February 26th: Duncan Laurie "Exploring The Potential of Radionics in Art & Music"

Duncan Says:

"Radionics, in other names and forms, has deep cultural connotations in many societies throughout history.

In those societies, radionics transcends healing and agricultural; it becomes a deep well of affirmative well-being, touching every aspect of life. It is a way of relating to the formative forces of vitality and consciousness.

What do I hope viewers get from the Masterclass? A broader understanding of Radionics as it relates to consciousness and art, especially as a creative tool."

The presentation will be in three parts:

Part 1: Radionics in Art – Historical Perspective

Part 2: Dragonline Lab Experiments

Part 3: Quantec/AXXYXX Technology

Our 26th Masterclass: “Exploring the Potential of Radionics in Art & Music—Quantec’s Discoveries in Germany and the Experiments at Dragonline Studios, USA.” with Duncan Laurie

Duncan is the author of Secret Art: a Brief History of Radionic Technology for the Creative Individual (2009). In Brief, Duncan says,

“What is the secret art? The history of radionics is the story of how various inventors designed devices that employ directed intent to affect the real world. With these tools, they promoted healing without pills or surgery, grew crops without fertilizer, restrained insect predation without pesticides, and performed a host of other seemingly impossible feats that defy mechanistic science.

THE SECRET ART traces this astonishing process beginning with early designs suggestive of radionic intent. For many prehistoric and indigenous peoples, art was also a means of interacting with Nature to enhance healing, increase crop yields, and enable visionary experiences. Coincidentally, radionic inventors discovered by trial and error that even drawings and bizarre technology could function radionically. This discovery followed a long process of design innovation that started with mechanical devices; then proceeded through a generation of electronic instruments, and most recently has been applied to computer and software technology.

Conceivably, the theory and techniques outlined in this book could provide artists with a revolutionary approach to the creative process is at once both new and timeless. A potential exists today for radionic ideas to empower creative individuals to develop skills in working with Nature that profound real world results.

Duncan had a paper featured in our First Journal in 1988. Here is page 1 of the article:

VIRTUAL STATE ART? THE WORLD OF PSYCHOTRONICS

by Duncan Laurie [November, 1988 USPA Journal #1]

Who can't sense in the Art world of the late 1980's widespread disillusionment, boredom and

impotence? Science and technology have long since outstripped the Arts in funding, education and public acclaim. The artists run in and out of favor faster than the politicians. Greed, money, fame, cliques; a big hustle by the top boys; that's how it works, we all know that. Wordspeak and worse; disinformation on the creative process. Our work: neurotic, cynical, over-intellectualized, impure - like us, like our culture. What happened to that function art and artist once held in directing our lives toward that realm of human experience known as the sacred?

Assuming the sacred can still be conveyed by art, and that for an audience it still exists, certain questions arise. One is whether the sacred functions of life, interpreted by the artist, can in any way counterbalance what Guenon spoke of so forcefully as "The Reign of Quantity." It seems unlikely when, as artists, we respond to the impingement on our lives of so many political, moral, ecological and even cosmic threats with merely symbolic gestures.

A possibility now exists which may entirely change that very uneven balance. It lies in a little-known, much suppressed, borderline scientific field known variously as psychotronics, radionics, gravity field technology, zero point technology, or virtual state technology. My premise here is that inherent in the discoveries of this field lie concepts and engineering that are much closer to the creative process and the artistic mind than those of the scientific community it simultaneously seeks to win approval from and to overturn. And, as I shall try to articulate, underneath the extraordinary claims of the psychotronic inventors and their bizarre creations lies a deeply significant social, political fact; the technical engineering exists that informed individuals can use to transform the world and to regain control of the quality of their lives.

Therefore, I ask the artists reading this to evaluate the following material in its potential, if true, to affect Art and Life both as an experiential process and as a new medium, in and of itself. As Kandinsky in his 1912 essay, "Concerning the Spiritual in Art," once equated representational art with materialism, so today's artist working in the virtual state must view all symbolic art, whether representational or abstract, as referencing only the outer surfaces of the material world. Working through the virtual state, however, allows the artist access to and influence over, the prematerial, presymbolic forces of Nature and the human mind.

Current Theory One must begin by establishing what discoveries in current scientific thinking support the hypotheses of the psychotronic inventors and theorists. Michael Talbot, in his 1986 book Beyond the Quantum discusses five such breakthroughs with great clarity, tying them to many other aspects and problems confronting the scientific world today. The first is the breakthrough experiment performed by Alain Aspect, Jean Dalibard and Gerard Roger at the Institute of Theoretical and Applied Optics in Paris in 1982. Aspect's team provided an experiment which brilliantly confirmed quantum theory; the study of matter at the subatomic level.

The January 15th Masterclass #24 featured John Allocca, on "Brainicity"

Brainicity™ Brain Biofield Enhancement uses several different technologies combined to provide a relaxing and therapeutic experience. The heart produces electromagnetic signals, which is called electrocardiography (ECG) or the heart biofield. The brain produces electromagnetic signals, which is called electroencephalography (EEG) or the brain biofield. The brain produces an erratic biofield that can be deciphered. Brain waves are classified by frequency as Delta, Theta, Alpha, and Beta waves.

Section V – Black History Month – Black Scientists Who Helped Shape the World

Dr. Henry Monteith Mathematician, physicist, and Spiritual Cosmologist

Henry Monteith, is a Mathematician, physicist, and Spiritual Cosmologist. He worked at Sandia Labs perfecting Solar Cells. He was a past president and board member of USPA and has given many presentations at USPA. He is the author of Soulmate Cosmological Action. He and his wife have a website called Soulmate Cosmological Action

Jessica O. Matthews, Founder and CEO of Uncharted Power

Uncharted Power is a power access company, paving the way for smart and sustainable infrastructure development. Jessica is not only founder and CEO but CTO, too, as well as a multiple patent holder for the software stack, hardware elements, mesh design, and AI-based protocols inside the MORE (Motion-based, Off-grid, Renewable Energy) technology.

Matthew N. Portis, Founder & President of Sol Green

SolGreen is the first and only Black-owned and operated company that has invented, engineered and patented the first solar charging table or solar workstation, called the “Evodia Solar Workstation” with a vision to introduce a technology that would modernize and maintain sustainable infrastructure in cities, parks and outdoor public spaces. This invention meets the power and amenity needs of everyday people who are increasingly demanding of adequate seating, shelter and power to utilize cell phones, laptops, Wi-Fi, and lighting anytime and anywhere.

André Taylor, one of Today’s Innovators in Photovoltaics, Rechargeable Batteries, And Space-Age Materials

Among other things, Taylor's lab is addressing the dangers that electromagnetic radiation poses to mobile devices, by developing a cost-effective process for making strong, flexible films that allow light in but keep electromagnetic interference (EMI) out. The novel approach, using a unique family of EMI-blocking materials called MXenes, led to a 38% enhancement of EMI-shielding efficiency over conventional methods. A paper on his lab's work on MXenes, published in Advanced Functional Materials, was cited as one of the journal's most downloaded for the year.

Chanda Prescod-Weinstein Rethinks the 'Dark' In Dark Matter (2021)

After her mother took her to see "A Brief History of Time," (the Errol Morris' 1991 documentary about theoretical physicist Stephen Hawking), she fell in love with the discipline. She was just 10 years old.

Nearly 30 years later, she is the first Black woman to hold a tenure-track faculty position in theoretical cosmology as an assistant professor at the University of New Hampshire. Prescod-Weinstein is one of the country's few core faculty members of both physics and women's and gender studies departments at a higher institution.

Benjamin Banneker Developed an Early Astronomical Almanac

He was taught to read by his maternal grandmother and for a very short time attended a small Quaker school. A self-taught astronomer and farmer, and son of former slaves, Banneker is best known for his series of highly successful astronomical almanacs that predicted events such as solar eclipses, sunrises, and sunsets. Many passages also contained predictions of the weather and seasonal changes and medical remedies and advice on planting crops.

Dorothy Vaughan Was an Important "Human Computer" For NASA

In 1943, she took what she thought was a temporary war job processing aeronautical research at the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA). Jim Crow laws at the time required her to work separately from her white female counterparts.

In 1949, Vaughan was promoted to lead the group, making her the NACA's first black supervisor, and allowing her to collaborate on projects with other well-known human computers. In 1958, when the NACA made the transition to NASA, segregation at the institute was abolished, and Vaughan joined the new Analysis and Computation Division (ACD).

She was an expert programmer, making ground-breaking advancements in the proliferation of FORTRAN and made significant contributions to the U.S. Space Program. She would be a lifelong advocate for racial and female equality.

Dr. James Edward Maceo West Inventions are Found In Many Electronic Devices Today

West is best known for his work in developing the electroacoustic transducer. This compact device is currently found in around 90 percent of modern microphones, most telephones, old tape recorders, camcorders, and other devices such as hearing aids and baby monitors.

Katherine Johnson Was another Pioneering NASA Mathematician

Because her home county did not offer public schooling for African-American students past the eighth grade, her family arranged for her to attend high school in West Virginia. Johnson attended West Virginia State University, and graduated summa cum laude with degrees in Mathematics and French, at the age of 18.

After NACA became NASA, on the space program, she became an aerospace technologist, calculating the trajectories for many NASA missions. During the Mercury space missions, when NASA began using electronic computers for the first time, astronaut John Glenn apparently refused to fly unless Johnson first verified the calculations. She also published 26 scientific papers throughout her career.

George Edward Alcorn Jr. Made Significant Contributions to Space Research

While at NASA, he invented an imaging x-ray spectrometer using thermomigration of aluminum, for which he earned a patent, and a NASA Goddard Space Flight Center (GSFC) Inventor of the Year Award, in 1984. Two years later he devised an improved method of fabrication using laser drilling. He was involved with the computer analysis of launch trajectories and orbital mechanics for Rockwell missiles, including the Titan I and II, the Saturn and the Nova. After earning a PhD in Molecular and Atomic Physics from Howard University in 1967, he went on to hold teaching positions in electrical engineering at Howard University and the University of the District of Columbia, eventually rising to the rank of full professor.

Susan Maria McKinney Steward (1847 – 1918) First Female African-American Homeopath Medical Doctor in New York

In that era, men openly criticized women who attempted to attend medical school; however Susan was determined to become a homeopath physician. Susan earned her medical degree in 1870 and in the same year opened her own private clinic in Brooklyn, which she ran from 1870 to 1895. During this time she co-founded the Brooklyn Women's Homeopathic Hospital and Dispensary that served many people successfully with homeopathic medicine.

Victor R. Beasley, PhD Author of Your Electro-Vibratory Body- A Study of the Life Force (1979)

(Contributed by John Reed - from RISHE Booklet of Research Institute for Supersensonic Healing Energies, undated. RISHE is a branch of University of the Trees, founded by Christopher Hills in 1973 at Boulder Creek, California. RISHE is devoted to practical, applied research in subtle energy therapeutics. This includes such subject areas as radiesthesia, radionics, homeopathy, Bach flower remedies, negative ionization, and healing with crystals and gemstones. Last known address: P.O. Box 644, 13151 Pine St., Boulder Creek, CA 95006.)

After receiving a B.A. in Anthropology from the University of Maryland, Victor held positions as Director of Country Programs for the American Institute for Free Labor Development (subsidiary AFL/CIO) in the Dominican Republic and set up regional offices as Caribbean Director in Guyana, South America and Barbados, West Indies.

Other events during this period included the publication of his first book, Essence, a collection of thoughts and aphorisms, in Guyana. 1973. He was selected as an eastern regional finalist for the President's White House Fellows Program in that same year. Concurrent with his administrative duties Victor embarked upon an independent academic research project for the Ph. D. in Radiational Paraphysics through Union Graduate School, Yellow Springs, Ohio.

His dissertation “Behavioral Dimensions of Electro- Vibratory Phenomena” was published by University of the Trees Press in 1975 and is now in its third edition (July 1979) under the new title Your Electro- Vibratory Body.

In 1976 Victor retired from a successful career in international labor in favor of full-time research into alternative methods of healing, an investigation which for a short time led him to study natural medicine in London at the British School of Naturopathy and Osteopathy. But his previous four-year Ph.D. research findings on radiesthesia and the human energy-field had left an unresolved urge to probe deeper into this new field, and the Osteopathic tradition made no allowances for this. As a result, Victor chose to return to his native America after eight years of living and working abroad with the hope of sharing some of what he had learned about healing in his travels.

But there persisted the niggling questions: Is there enough openness within the medical community towards Supersensonic methods of healing without eliciting an attack from those health care professionals who could benefit so much from energy-field healing technology? And how would the American public generally respond to effective but unconventional healing methods which might not always have the endorsement of a medical doctor—simply because the doctor, though well-meaning, may be unaware or unskilled in subtle energy techniques? To date these questions remain unanswered as it has only been a few short months since Victor joined with Dr. Hills and the staff of University of the Trees . The result of this partnership is the creation of RISHE. a Research Institute for Subtle Energy Healing. an act of faith in the future of the healing arts. a profound hope that research into subtle-body healing is an idea whose time has finally come. (End of Article)

Beasley’s book Your Electro- Vibratory Body is described on the dust jacket: (...) Today, a network of scientists across the globe continue probing the outer limits of physics and the fascinating depths of the human body. In an endeavor to verify and prove in modern terms the true nature of existence they venture beyond the attitude that the unknown is therefore impossible. Here Victor Beasley documents for us the research and findings of a nucleus of pioneers that includes such notables as Alice Bailey, George De La Warr, Christopher Hills, Humphrey Osmond, Sulman and Krueger and Nikola Tesla. The accounts presented in this volume are concerned with the possible influence which certain radiational or "electro-vibratory" forces might exert upon human behavior. The term "electro-vibratory" is meant to have a generic application. Hence, with an "electro-vibratory" concept, the attempt is to reflect an identity which is thought to be common to the different forces, all whose promulgation is understood to involve the vibration, oscillation, or radiation of energy, and whose composition, whether at a physical or meta-physical level of inquiry, is thought to entail charged electrons or similar particles.

Section VI – The Passing of Greatness: Remembering some of the best known Scientists and Researchers in the radionic/psychotronic fields.

Retired Lt. Col Thomas Eugene Bearden Obituary and Commentary (1930-2022)

RET Lt. Col. (Army), Thomas "Tom" Eugene Bearden, 91, of Huntsville, AL, passed away at his home Thursday, February 3, 2022 after a lengthy illness. Mr. Bearden was born December 17, 1930 in Cheniere, LA to Emmett Bearden and Lizzie Orlean Hammond Bearden. Survivors include his daughter, Dana O. Bearden-Baldwin (Gene) and stepchildren, Diana K. Hardinge and David L. Hardinge. Mr. Bearden was preceded in death by his wife of 49 years, Doris F. McDonald and stepson, Michael L. Bearden (Marylyn).

From Scott Beutlich (Secretary / Treasurer and Board Member)

Tom Bearden was a retired Army lieutenant Colonel with a degree in Nuclear Physics. He spoke on Soviet Psychotronic Weaponry and Weather Engineering; Where Physics Took a Wrong Turn; Free Energy Devices; Longitudinal EM Waves; The Healing Modalities of Priores and Understanding the Mechanisms of Radionics. Tom attended 15 USPA conferences from 1978 thru 2000. He made eighteen presentations at USPA conferences, one Keynote speech, took part in three panel discussions and finished with a 5.5 hour workshop! Tom Served on the USPA Board of Directors for 7 years.

From Toby Grotz – Remembering

I'm sitting here this morning the late winter of 2022, snow on the ground, -4F, with a copy of a booklet published by John Ratzlaff's Tesla Book Company containing two essays, The New Tesla Electromagnetics and The Secrets of Electrical Free Energy, by Tom Bearden and an essay by Dr. Rolf Schaffranke titled Proofs of Free Energy Devices and Supporting Data, copyright 1982. Tom's research on free energy grew over the years into a 952 page book published in 2002 titled Energy from the Vacuum available from Cheniere Press.

I first met Tom Bearden at a USPA conference in 1980. After his presentation my head was spinning. I was in awe and realized why I never understood some of the basics I was taught in university physics and electrical engineering. I was inspired by Tom to dig into the nature of reality that led to organizing conferences and traveling the world in search of free energy inventors and their devices. That is an understated way of trying to convey to the reader the enormous impact Tom had on my life.

Over the years I had many talks with Tom on the phone and during conferences. Information flowed out of him at a rate that was impossible to keep up with while taking notes and I recall using a portable tape recorder during one interview. The cassette tape of that interview is somewhere in my collection and I hope to get it, along with others into the USPA archives.

In the early '80's we had a chapter of the USPA in Colorado. A talk and lecture reported on with photos by the Denver Westword Magazine showed me and others talking about radionics at the meeting. Later that week some guy called me at my drafting table at Martin Marietta Aerospace using a voice disguiser and said he was from the Eagle Lightning Network and that he knew what I was up to and what I was doing. I said “good” because he had just called into a Department of Defense contractor that records all the calls coming in. I made that up on the spot. He hung up. Later when I told Tom about it he offered to send a friend to Denver with an Uzi to Denver to be a body guard for me. He was serious!

From Toby Grotz – Those Were the Days

In the summer of 1994, a group of scientists, engineers, shade tree mechanics and dissident physicists gathered at a retreat at the Stanley Hotel in the Colorado Rockies. We had settled in for a few days preceding the 1994 International Symposium on New Energy. All of a sudden there was a ruckus and commotion as the actors, directors and film crew showed up on set for the movie Dumb Dumber. Later that night as the film crew mixed with the conference speakers at the bar, both groups learned of the reasons for the presence of the other. A good time was had by all and by the end of the night it was agreed that there had been a convergence of the Dumb Dumber and the Smart Smarter. Such was the camaraderie that by the next morning a group photo was taken on the steps of the Stanley featuring the stars from both groups of the Dumb Dumber and Smart Smarter crowd, Jim Carey front and center in bathrobe and Tom Bearden, left in sunglasses. I'll leave it to the reader to identify the rest of the crowd. (Toby Grotz)

Barbara F. Hero Obituary and Commentary (January 3, 1925 ~ August 9, 2021; age 96))

Barbara Hero passed away on August 9, 2021. She is survived by her loving family and friends.

From Beverly Coleman: (former USPA Board member/speaker)

“Barbara Hero was an innovator, scientist, friend and dear soul. She had a passion about the work of Pythagoras and his teachings. Her instrumental designs based on Pythagoras’s work gave us an insight on his abilities to use frequencies to alter behavior and influence health. Her USPA talks inspired others to search through the ‘ancients’ legacies for answers to modern problems. I’m grateful to have had the opportunity, through USPA, to see as well as hear the results of her research work. Barbara Hero was a visionary and a heroine.”

How this Psychoenergetics adventure began. (Told in his own words) <sup>1</sup>

This story actually began about forty years ago in the summer of 1964. My wife, Jean, and I, along with our two small children, Andrea (6) and Jeff (4), were driving our Ford Fairlane across the country from Pennsylvania to California. I had resigned from my job of 9 years as a research scientist at Westinghouse Research laboratories, on the east side of greater Pittsburgh, and was taking up a new position as a tenured, full professor of Materials Science at Stanford University. I was thirty-four at the time and thought of myself as a scientist/business man who was a world-class expert on the science of crystallization. It was the beginning of a great, new adventure for all of us!

One day, while the kids were resting quietly in the back seat, Jean turned to me and said “Bill, when we get to California, let’s try and pull together the spiritual side of our lives”. I said “sure, let’s do that”. We had already been exploring the works of Edgar Cayce and had had a long-standing but casual and accepting interest in the psychic domain of human experience. Jean had grown up living across the street from a United Church of Canada (the closest analogy would be the Methodist church in the U.S.) and activities there were an important part of her early life. I, on the other hand, although very interested in “human fruits of the spirit”, had a low tolerance for organized religion.

The way this joint decision unfolded in California was to get involved in some of the A.R.E.’s activities (Association for Research and Enlightenment, the Edgar Cayce organization). This introduced us to serious meditation practice and to study-group activities on two of Cayce’s books “Search for God, Books 1 and 2”. Concurrently, we found a Religious Science church in the Palo Alto area that we enjoyed attending. I took to meditation like a duck to water, while Jean not quite so quickly. We soon built this practice to a daily routine of ~1 hour duration. Meditation, centering ourselves daily in the spirit domain of reality allowed us to experience and explore both inner and outer realms of human awareness in a very balanced way. It greatly enriched our life and we both loved the time devoted to this practice. From this practice, both Jean and I developed a sense of communion with, and subtle guidance from, the “unseen”. For me, I learned to rapidly oscillate (timeshare) between a state of being sharply focused on an item of particular interest and on a state of being open, receptive and loving to everything in the environment of the moment. It greatly aided me in my technical consulting practice and in my role as Department Chairman of Materials Science that I accepted in 1966 (due to an unforeseen illness to the long-time incumbent of that post at Stanford).

Although the late 1960’s were turbulent years for academia in Northern California, they were also the years that Jean and I became avocationally exposed to many psychics and to many interesting psychic phenomena. These years might be labeled the “learning discernment” years for us. As the 60’s came to an end, I received a Guggenheim Fellowship for a sabbatical year of study at Oxford University in England and, just before leaving the U.S. with my family, I purchased a copy of a fascinating new book that had just appeared, “Psychic Discoveries behind the Iron Curtain”, to read on the plane.

Our previous half-decade of personal exploration of this general topic area had prepared us to be able to accept the reality and viability of such psycho-energetic phenomena but not the scope and richness of the Russian technical explorations. At some deep level of self I knew that these writings were largely truthful, but I couldn't conceive of how the universe might be constructed to allow this crazy-seeming kind of "stuff" to naturally coexist with the orderly scientific phenomena that I was dealing with daily in my Stanford laboratories.

This puzzled me to such a degree that I largely abandoned what I planned to work on during this sabbatical stay in England (however, I did pursue and complete that work during the 1980's). I decided to use my mediation practice time to seek an answer to the question "how might our universe be constructed so that a natural expansion of our conventional scientific constructs would allow this strange class of psychoenergetic phenomena to become both sane and rational within a larger conceptual framework? What assumed rigid constraints of our conventional worldview could possibly be relaxed to allow these two sets of experimental data to comfortably coexist?"

The procedure I followed on a daily basis was to hold both this general question and more specific detailed questions (like a "brick" in my open palms) during Jean's and my daily meditation - like a supplicant asking for guidance from the "unseen". By the end of the hour, I would usually have some intuitive measure of seeming enlightenment concerning the detailed questions. These, Jean and I would discuss after the meditation period and then I would work with them in my office for most of the day to see if they violated any rock-solid experimental data as distinct from our present interpretation of such data. Her unprofessional intuitions on such matters were importantly helpful. It was like trying to assemble an amazingly large and complex jigsaw puzzle with the boundaries between the individual pieces being allowed to be a little fuzzy. After six months of this daily routine a "working hypothesis model" had formed in my conscious brain that, although quite radical, might be useful, testable and possibly even correct! It had a distinctly theosophical flavor - probably from some of the books I had been reading around that time. Probably the most important part of this structure is that it was multidimensional; well beyond spacetime.

By this time, I had reached the irrevocable conclusion that it was extremely important for both humanity and future science that some competent U.S. investigator make a long-term, serious commitment to both experimentally and theoretically investigate psychoenergetic phenomena from a science perspective. Of course, this was a study area that was a total anathema to current and past science. This is because all science to date has worked under the implicit assumption that no qualities of human consciousness and intention can significantly influence well-designed experiments into physical reality. By this time I realized that the fragmentary experimental data from psychoenergetic studies, conducted at various locations in the world over the previous two centuries, overwhelmingly showed that this implicit assumption was very, very wrong!

Before returning to the U.S., I decided that I could not avoid taking up this challenge and must begin leading a dual-path type of life wherein I would professionally continue my conventional science as a Stanford professor and, simultaneously, begin an avocational life-path of serious research in the area of psychoenergetics studies. In order to gain a block of time for the avocational research, I felt it was necessary for me to give up all my professional power positions, (1) the chairmanship position in my Stanford department, (2) my U.S. government committee memberships and (3) my technical societies committee memberships. My uses for this avocational block of time were threefold and all were equally important: (1) the continued experiential development of self via "inner" practices, (2) theoretical modeling of a multidimensional universe that allowed both conventional science and psychoenergetic science to easily coexist and (3) design and conduct of experiments to both test the theory and to push the envelope of our understanding. My ultimate goal was to build a robust and reliable bridge of scientific understanding that would, on one end, seamlessly join with conventional scientific understanding; would straightforwardly project through the various subtle domains of reality in the middle; and would be firmly planted in the bedrock of spirit at the other end. I was substantially supported in this by my wife, Jean, and substantially opposed in this by most, but not all, of my Stanford colleagues.

This psychoenergetics adventure was a joint adventure between Jean and myself. I was the very visible member of the team “trodding the boards of the world stage” so-to-speak while Jean made sure that everything ran smoothly at home. She served the daily needs of our two children and her husband, maintained a beautiful home, served as a cook and gracious hostess for many, many meals and meetings in our home for visitors, friends and acquaintances from both our conventional and unconventional worlds, arranged most of the social activities of our overly-busy life and yet still managed to strongly participate in the spiritual core of our unfolding adventure. Although I get most of the credit for this work, it could not have been accomplished without such a supportive and contributing partner!

During the 1970’s I lectured widely on the topics of both psychoenergetics and conventional materials science. During this early period, I became a founding director of both (1) the Academy of Parapsychology and Medicine and (2) the Institute of Noetic Science, and began to also write scientific papers in the area of psychoenergetics. A reference list of these early psychoenergetic publications is provided in Appendix I-A for those who might be interested in learning what types of areas we had begun to investigate. Almost none of these journals are front-line scientific journals because the editors of such journals “were sure that their readership would not be interested in such material”. By 1992, I had fulfilled my obligation to my main conventional science field by writing and publishing two books as a 40-year long investigation of the science of crystallization and thus felt free to more strongly pursue my psychoenergetics studies. In 1992, I gave up my academic teaching duties to become a Professor Emeritus of Materials Science. I continued having conventional science Ph.D. students until ~2000 but began writing my first psychoenergetics book in 1992 based my ~50 years perspective on this field. This first book “Science and Human Transformation: Subtle Energies, Intentionality and Consciousness” was published in 1997) and provided some important conclusions for this present book. Some of the figures from that book will appear later without detailed captions but with a code.

Defining the whole person

By this time, I had come to believe that we are all spirits having a physical experience as we ride the “river of life” together and, to effectively have this experience, we needed a suitable structural interface with the spacetime world. To make this more tangible, I came to believe that the whole person is much more than they appear to be. As a metaphor for the whole person, I like to visualize a sphere comprised of three concentric zones that are at least weakly coupled to each other.

The outermost zone consists of two concentric layers of very different kinds of materials. This I call the personality self. The middle zone consists of three concentric layers, each constructed from three still different kinds of materials. I call this the soul self. The third, and inner zone, I call the high spirit self or the “God Self”, whichever label one wishes to use. Thus, the whole person is made up of three very different selves!

In the personality self, the outermost layer of material interfaces, via our five-physical senses neural circuitry, with what we call the outer world - the earth, our solar system, the cosmos. We have developed, over time, a successful reference frame (R.F.) for analyzing and understanding this outer world - we call that R.F. spacetime, a 4-dimensional construct.

With the adjacent layer in the personality self, via a yet unspecified sensory system but which is probably the acupuncture meridian/chakra system, we interface with the soul self. The R.F. that we in our Payson lab use to analyze and understand this inner world is called “reciprocal spacetime”, another 4-dimensional construct but which is a frequency domain. Thus, together we use a single, duplex R.F. for analyzing and understanding a united, inner and outer worldview of nature’s manifold expressions. Because these two, 4-dimensional subspaces of the unique 8-dimensional R.F. are reciprocals of each other, mathematics requires a unique and quantitative connection between the different materials in the two layers of the personality self.

With this unique 8-dimensional R.F., one is automatically led to simultaneous particle-type behavior in one sub-space connected to wave-type behavior in the other. This type of wave/particle behavior is a cornerstone of present quantum mechanics. In addition, this reference frame shows that a unique connectivity exists between any two points in one subspace via the totality of the other subspace and vice versa. The degree or magnitude of that connectivity, in turn, depends upon the activation of a particular energy that is thought to come from the soul self -body.

As we all know, although our collective personality selves are all stewards of the earth, our personality selves have only a brief temporal existence.

The soul self, consisting of the still higher dimensional domains of emotion, mind and an aspect of spirit, is the entity that is importantly evolving in this overall process. It is much more durable than the personality self and is the repository of all the key experiences from a long succession of personality selves. When the various outer world classrooms have little more to teach the soul self, it graduates and transfers all of its essential information to the God Self. In this way the God Self is thought to keep expanding.

The personality self -body is thought to be an evolved form of a basic animal species appropriate to the planet, in our case from the chimpanzee/ape family. In this way, it provides the well-developed 5-physical senses infrastructure needed to interface with spacetime. Interaction with the soul self genetically alters this personality self- body making it an increasingly resonant vehicle for the soul self to interface with the spacetime world. However, at all stages of this complex uplift process, vestiges of the basic animal instincts and drives are present to varying degrees in the personality self. Thus, the personality self has a basically independent will and emotional structure from the soul self but can entrain to that of the soul self with ever-increasing degrees of coherence. It is interesting that such a model would make the Darwinian evolutionists correct (with respect to the personality self -body) and the creationists correct (with respect to the soul self -body).

As to the God Self, when I was considerably younger I had many wonderful theories about God. Now that I am older, and perhaps more awake, I realize that my personality self is not sufficiently conscious to even begin to seriously understand what that concept means!

Of course, this overall construct looks like a type of two-stage stepdown transformer/transducer between what we call God and one of God's inventions "spacetime nature perturbed by free-will humans". Consciousness exists at each stage with much more existing at the soul level than at the personality self- level and, when a particular personality self -breaks down and dies, consciousness continues in the frequency domains of the soul self and the high self. Our working hypothesis concerning what is meant by the term "consciousness" is that it is a byproduct, or emergent property, of spirit entering dense matter.

All of this metaphor is useful to our understanding of nature, but very little of it has been proven in a way that is satisfactory to science. Thus, let us now put on our "science" hat and return to a discussion of our experimental observations. <sup>1</sup><https://www.tillerfoundation.org/william-tiller-his-story-1>

Luc Montagnier, Nobel-Winning Co-Discoverer of H.I.V., Dies at 89

The discovery of H.I.V. began in Paris on Jan. 3, 1983. Dr. Montagnier, an expert in retroviruses who directed the Viral Oncology Unit at the Pasteur Institute, received a piece of lymph node that had been removed from a 33-year-old man with AIDS. At that point, AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, had no known cause, no diagnostic tests and no effective treatments. Many doctors, though, suspected that the disease was triggered by a retrovirus, a kind of germ that slips into the host cell's DNA and takes control, in a reversal of the way viruses typically work; hence the name retro.

From this sample Dr. Montagnier's team spotted the culprit, a retrovirus that had never been seen before. They named it L.A.V., for lymphadenopathy associated virus. The Pasteur scientists, including Dr. Françoise Barré-Sinoussi, who later shared the Nobel with Dr. Montagnier, reported their landmark finding in the May 20, 1983, issue of the journal Science, concluding that further studies were necessary to prove L.A.V. caused AIDS.

The following year, the laboratory run by the American researcher Dr. Robert Gallo at the National Institutes of Health, published four articles in one issue of Science confirming the link between a retrovirus and AIDS. Dr. Gallo called his virus H.T.L.V.-III.

When the two samples were found to have come from the same patient, what had once been camaraderie between those two leading scientists exploded into a global public feud, spilling out of scientific circles into the mainstream press. Dr. Montagnier sued Dr. Gallo for using his discovery for a U.S. patent. The suit was settled out of court, mediated by Jonas Salk.

In 1986, the virus that causes AIDS, known by Americans as H.T.L.V.-III and the French as L.A.V., was officially given one name, H.I.V., for human immunodeficiency virus. The following year, President Ronald Reagan and Prime Minister Jacques Chirac of France stepped into the fray by signing an agreement to share patent royalties and proclaiming both scientists discoverers of the virus.

Note by Beverly Rubik: "Later in his life, Luc conducted maverick research on water and DNA, showing that DNA as a wave that could deliver its sequence of information across short distances into a sealed test tube of pure water. This is relevant to psychotronics, to say the least."

John has scanned many of the old issues, which were originally to be issued quarterly, but sometimes were published only semi-annually, annually, or not at all for a few years.

John asks "Does Anyone Have Copies of the USPA Newsletter?"

We need your help to find those issues that we need to complete the collection. The goal is to have the complete set published in our website for our members to view and or/download for their own library.

GOOD NEWS: Monarch Butterfly Numbers Soar in California After Dramatic Losses

The orange-winged insect's population increased from 2,000 in 2020 to nearly 250,000 in 2021

Smithsonian Contributor Margaret Osborne January 28, 2022
Monarch butterfly populations have increased hundredfold in overwintering sites in California after historically low numbers in 2020, per the Xerces Society for Invertebrate Conservation. Volunteers observed less than 2,000 monarchs in the state at the society's annual Thanksgiving count in 2020. Last year, they counted more than 247,000. "We're ecstatic with the results and hope this trend continues," says Emma Pelton, the Western Monarch Lead with the Xerces Society, in a statement. "There are so many environmental factors at play across their range that there's no single cause or definitive answer for this year's uptick, but hopefully it means we still have time to protect this species." Full article at: <https://www.smithsonianmag.com/smart-news/monarch-butterfly-numbers-soar-in-california-180979479/>

The Evolution of the USPA Periodicals

Since its first meeting in 1975, hundreds of top scientists, educators and researchers have made presentations at USPAs annual conferences. They are from the leading edges of their fields, especially regarding the phenomena of Mind-Body connection, energy and emerging technologies. The first audio recordings were made in 1978.

In 1985, USPA produced a perfect-bound Proceedings book for its tenth conference. It is a comprehensive and fully edited collection of abstracts and/or final papers submitted by twenty-eight of the more than fifty presenters at that year's conference. The difficulty of editing papers and formatting the collection for book publication, just weeks before a conference was rather daunting.

In 1986 the USPA Board decided to have a committee professionally edit submitted papers and print them in smaller groups, hence creating a series of six journals published between November of 1988 and the spring of 1993. Each Journal contains six to ten talks given at US Psychotronics Conferences during its first eighteen years. These Journals represent some of the best written USPA material of that time!

In 1993, with advances in computers and copiers, a change was made to print Annual Conference Proceedings again. Conference attendees could buy a copy right at the conference. At 260-400 pages, they were large spiral-bound hard-copy books!

In 2010 another switch was made and the proceedings were produced on CDs.

The 6 USPA Journals and 18 of our 19 Annual Proceedings can be purchased in pdf format from our webstore at <https://www.psychotronics.org/product-category/uspa-publications-journals-proceedings/> All USPA publications are copyright protected and are property of the USPA. They may not be reprinted without permission of the Board of USPA.

Section XII: USPA Conference Recordings – the Digitizing Project:

The Auction

Fall 2021 Update on this project: A new member of USPA has purchased copy of EVERY SINGLE Viable Conference Lecture We Have Every Produced. Talk about delving into a subject with intense purpose!! We can't "name names" but we can say "Thank You" to this newcomer for their support. We hope you are entertained, educated and enlightened as you watch and listen.

USPA has found itself "buried" under a mountain of priceless historical data in the form of audio cassettes, VHS Cassette Videos and DVD recordings. What are we going to do with all the originals??

We're had a silent auction, and the purchase in the purple box above resulted.

However, we are still offering deals on large quantities of this "hardcopy" media stash. Details have been printed in previous newsletters and can be supplied on request to gailinvermont@outlook.com or on the website at AUCTION.

We have doubles and quadruples of some of them. Let us know what you'd like and we'll give you a price you can't refuse! So, if you are interested in any of these items, please let us know. We are considering eBay! We'd rather sell them to you and ship direct than go through the Big E! Contact me gailinvermont@outlook.com Make us an offer we can't refuse. Help USPA save money. If we can sell enough of this merchandise, we can downsize our storage unit! ☺

What is USPA?

The United States Psychotronics Association (USPA) is a federally recognized, nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization founded in 1975 to serve as a focal point for scientific and technical exploration of the universe of esoteric, spiritual, and psychic arts in the United States of America.

The USPA has been hosting annual conferences for its membership since its formation and has featured countless individuals with cutting-edge viewpoints, research, or theories to share, allowing any interested persons to openly discuss their work.

What is Psychotronics?

USPA defines psychotronics as the science of mind-body-environment relationships, an interdisciplinary science concerned with the interactions of matter, energy, and consciousness.

Psychotronics involves the study, research, and applications of the physics and technology of the mind, brain, spirit, consciousness, and the underlying forces of life and nature – hence the term “psychotronics.” A true understanding of the universe must include the spiritual as well as the technical. USPA provides an opportunity for amateur researchers to present their findings along with the professionals. USPA stresses research, with documentation of results, and practical applications, rather than personal experience and unsupported hypotheses.

Section XVI – J.G. Gallimore’s Five Rare Books Are Now Available!

Jerry G. Gallimore was one of the founders of the USPA in 1975, and was a leading researcher in psychotronics and unusual energies until his untimely death in 1989.

All five of J.G. Gallimore’s rare books on psychotronics subjects and unusual energies have been reprinted by the United States Psychotronics Association (USPA) and are being made available at a fraction of the cost that used copies were being sold at online.

So rare have these books been, that only a few libraries in the entire world had them in their collections, and some original Gallimore’s books were being sold for several hundred dollars each online. However, with these newly reprinted volumes, each will be available for less than $30.00. All are: Available at Amazon.com

The Handbook of Unusual Energies: Volume 1 of Handbook of Unusual Energies	ISBN-10: 1543024998 ISBN-13: 978-1543024999	The first book of three volumes on unusual energies	468 Pages
Gallimore discusses in depth the research, discoveries, and inventions of all the major researchers in subtle energies, the aether, biological 62 fields, pyramid energy, radiesthesia, radionics, crystal transduction, and related subjects. These include the works of Baron Von Reichenbach's and his odic energy, Dr. Wilhelm Reich's orgone energy, Dr. Harold Burr's biological life fields, Kozyrev's time mirror, Edgar Cayce's transmission of energy, and related research done by many others. Of particular importance is Gallimore's 127 page chapter on radionics. In this chapter he discusses in depth the research and devices of Ruth Drown, T. Galen Hieronymus, Rho Sigma, Dr. L. P. Corte and other prominent people in the radionics field.
Collected Properties &amp; Writings of J. G. Gallimore: Volume 2	ISBN-10: 1543025048 ISBN-13: 978-1543025040	The second book of three volumes on unusual energies	258 Pages
This is the second book in the “Unusual Energies” series that J.G. Gallimore published. It covers Gallimore's research on Albert Abrams, the founder of modern radionics, psychological physics, psychic energy, thought resonance, subtle energies, crystals, and related subjects. In addition, a number of radionics devices are discussed, such as the De La Warr Diagnostic Instrument. And very helpfully, the rates are provided for substances, body organs, and medical diseases and disorders. I very interesting interview of Christopher Bird, conducted by J.G. Gallimore is provided, as well as a discussion of Walter Russell and his research

Relationship Between Parapsychology and Gravity: Volume 3	ISBN-10: 1543024947 ISBN-13: 978-1543024944	The third book of three volumes on unusual energies	228 Pages

This book describes in depth the research and theories of J.G. Gallimore into the question of parapsychology transmission" -the question of how such things as telepathy, remote viewing, ESP, and similar phenomena can physically occur.

He discusses the various emanations, radiations, and energy fields of all matter and life including the ancient Chinese energy called "chi" (qi), the ancient Indian's prana energy, Reichenback's "odic force," Gurwitsch's "mitogenic radiation," Wilhelm Reich's orgone energy, and other subtle energies. He shows how all of these energies are similar, how they interact, and how they are related to gravity.

He also discusses crystals as transducers of these energies, and provides diagrams of devices that could potentially be used to harness or control these energies.

Transverse Paraphysics: The New Science of Space, Time, and Gravity Control	ISBN-10: 1543024920 ISBN-13: 978-1543024920		374 Pages
--	--	--	-----------

This book covers the visionary research and theories developed by J.G. Gallimore about anti-gravity, space, time, and biophysics.

He discusses in depth the dimensions of space, time, and gravity, and new discoveries in each of these areas. In addition, he covers research being done on anti-gravity and then discusses anti-gravity patents that have been obtained.

He also discusses the intriguing concept of aura energy fields surrounding humans and other living things, and how extra-sensory perception (ESP) might be explained through biophysical principles.

Unified Field Theory Research Book: Using Subjective Response to Psi-Plasma for Analysis of Properties Neutral Charge Plasma Fields	ISBN-10: 1543024831 ISBN-13: 978-1543024838		134 Pages

This book is about psychotronics, radionics, electromagnetic fields and waves, psi-plasma, plasma fields, subtle energies, bio-electromagnetic energy, and other unusual energies emitted by living and non-living things. It also is about how living things interact with and are affected by these energies, which may enhance health or harm health.

The book covers the research of Wilhelm Reich on Orgone energy, of Baron Reichenback on the odic forces, as well as research done by Cazzamalli on brain radiations and Lakhovsky on using high frequency radiations to successfully treat cancer in humans. In addition, Lakhovsky used similar methods to enhance the growth of plants. Gallimore shows how these energies, forces, and fields are all inter-related and provides hypotheses and ideas on their possible unification.
