne M. McDonnell, with a technical power-assist from mastermind Israeli-American biomedical engineer Itzhak Bentov. The report was declassified in 2003. It packs a tour-de-force investigation into the potential achievability of astral projection into 28 hyper-dense pages. A spectre has hung over the report since. The version released by the CIA was missing what seems to be an extremely crucial page.

For the uninitiated, astral projection is mostly interchangeable with the psychophysical phenomena of out-of-body experiences and remote viewing. With the right guidance and technologies, astral projectors believe, we can train our consciousness to move beyond the confines of the space-time dimension. This superability frees our human minds to travel through the universe, exploring an endless array of normally imperceptible realities and dimensions.

McDonnell states early in the report that his goal was to "construct a scientifically valid and reasonably lucid model of how consciousness functions" in order to put "out-of-body states into the language of physical science to remove the stigma of its occult connotations."

The Department of Defense's ambitions are made clear in the report's conclusion: McDonnell suggests that if the military were to experiment with astral projection, it could find "practical application," but also noted that it should "be intellectually prepared to react to possible encounters with intelligent, non-corporeal energy forms when time-space boundaries are exceeded." It kicked off years of attempts by the US Army to train psychic soldiers to conduct "remote viewing" missions to regions across the world.

A Cosmic Mystery

The report is a vicious mind labyrinth. For 24 pages, it winds its way through the spiritual and scientific underpinnings, techniques to achieve and potential applications of space-time transcendence. It introduces methodological frames of reference like hypnosis, transcendental meditation, spiritual belief systems, biofeedback, quantum physics, and universal holograms only so that its intended audience—CIA top brass—might merely begin to grasp its (and our) bigger reason for being. By the bottom of page 24, McDonnell reaches a full existential crescendo, broaching the very nature of reality itself. It's a cliff-hanger:

This is so because in order to attain self-consciousness, the consciousness of the Absolute must project a hologram of itself and then perceive it. That hologram is a mirror image of the Absolute in infinity, still exists outside time and space, but is one step removed from the Absolute and is the actual agent of all creation(all reality). And, the eternal thought or concept of self which results from this self-consciousness serves the

And then ... the report skips to page 26.

As if he hadn't just side-stepped revealing the secrets of the heavens, McDonnell is on to a set of pragmatic "Motivational Aspects" for why the CIA might employ the Gateway as opposed to other methods of achieving astral projection.

But the rate of progress is so much faster with the Gateway approach than it is with transcendental meditation or other forms of mental self-discipline and its horizons seem to be so much wider that the discipline needed to practice it would seem to be within the means of even the impatient, result oriented, skeptical pragmatist of our society. Unlike yoga

Expediency Wayne? Really?

Since the report's declassification, countless FOIA requests have been filed demanding page 25's release. In every instance, the CIA has denied they ever had it in the first place. Page 25, then, has been the holy grail not just for would-be astral projectors, but also for conspiracy theorists, government transparency activists, and people who have simply read the report and found themselves maddened by this missing information.

Dear Ms. Stoner:

This is a final response regarding your 5 November 2019 Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, received in the Information and Privacy Coordinator on 6 November 2019, for "page 25 is missing within the content content [sic] for CIA-RDP96-00788R001700210016-5, which provides an assessment of the Monroe Gateway Experience." Your request was assigned the reference number above. Please use this number when corresponding so that we can identify it easily.

Please be advised that our version of the CREST document referenced in your request does not contain the missing page you are requesting. If you have not already done so, we suggest that you submit a request to the Department of the Army in the hope that they may have an original copy that includes the missing page. You should request it by the title of that document. You can find their address at www.foia.gov.

If you have questions regarding our response, you may seek assistance from CIA's FOIA Public Liaison. You may reach the FOIA Public Liaison at 703-613-1287 (FOIA Hotline).

Sincerely,

One fantastic internet theory maintains that McDonnell omitted the page intentionally. If someone could successfully astral project they'd be able to tell him what's on it.

Contact

The CIA did not invent the Gateway Report and the Gateway Experience on its own. It used teachings from a man named Robert Monroe, who later founded an organization called The Monroe Institute.

Four days after we published the first article about the Gateway Report, I received a note from The Monroe Institute. They had some ideas for a follow-up piece. Drowning in responses to the article though, I failed to return their email. They reached out again. This time their message was more concrete: Sitting buried in the Monroe Institute archives in Faber, Virginia, was page 25 of The Gateway Report. But it didn't come to us easily.

Our first scheduled phone call included The Monroe Institute's CEO, COO and marketing division. Motherboard Editor-in-Chief Jason Koebler and I got on a Google Hangout.

In that call, the Institute said that they had Page 25. People had been trying to obtain the report from the CIA and had repeatedly failed. But no one had bothered to ask them for the report; they'd had it all along. At one point, they described the report as having been "in a barn," unexamined, for all of these years. Otherwise, the call was uninspired. The CEO didn't show. After an hour run-around it became evident that The Institute wasn't going to part with Page 25 without some carefully orchestrated marketing plan. The words of COO Lori Jacobwith made their purpose clear, "We're attempting to capitalize on some of the enthusiasm by a market that isn't our normal age group."

The institute was hoping to tap into the popularity of our first article, as well as some viral TikToks about the report.

The call ended with "You've touched on some things we are not talking about right now."

The Institute then went quiet. Time passed.

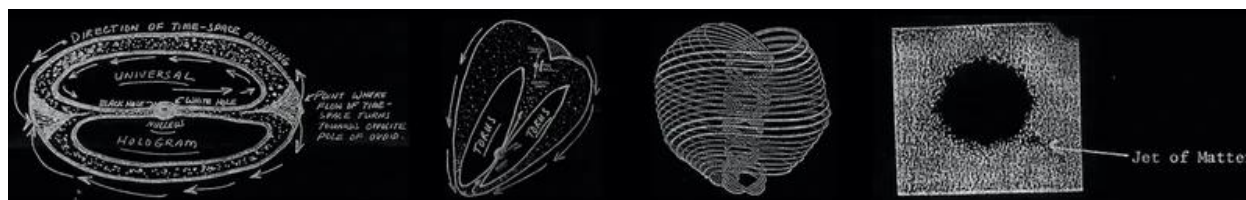

One evening, the Monroe Institute's Director of Marketing & Communications Jenny Whedbee emailed again. She'd been silent on our last call. The email contained the full Gateway Report including the missing page. She wrote that they'd just "went through a major org change." The CEO and COO were no longer with the company. She was now down to talk, after we had read page 25.

In the true spirit of discovery, I am pleased to present the full uninterrupted report in all its glory.

The page opens with the word "Absolute." It sits there authoritatively, as if guarding the gate to the rest of the text. In the broader context of the report the term is applied to both spiritual belief systems and quantum physics alike. It's an important word.

Physicists define time as a measurement of energy in motion. In this way, time is really a measurement of change. In order for that motion to occur though, it must be limited inside a larger vibratory pattern. Inside this framework it is limited, contained at a specific location. That confinement then makes it distinguishable from other locations in space. Uncontained energy is force without limit. Imagine a formless entity speeding through the galaxy with no friction to hold it back from being everywhere. As McDonnell puts it "There is no 'here' to differentiate it from 'there.'" And this, my friends, is an absolute state or "The Absolute."

According to the report, the Absolute is essentially the governing energy of the Universe en masse. It powers the universal hologram that is all of entirety. The report makes multiple attempts to visualize this universal hologram or "cosmic egg" as one big constantly flowing spiral.

Between the reality we know and The Absolute are countless intervening dimensions, McDonnell writes, which is pretty trippy stuff for a government report. Absolute is the ceiling (as far as we know it). End of the line, and a hell of a way to open a missing page.

McDonnell observes that a "stylized representation" of this spiral is present in every religious system in history. He cites the specific examples of Christianity's Holy Spirit, the Hellenic world's labyrinth, the Hebrew Tree of Life, its Hindu counterpart, and the Chinese Spiral Through the Four Powers. This thinking has found its way into each system's teachings.

The crucial distinction between the breakthroughs in modern physics and the epiphanies of religious thinkers is the way they all found The Absolute. Whereas physics leans on quantitative research, religions relied on intuition. The Gateway then sort of showed up just in time—a holistic mainline for "interfacing" with the universal hologram, freeing us from the limitations of a left brain logic-based culture.

The page's third section takes a slant which should feel familiar to adherents of modern psychology. The universe, the Absolute, the cosmic egg. All of it is irrelevant, and certainly unreachable, until we possess knowledge of ourselves. My eyes, upon first glance of page 25, picked up "The Absolute" first, then darted swiftly to the aphorism McDonnell trots out here—"Know Thyself." What hits even harder than achieving a psychological self-understanding, according to McDonnell, is the sense of self-perception achieved when one can manage to alter their state of consciousness to the point where the universal hologram itself can be perceived.

And it's The Gateway Experience, McDonnell says, that promises this possibility.

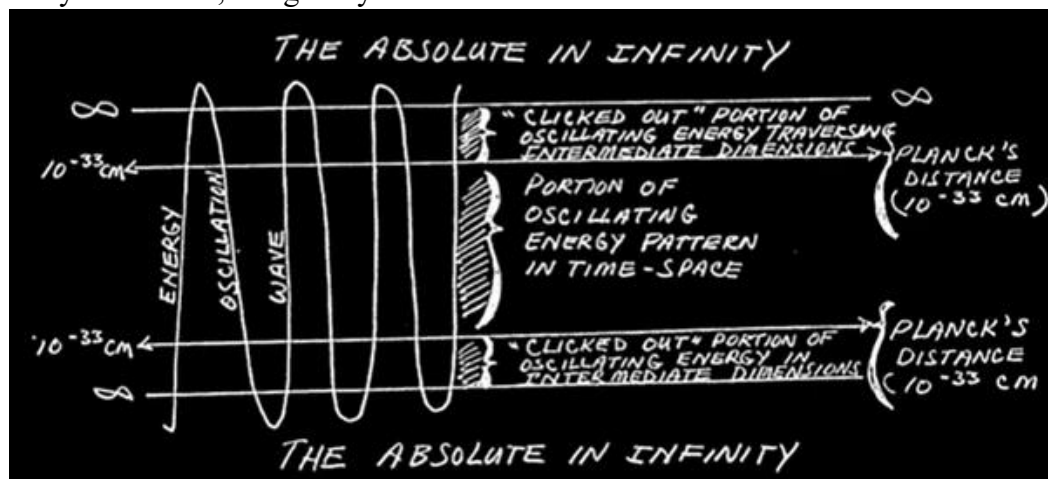

Achieving Hemi-Sync

Key to the report and technique for achieving astral projection is an audio technology developed by Robert Monroe, a radio broadcasting executive who, in the 1970s, built an R&D division inside his company solely to study the effects of sound on human consciousness.

In a series of self-experiments in which he exposed himself to carefully calibrated audio frequencies while sleeping, Monroe repeatedly achieved elevated mind-body states. His 1971 book Journeys Out of The Body documents those early investigations and officially coined the term “out-of-body experience.”

Monroe's corporate R&D division eventually became The Monroe Institute, which produces tapes containing audio techniques to stimulate brain functions and achieve “Hemi-Sync.” Hemi-Sync is short for hemispheric synchronization, and is instrumental in achieving a state of consciousness in which the electrical brain patterns of both left and right hemispheres are equal in amplitude and frequency.

It does so by combining two techniques. The first is Frequency Following Response—a recognized external frequency is introduced by headphones, which causes the brain “to try to mimic the same frequency by adjusting its brainwave output.” For instance, a resting brain that hears a Theta level will shift out of its Beta level. The second technique is beat frequency. Contrasting frequencies are introduced to each ear. The brain then “chooses to “hear” the difference between them.” A brain receiving 100hz through the right ear and 104hz through the left, can then detect the delta, in this case a 4hz frequency. The technique then opens the brain to “a variety of frequencies which are played at a virtually subliminal, marginally audible level.”

With the left brain relaxed and the body in a virtual sleep state, according to the report, the conditions are ideal to promote brainwave outputs of higher and higher amplitude and frequency. When the wave pattern of a consciousness drops below an oscillation frequency of 10 to the power of -33 centimeters per second, for a brief instant it “clicks out” of space-time and joins infinity. Monroe's theories maintain that if that “click-out” can achieve continuity you can begin dialoguing with other dimensions.

The Monroe Institute's chief engineer today is Bob Holbrook. A former events producer, Holbrook believes the Monroe Institute's audio offerings helped him rehab from head trauma sustained in a brutal car accident. The Hemi-Sync technology featured in The Gateway Report was sold to a company now called Hemi-Sync®. The audio technology stack The Institute now produces—collectively called Monroe Audio Support (MAS)—is a hugely evolved version of the original binaural beats-based technique. As Bob puts it, “Binaural beats was just one technology, now we have 50.” This widens and populates the spectrum of experience for participants. “MAS takes the idea of binaural beats and utilizes many other “colors” and technologies to create more intense experiences in different levels of consciousness.” A key MAS ingredient is gamma synchrony. “It allows us to connect much more easily to 'all that is,'” he said. Two additional innovations play a central role—Phase Modulation and Amplitude Modulation. Phase Modulation changes the direction from which a sound feels like it’s coming from. Bob shared an audio-visual animation illustrating sound source oscillation.

Amplitude Modulation gives technicians the capability to drop into the soundscape live and manipulate specific aspects of the volume.

The Institute shared a 30-minute sample of their newer programming for this article. Headphones are essential for full results. [Editor note: See the article for this recording – about halfway down the page. <https://shannonharris-urbanicity.bandcamp.com/merch/audio-pharmacology-theta-wave-5-element-healing-qi-gong-dvd>]

The Monroe Institute’s tapes combined these frequencies with subliminal suggestions from Monroe himself. An archive titled “The Explorer Series” contains recordings of the Monroe Institute Research Division’s experiments, in which subjects “report from these non-physical environments.”

Up until COVID, all meditators physically travelled to The Monroe Institute’s palatial headquarters in Faber, Virginia to work through a series of increasingly challenging levels. The 7-day course offers the possibility for one’s consciousness to navigate space, time, and beyond. That is, if you’ve got what it takes.

It’s these tapes and their potential applications that caught the attention of the CIA and prompted the commission of the report.

The Monroe Institute Today

After I read page 25, I called Jenny Whedbee back up.

She said Monroe is an organization that was trying to find its way in an ever-shifting world. “There’s a part of this organization that definitely needs to grow, but it needs to grow at a pace that keeps with the tenets of who we are,” she said. The importance of listening to where an organization comes from before deciding on a future was a theme. “If you don’t have the input from people who have been here a while, then you’re not really staying true to what the Institute is.”

Paramount to staying that course is the guiding light of its influential founder Robert Monroe. “We’ve had a lot of executives come and go. I know Robert Monroe is still here and still trying to run things,” she said.

It’s this pioneering energy that powers her enthusiasm. In reference to their newer classes, she explained, “Gateway Voyage is primarily the same exact program that Robert Monroe developed. And so is Lifeline, Exploration 27, Guidelines. Those core programs, he actually worked on and developed.”

“It puts you into direct experience with expanded states of consciousness where you can explore and ask questions and receive answers and visit past lives,” she said. “You can astral travel.”

These programs are grueling. Participants go through five or six exercises a day for five straight days. “It’s like running a marathon,” she said.

Jenny joined the company without much experience in consciousness elevation but swiftly got the feel for things. “It did exactly what the course said it was going to do,” she said. “I experienced past lives. It gave me this 20,000-foot view of my life. Not just this one, but previous and future.”

“If you want the rocket ship where your life is forever enlightened, you’re not going to get that any other way than coming here,” she said.

The conversation with Jenny eventually turned to page 25.

“I have my own interpretation,” she said. “Whether it was accidentally or intentionally left out I don’t know. Like I said there are people that work in this place that are on another plane and not here in the physical.”

For Jenny, the page appeared at the right time and place. “I feel like 20 years ago the world wasn’t ready to hear. But this generation is ready.” She says the institute changed her life.

“You grow up, you go to school, you get married, you have kids, you go to church, you die,” she said. “And your life lives on through your family. There is value there. But on a much deeper level it’s the relationships and the memories you create. Not all this stuff we’re collecting. So what if that page was released 20 years ago? Could it have backlashed? Cause it talks about religion and that all religions are equal. And what if people feel really powerfully that not all religions are equal. I feel like the generations nowadays, they’re not so wrapped up in that anymore.”

Jenny said that young people today are pushing for social justice and are more open to different perceptions of consciousness and different ways of living. “There’s this whole thing going on where people are awakening,” she said. “People become more conscious, people become more awakened—tearing down the monuments in Richmond. Enough’s enough. This has come about at a time when your generation has questions and they want to know and they’re ready to hear the answers without judgment.”

“TikTok happened, you happened, all this happened for a very important reason that’s not of this physical plane,” she said.

Jenny concluded our hour-long conversation with a suggestion for how to handle page 25. “Do something with it. You know even if it’s you just saying what it means to you.”

A Consciousness Feedback Loop

The Gateway Report is so dense in parts; it compromises its own accessibility. The goal of my initial synthesis was to create a written and visual experience (including, ahem, some premium custom graphics) that might help folks without a PhD in quantum physics benefit from its huge thinking.

It struck a nerve.

Over the course of a 3-week period, millions of readers made their way through an admittedly arduous editorial obstacle course. Studios reached out.

Two days after the article’s release, we inserted an invitation:

“Have you had an experience with The Monroe Institute, Hemi-Sync or had an out-of-body experience? Get in touch: ex0gene5i5@substack.com”

Thousands of emails came in from folks all over the world who described their out-of-body experiences. To me, it signaled the possibility that many of us are searching for something more than what seems currently available. To describe my experience in telling this story and the search in many senses, I produced a visual reinterpretation of page 25.

It was quite fuzzy in the article. I hope this is legible.]

The ‘original copy’ can be found on the website:

‘The Gateway’ is a high-resolution digital image of a print of the missing page 25 of the CIA’s Gateway Report. It contains 659 digital micro-inscriptions of out-of-body experience accounts, that only become visible at 300%+ magnification. Just look closer. Thobey Campion is the former Publisher of Motherboard. You can subscribe to his Substack here. The Gateway is an NFT. A Part of the proceeds goes to Mind Science, a foundation that explores the mystery of human consciousness by funding the work of early-career neuroscientists.

Absolute as the model around which the evolution of time-space revolves to ultimately attain a reflection of and union with Him. That thought model, which perfectly reflects the essence or "spirit" of the Absolute fits the Christian metaphysical description of the Holy Spirit. Finally, our description of the Universal hologram, the Torus of creation and evolution is neither new nor original. Its use as the figure of the universe, of creation developing in evolution is found in various stylized representations in virtually every religious system of antiquity, whether of eastern or western derivation. Whether its the stylized labyrinth once popular in the Hellenic world, the spiralized version of the Hebrew Tree of Life or its Hindu counterpart, or the Chinese Spiral Through The Fourfold Powers, the ultimate meaning is the same. Mystics the world over, it seems, have perceived the universal hologram in the same spiral form and have incorporated that intuitive knowledge in their religious writings from antiquity to the present.

35. Left Brain Limitations. Twentieth Century physics would seem to be revisiting insights belonging to mankind as far back as written records can take us. The only difference is that Twentieth Century physics is using a left brain, linear, quantitative style of reasoning to approach the same knowledge which the mystics of old apparently acquired in a holistic, intuitional, right brain style. As a tool in the hands of our left brain culture, Gateway would seem to be a promising method for achieving the intuitive, holistic type of interface with the universal hologram needed to provide the context that thinkers like Einstein have sought in their labors to discover a unified field theory in physics. For persons in our profession whose concerns revolve around strategic issues, tactical questions and matters of managerial form and system, access to a new world of intuitive perception and self reflection would seem to offer, in the long term, the means by which to do so in a truly objective way. This is so because the self-imposed limitations to balanced perception and objective logic which our cultural and personal psychological subjectivity imposes when we use the strictly left brain thinking style could be offset by the holistic form of perception associated with altered states of consciousness. To the extent that we come to perceive ourselves fully in the context of that portion of the universal hologram which is the reflection of ourselves, to that extent we release ourselves from the prison of subjectivity.

36. Self Knowledge. It was axiomatic to the mystic philosophers of old that the first step in personal maturity could be expressed in the aphorism: "Know thyself." To them, the education of a man undertook, as its primary step, achievement of an introverted focus so that he learned what was within himself before attempting to approach the outside world. They rightly assumed that he could not effectively evaluate and cope with the world until he fully understood his personal psychological balance. The insights being provided by Twentieth Century psychology in this context through the use of various kinds of personality testing seem to be a revalidation of this ancient intuition. But no personality test, or series of tests, will ever replace the depth and fullness of the perception of self which can be achieved when the mind alters its state of consciousness sufficiently to perceive the very hologram of itself which it has projected into the universe in its proper context as part of the universal hologram in a totally holistic and intuitional way. This would seem to be one of the real promise of the Gateway Experience from the standpoint of its ability to provide a pass in his search to find self, personal effectuality, and truth in the larger sense.

Section VIII: USPA Conference Recordings

1978 to 1995 and 2015 Available now for purchase in mp3 format. MORE are coming soon!

Since the founding of USPA in 1975, top speakers have made presentations at our annual conferences.

These historic lectures were presented by people who are involved in the leading edges of science, especially the phenomena of Mind-Body and technology. USPA has over 1400 of our lectures in various digital formats from 38 of our 41 annual conferences!

When we started recording talks in 1978, we only had audio cassettes tapes. Video recordings on VHS started in 1982 and ran thru 2002. DVDs started in 2003 and ran until the latest format MP4 digital Audio / Visual format began in 2015.

The first eighteen years of these cassette recordings have now been converted to MP3 audio digital format. These lectures can be ordered and transferred via email.

Section IX - What Are Others Up To?

Transcription, Transcription, Transcription!

ALL of our VHS and DVD recordings were sent out for conversion to digital media! That herculean task is done!

Now, Scott Beutlich, our secretary/treasurer (has ‘volunteered’) to go through them on the computer, adding titles and the USPA Logo and such. It is a labor of love, ‘cuz he sure isn’t getting rich doing it. ☺

The Auction

Now USPA has now found itself “buried” under a mountain of this priceless historical data in the form of audio cassettes, VHS Cassette Videos and DVD recordings. What are we going to do with all the originals??

We’re having a silent auction, and offer them off to the highest bidder. Details have been printed in previous newsletters and can be supplied on request to gailinvermont@outlook.com or on the website at AUCTION.

Searching and Finding:

If you are looking for anything on psychotronics or radionics, let us know; we’ll add that to our request corner.

John Reed was editor of the Newsletter from 2016 through 2019. He put out a lot of feelers for articles and books to fill the USPA library. Earlier in this newsletter, I shared the work John has been doing and why USPA feels that this is such important work. I did a personal “search and find” in a previous newsletter, and the readers came through.

I will be only asking for one thing each month. If someone has, shares or can tell us where to find it, they will be mentioned and be awarded the “USPA Research Angel Award” in our next newsletter.

Still Looking. C’mon Someone out there must have a few of these. I’d like to start off with something I think should be easy. John mentioned to me that the American Society of Dowsters once had a “mimeographed” paper newsletter that was done on 8.5 X 11 inch copy paper and mailed out to its members. We’d love to have a copy of them, for our files. As they were organized in 1961, any issues that you might have would be gladly accepted. [3-14-2021 Update. With so much going on, this is a repeat request. Still no answers. Please help if you can.]

If you don’t want them back, just send them to John. If you want to keep them, perhaps you can scan them to pdf and email them to him. IF you want to keep them and don’t have a scanner, send them to me. I will scan them the day I receive them and put them right back in the mail to you the next day!

Email John or me to set up the donation. joreed43@gmail.com or gailinvermont@outlook.com

A Virtual Library

Our former newsletter editor John Reed has done an enormous amount of this preservation work too. He has scanned to pdf thousands of pages of scientific work. He has preserved most of our USPA newsletters, journals and proceedings and much more. He continues to be the “official” librarian of USPA. Many thanks to John for all of his work! The full, ever changing list can be found here: USPA Library.

John says: “As a whole, the members of USPA have a huge “library” of periodicals, but it just happens to be “distributed” among its members at this point in time. However, we can work together, and if you would be willing to loan, donate, Xerox, or as a last resort, sell copies of your periodicals to us for the USPA Library, then we will be able to build a large centralized library of all psychotronics periodicals. And all USPA members will then be able to use these periodicals in their research or for their reading enjoyment.”

Section X Editor's Feedback Nook:

We'd like this to be an interactive newsletter!

(Read that as "Somebody talk to me!!)

Send your article submissions, comments or questions to the editor, Gail Ruggles at gailinvermont@outlook.com (Please note; my email has changed.) I will respond to all!

Do you need a writing prompt?

- Who is your favorite USPA Speaker? (And why?)
- Where did you last attend the USPA Conference and what did you like most?
- What's the neatest single thing you learned at a conference, that you didn't expect to learn?
- What radionic or psychotronics book or article have you read lately that you would like to share?
- Who would you like to see present a webinar on our website?
- Are you looking for info about a radionic instrument, scientist, book or article you can't find?
- Would like to make a news announcement, report something, make a request, or post a question about anything related to psychotronics, radionics or a related subject? Here's your chance!

What is USPA?

The United States Psychotronics Association (USPA) is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization founded in 1975 to serve as a focal point for scientific and technical exploration of the universe of esoteric, spiritual, and psychic arts in the United States of America.

The USPA has been hosting annual conferences for its membership since its formation and has featured countless individuals with cutting-edge viewpoints, research, or theories to share, allowing any interested persons to openly discuss their work.

What is Psychotronics?

USPA defines psychotronics as the science of mind-body-environment relationships, an interdisciplinary science concerned with the interactions of matter, energy, and consciousness.

Psychotronics involves the study, research, and applications of the physics and technology of the mind, brain, spirit, consciousness, and the underlying forces of life and nature – hence the term “psychotronics”.

We believe that a true understanding of the universe must include the spiritual, as well as, the technical, and provide an opportunity for amateur researchers to present their findings along with the professionals. We stress research, with documentation of results, and practical applications, rather than personal experience and unsupported hypotheses.

USPA Generous Donors Recognition Page

The USPA would like to give special recognition on a continuing basis to people who have made generous donations to the United States Psychotronics Association in the past three years.

This special “USPA Generous Donors Recognition Page” will be carried in each issue of the USPA Journal & Newsletter, and new names will be added as donations are received.

The USPA wishes to recognize the following individuals and extend our gratitude for their generosity:

Section XIII – Classifieds

If you have any “related items” to sell, (books, radionic machines, etc.) we charge 20 cents per word, 20.00 per half page with supplied artwork or photos or 35.00 per whole page. Your paid ad will run in the next three issues of the newsletter, or until you let us know your item is no longer for sale.

If you would like to publicize an event for a non-profit organization, USPA will advertise for you up to 750 words free. We ask for mutual links to our website from yours.

If you would like to publicize a for profit event, USPA will charge average advertising rates. Please contact Scott Beutlich at uspsychotronics@gmail.com. to discuss this well ahead of time.

(We will have a disclaimer on the page saying that USPA is not responsible for the content or condition of items sold from this newsletter, nor does it back any treatment, modality or veracity of presentation. It does not back any claim of medical efficacy of machines or treatments. USPA can not recommend specific radionic practitioners, or offer radionic treatments from its board or officers.

Section XIV – J.G. Gallimore’s Five Rare Books Are Now Available!

Jerry G. Gallimore was one of the founders of the USPA in 1975, and was a leading researcher in psychotronics and unusual energies until his untimely death in 1989.

All five of J.G. Gallimore’s rare books on psychotronics subjects and unusual energies have been reprinted by the United States Psychotronics Association (USPA) and are being made available at a fraction of the cost that used copies were being sold at online.

So rare have these books been, that only a few libraries in the entire world had them in their collections, and some original Gallimore’s books were being sold for several hundred dollars each online. However, with these newly reprinted volumes, each will be available for less than $30.00. All are: Available at Amazon.com

The Handbook of Unusual Energies: Volume 1 of Handbook of Unusual Energies	ISBN-10: 1543024998 ISBN-13: 978-1543024999	The first book of three volumes on unusual energies	468 Pages
Gallimore discusses in depth the research, discoveries, and inventions of all the major researchers in subtle energies, the aether, biological 62 fields, pyramid energy, radiesthesia, radionics, crystal transduction, and related subjects. These include the works of Baron Von Reichenbach's and his odic energy, Dr. Wilhelm Reich's orgone energy, Dr. Harold Burr's biological life fields, Kozyrev's time mirror, Edgar Cayce's transmission of energy, and related research done by many others. Of particular importance is Gallimore's 127 page chapter on radionics. In this chapter he discusses in depth the research and devices of Ruth Drown, T. Galen Hieronymus, Rho Sigma, Dr. L. P. Corte and other prominent people in the radionics field.
Collected Properties & Writings of J. G. Gallimore: Volume 2	ISBN-10: 1543025048 ISBN-13: 978-1543025040	The second book of three volumes on unusual energies	258 Pages
This is the second book in the “Unusual Energies” series that J.G. Gallimore published. It covers Gallimore's research on Albert Abrams, the founder of modern radionics, psychological physics, psychic energy, thought resonance, subtle energies, crystals, and related subjects. In addition, a number of radionics devices are discussed, such as the De La Warr Diagnostic Instrument. And very helpfully, the rates are provided for substances, body organs, and medical diseases and disorders. I very interesting interview of Christopher Bird, conducted by J.G. Gallimore is

Relationship Between Parapsychology and Gravity: Volume 3

ISBN-10:
1543024947
ISBN-13:
978-1543024944

The third book of three volumes on unusual energies

228
Pages

This book describes in depth the research and theories of J.G. Gallimore into the question of "parapsychology transmission" -the question of how such things as telepathy, remote viewing, ESP, and similar phenomena can physically occur.

He discusses the various emanations, radiations, and energy fields of all matter and life including the ancient Chinese energy called "chi" (qi), the ancient Indian's prana energy, Reichenback's "odinic force," Gurwitsch's "mitogenic radiation," Wilhelm Reich's orgone energy, and other subtle energies. He shows how all of these energies are similar, how they interact, and how they are related to gravity.

He also discusses crystals as transducers of these energies, and provides diagrams of devices that could potentially be used to harness or control these energies.

Transverse Paraphysics: The New Science of Space, Time, and Gravity Control

ISBN-10:
1543024920
ISBN-13:
978-1543024920

374
Pages

This book covers the visionary research and theories developed by J.G. Gallimore about anti-gravity, space, time, and biophysics.

He discusses in depth the dimensions of space, time, and gravity, and new discoveries in each of these areas. In addition, he covers research being done on anti-gravity and then discusses anti-gravity patents that have been obtained.

He also discusses the intriguing concept of aura energy fields surrounding humans and other living things, and how extra-sensory perception (ESP) might be explained through biophysical principles.

Unified Field Theory Research Book: Using Subjective Response to Psi-Plasma for Analysis of Properties Neutral Charge Plasma Fields

ISBN-10:
1543024831
ISBN-13:
978-1543024838

Pages

This book is about psychotronics, radionics, electromagnetic fields and waves, psi-plasma, plasma fields, subtle energies, bio-electromagnetic energy, and other unusual energies emitted by living and non-living things. It also is about how living things interact with and are affected by these energies, which may enhance health or harm health.

The book covers the research of Wilhelm Reich on Orgone energy, of Baron Reichenback on the odic forces, as well as research done by Cazzamalli on brain radiations and Lakhovsky on using high frequency radiations to successfully treat cancer in humans. In addition, Lakhovsky used similar methods to enhance the growth of plants. Gallimore shows how these energies, forces, and fields are all inter-related and provides hypotheses and ideas on their possible unification.
